Mock Trial!

An entertainment which deserved a crowded house, was the Mock Trial given at the Newton Y. M. C. A. rooms on Wednesday night. The weather and the other attractions of Halloween were jointly responsible for the slim attendance, but those who came had a most enjoyable evening. The principal case tried was the action for breach of promise brought by Mrs. Jerusha R. Perkins impersonated by Mrs. Lulu S. Upham against Mr. Edward L. Bacon in which damages were fixed at $11.48. William F. Bacon was the judge, Mr. Carl Ellison, court crier, Mr. C. V. Moore, court officer, J. C. Brimblecom, clerk, Col. Newton counsel for plaintiff and Mr. E. V. Newton counsel for the defendant. Alderman Thomas Weston and Miss Jennie Leeman were witnesses for the plaintiff and Miss Hutchinson and Dr. Naylor and Mr. D. Fletcher Barber for defence. The alleged plot hinged upon the attempts of Mr. Bacon to woo Miss Jerusha Ray Perkins, the niece, and the efforts of Jerusha Rugg Perkins, the widow to accept him herself. Col. Newton had arranged a most entertaining comedy, in which many local hits and witty situations occur. Mrs. Lopham was the star of the occasion. Her makeup, acting and stage business were equally funny. The witnesses took their parts well, Mr. Barber's description of a dog fight being very well done.

Mr. Weston told a straightforward story of finding plaintiff in the defendant's arms and seeing him plant an 'osculation' on her lips. Miss Leeman also saw the plaintiff in the arms of the defendant and heard her say that "Eddie had proposed." The defendant had then grabbed his hat and ran. Mr. Bacon said he was in love with Jerusha R. Perkins, the niece, and had been obliged to sit up one night with the widow to tire her out so that the next night he could see the niece. Dr. Naylor said the plaintiff was a mono-klepto-dipsomaniac. Miss Hutchinson as the niece made a charming witness and her languishing glances at the defendant brought down the house.

The closing arguments of counsel and the fainting spell of the widow were capably done. The jury composed of Theodore Roosevelt, and other prominent men, brought in a verdict for the plaintiff without leaving their seats, with damages fixed at $11.98, of which $11. went to the jury and .98 to the judge.

Previous to the breach of promise case the court sentenced Mr. William F. Garcelon to the Mass. Legislature for life for aiding and abetting female suffrage at the last city election; and Rev. Dr. Butters was sentenced to become a life member of the Y. M. C. A. for over exertion in the gymnasium. The cases against Francis E. Stanley for running his automobile at less than the legal speed limit was dismissed by the judge who declared such a charge as preposterous. Similar action was taken on the charge that Hon. Samuel L. Powers had talked in his sleep, the judge remarking that it was impossible to prevent Mr. Powers from talking.

Mr. Furber

Mr. Edward H. Furber, a retired Boston business man, passed away at his home on Washington street, Auburndale, last Saturday. He was a native of Somerville and was 58 years of age. A family survive him. Funeral services were held from the house Monday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock. Rev. Edward T. Sullivan, rector of Trinity church, Newton Centre, officiating, and the Mendelssohn quartette sang, "Passing out of the Shadow," "Some Sweet Day" and "Lead Kindly Light." The burial was in the family lot in Mount Auburn Cemetery.

The officers and directors of the New England National Bank, located at the corner of Milk and Devonshire streets, include some of the strongest men in Boston, consisting of John T. Bradlee, retired merchant of State St., J. Herbert Sawyer, retired manufacturer, a former resident of Newton, Gen. Francis Henry Appleton, of Peabody and Boston, ex-senator and prominent in state affairs, Henry Parkman, treasurer Provident Institution for Savings, the largest Savings Bank in New England, Roland W. Toppam president Arkwright Mutual Fire Insurance Co., Edwin S. Webster, a resident of Chestnut Hill, of Stone & Webster, electrical engineers and street railway managers, Charles W. Jones, president and Stephen W. Holmes, of Newton, vice president, who was elected vice president in January 1900.

Bad Fire

The fire department had a bad blaze yesterday noon when box 336 the private number of the Woodland Park Hotel was rung about one o'clock. The fire started in the attic from an unknown cause and was undiscovered for some time.

John Burns, a bellboy, was in the office when his attention was attracted by the automatic annunciator ringing violently and displaying a call from one of the upper stories. He ran to the fourth floor, saw smoke issuing from a door leading to a long storeroom, and rushed down to notify Proprietor Frederick Wilkey.

The hotel fire call was sounded and the fire hose run out, while the guests were ordered to vacate their rooms. By this time the upper floors were filled with dense black smoke, and the flames, which had burst through the roof of the left wing, were fanned by a stiff wind, eating their way toward the main building.

An alarm had been rung in, and when the first pieces of apparatus arrived the entire wing roof was a mass of flames. Chief Randlett sounded a second and third alarm, and assistance was summoned from Waltham, Watertown and Wellesley, from each of which places a steamer and hose wagon responded. A great volume of water was poured upon the building, but it was more than an hour before the flames were under control. The fire itself was entirely confined to the top story of the left wing.

The department deserves the highest eulogiums for the manner in which the fire was handled. A Boston fireman who witnessed the blaze was out spoken in his praise of Chief Randlett.

The damage will amount to less than $5000 fully covered by insurance.

The fire attracted hundreds of spectators who viewed the spectacular sight from a safe distance. While the left wing of the hotel will be useless until rebuilt, Proprietor Wilkey quickly made arrangements for housing all of his 30 guests. The billiard hall will be utilized for a dining room for the present, and the guests will suffer but little inconvenience.

CLAFLIN GUARD NOTES.

Last week was the anniversary of the "Reign of the Georges" and after drill was over the boys found a collation awaiting them in the lower drill hall, they fell in with the idea very readily and with song and story made the remainder of the evening a pleasant reminder of the first anniversary.

On Saturday, Nov. 3, at the Walnut Hill range a team from the Claflin Guard with Lieut. Daniels in command, will measure strength with a team from the Claflin Guard Veteran Association, in an endeavor to see who shall hold the Silver Cup, which is contested for annually, for the ensuing year.

J. W. Hopkins for many years a member of the Claflins, and a former Sergeant in the company, has been appointed Corporal-Cook by Capt. Guilford to fill the vacancy caused by the passing of Corp.-Cook A. Connell, who has withdrawn for business reasons.

On account of the splendid and remarkably accurate close order and extended order drill, which the company has been executing, and considering that no further advance is possible in that line, Capt. Guilford will, commencing Monday night institute squad drill, which means the Corporals will each command his own squad giving them practical and theoretical instruction under the supervision of the Sergeants and officers.

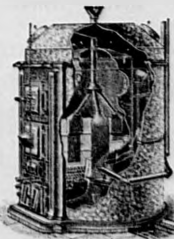

Maj. Dearing, Regt. Surgeon was out last week, and examined several applicants for enlistments, and found them physically competent to enter military life.

The indoor rifle range has resumed operations for the winter season, under Corp. Wenmouth. Sufficient to say it will be well attended to, as Corp. Wenmouth is one of the most promising non-coms in the company.

The company will hold a dance Thanksgiving afternoon and evening, once more giving the young people of Newton an opportunity of enjoying the day in the favorite dancing hall of Newton, viz. the Armory.

Camp Fire and Rally

J. Wiley Edmonds, Camp 31 Sons of Veterans will hold a camp fire and patriotic rally at G. A. R. hall, Newtonville, next Wednesday evening. Rev. Maurice Levy of Medford and Ex-Mayor Ramsdell of Lynn will speak and there will be good music and refreshments. An invitation is extended to all veterans of the civil war, their sons and grandsons to be present.

"Moran is Unfit"

Read What Leaders of John B. Moran's Own Party Say of Him:

"We feel obliged to state our conviction of the fundamental unfitness of Mr. Moran to fill the high and dignified office of governor of Massachusetts. The obligations of good citizenship are superior to those of partisanship; we are citizens of an honorable commonwealth charged with our share of the duty of maintaining and advancing her standards of government even before we are Democrats."—J. A. Sullivan, Josiah Quincy, Arthur Lyman, J. C. Burke, E. L. Arundel, Nicholas J. Skerrett.

Mr. Moran as a Leader.

Congressman John A. Sullivan, a member of Mr. Moran's own party, says that Moran's assumption of leadership is certainly ominous of consequences, and he likens it to being whirled madly about in the delirious circles of the tarantella while in the grasp of a political acrobat.

DO YOU WANT A POLITICAL ACROBAT IN THE GOVERNOR'S CHAIR?

Mr. Moran as a Public Official.

Speaking again Mr. Sullivan says: "If his manner of conducting grand jury proceedings is to be taken hereafter as the official standard in Massachusetts well may those honest citizens who value reputation above all things else exclaim: 'God Save the Commonwealth of Massachusetts!'"

The secretary of the Boston Bar Association shows that during Moran's term as district attorney the cases pending have more than doubled, the indictments pending have more than trebled. His predecessor reduced the number of cases pending more than one-half. He has released 100 more criminals than his predecessor. Many less cases have come to successful conviction. The expenses of the office have been increased 30 per cent.

The Public Record of E. Gerry Brown.

Democratic and Independence League Candidate for LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR.

The Democratic candidate for lieutenant-governor has been a political will-o'-wisp for years. He started as a GREENBACKER.

Touched the REPUBLICAN party in 1882. Flew to the support of Benjamin F. Butler as a DEMOCRATIC candidate for governor.

Identified himself with the POPULIST movement, and became very prominent in the affairs of that particularism.

Was a leader in the WORKINGMEN'S POLITICAL LEAGUE.

Again went back to the DEMOCRATIC party and ran for state office on that ticket.

Has run for mayor of Brookton under various party appellations.

Now becomes prominent as a DEMOCRAT and a leader in the INDEPENDENCE LEAGUE.

One of the admirers and satellites of William R. Hearst.

This remarkable Political Changeling has shown himself to be a man of no settled conviction and one entirely incapable of rising to the dignity of state management upon any fixed policy.

Associated Charities

At the meeting of the Associated Charities on Oct. 25, the society voted to send the secretary as delegate to the Mass. Conference of Charities and Connection to be held in Worcester Nov. 14, 15 and 16.

The members present were very much interested in the account given by the Rev. James J. Redican, of the Working-Boys Industrial School on Winchester street, Newton Highlands.

The society that maintains this school has its office in Boston. The institution at the Highlands is intended as a home and school for homeless boys, whether orphans or not, but very seldom receives a boy from the courts. At one time among 133 boys, 118 were born in the United States, 1 in Wales, 1 in Ireland, 1 in Italy, 4 in Austria and 8 in Canada. Though a Catholic institution it sometimes shelters Protestant boys. It sometimes cares for colored boys, and has had one Indian. Until within a year the teaching and housework has been done by nuns, but at present all the work, outside and in, is done by Brothers of a Belgian Order, and there are no women in the institution. There are at present 139 boys in the school. Within four years there have been 38 Newton boys in the school, just now there is only one.

The school has about seventy acres of land cultivated by the Brothers with the assistance of the boys, who however do not take kindly to farming. The principal industry is printing, though the boys are also trained in tailoring, cobbling, the common school branches and all kinds of house work. They are generally retained in the school until they are fitted for work outside, which is usually secured for them.

The institution is not endowed, has no State nor City aid. It is supported entirely by charity. It is assisted by a Ladies Aid Society of Newton. For a few of the boys a small board is paid, only one boy paying as much as $8 a month. There are at present 139 boys in the school.

Father Redican's address gave to some members of the Associated Charities, their first knowledge that such an institution as this School for Working Boys exists within the borders of Newton.

Bridge Whist

The Nonantum Day Nursery was benefited to the extent of $170 by the bridge whist held last Monday afternoon at the beautiful residence of Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Harwood, on Waverley avenue, Newton. Sixteen tables were in play, and Mrs. Harwood was assisted by Miss Emma E. Anger and Miss Lancaster. The prizes were won by Miss Hosmer, Mrs. C. L. Travelli, Mrs. Henry Whitmore, Miss Helen Hull, and Mrs. W. M. Flanders. After cards had been laid aside, Miss Marion Hobbs and Miss Mary Kendall, assisted by Miss Green as accompanist, sang several selections in a most enjoyable manner. Candy and flowers were donated for the occasion and the candy table was the centre of much interest as well as profit.

Improvement Society

The first entertainment in the annual series under the auspices of the Auburnville Village Improvement Society was given in Norumbega hall Monday evening before a large audience. The talent was the Cecilia Operetta Company consisting of Annie Estelle Hollis, soprano; Edith MacGregor Woods, contralto; Robert Hall, tenor and Edward O. Osgood, bass. Mr. Charles P. Scott was the musical director and the first part of the program was of a miscellaneous character. The second part was an artistic rendering of "The Sleeping Queen," a standard operetta in one act by H. B. Farnie.

Central Church

At Central church, Newtonville, next Sunday evening at 7.30, Prof. Edward A. Steiner of Iowa College will speak on "Recent Observations in Russia." Prof. Steiner who has just returned from Russia, is well known in this country through his writings in the Outlook and other prominent publications and is considered one of America's keenest observers seeing through his heart and sympathies as well as his eyes. This will be his only appearance in the East this winter and this address is the first of a series to be given by men of national prominence, during the season, under the auspices of the Central Club. The afternoon service at the church will be omitted. The public will be cordially welcome and no fee will be charged or collection taken.

High School Notes

The football game with Noble and Greenough for last Saturday was cancelled. The game with Rindge Manual Training School for Tuesday was also cancelled, but we played M. T. 1909 instead, losing by the close score of 6 to 5.

The game scheduled for Friday is with the Tufts College Freshmen.

In the girls tennis tournament Elsie Harrington won the first cup and Elizabeth Blaney the second.

Porter, who plays right half-back on the football team, is suffering from a dislocated shoulder received in the St. Mark's game.

Jarvis Lanson formerly of the class of 1908 is going to Dunham Academy, where he is playing right half-back on the football team.

The girls hockey team has been picked by the captain, Mary Whitcomb.

Y. M. C. A.

One of the most impressive meetings ever held in the Association Rooms was that where Fanny J. Crosby, the blind hymn writer, told the story of her life and how she came to write some of her beautiful hymns. Miss Crosby is 86 years of age but her voice was strong and every one could hear her distinctly. The story of her unselfish and consecrated life will long be remembered and it should inspire many to serve humanity with the best talents they have and what ever their lot.

Rev. C. H. Patten, Home Secretary of the A. B. F. M. will address the older boys and young men at the Association Rooms Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Any young man or boy over 14 years will be welcome.

The Camera Club has now on exhibition in the reception room a large number of vacation pictures taken by members of the club. The public is invited to view the pictures afternoon and evening. The exhibition will close next Wednesday when awards will be made for the best picture and the best group.

Women

The next meeting of the Newton Ladies Home Circle will be held in the parlors of the Baptist church, West Newton, Wednesday, Nov. 7.

Amendment to Charter

At the State Election next Tuesday, the citizens of Newton will be called upon to vote "Yes" or "No" on the following amendment to the city charter. The amendment substitutes the following for the present section 16.

Section 16. The mayor may, in writing, suspend any executive officer or any work, and he shall at once report his action and his reasons therefor to the board of aldermen. Unless a regular meeting of the board is to be held within fourteen days thereafter, the mayor shall forthwith call a special meeting of the board for the purpose of acting on such suspension. Work suspended by the mayor may be carried on at his discretion until action is taken by the board. If the board shall, within fifteen days after receiving a report suspending any executive officer, vote that the mayor's action be not sustained, such officer shall at once be reinstated; otherwise, such suspension shall be a removal, and the mayor acting upon such suspension of the board shall, if he so requests in writing, give such officer an opportunity to appear and be heard in his own behalf.

The articles indicate the new matter in the amendment and the following section of the present charter will be omitted: "The suspension of any such officer, shall, in fifteen days after said report is made, be a removal, unless within that time he asks for a hearing before the board, which shall forthwith be granted, and upon the conclusion of such hearing, the board vote that the mayor's suspension be not sustained, in which case the officer shall be at once reinstated."

While the change is slight, the effect will be to relieve the mayor from appearing as a prosecuting attorney before the aldermen at and hearing on the suspension of a city official. The new law will allow the accused officer a hearing in his own behalf if desired.

Ex Mayor Weed's letter in another column sets forth the reasons for the change.

1907 Budget

Mayor Warren's estimates of receipts and expenses for 1907 were sent to the board of aldermen this week. The total amount approved by the mayor on account of 1907 is $1,097,604.55 an increase of $42,000 over 1906 and about $20,000 less than the several departments desired. There is a gratifying increase of some $61,000 in the estimated receipts, the corporation tax jumping $42,000 to $142,000; the national bank tax $16,000 to $38,000 and an increase of $3,000 on interest on taxes.

The mayor has been rather liberal in the matter of salaries, several increases being noted, including a general and deservingly raise for the assistant librarians. The Assessors get a small increase to allow the triennial copying of valuation books for the use of the state. The Charity department cuts its Care of Sick Poor account, $1500. The City Messenger saves a little in carriage hire for aldermen and committees. The Fire Department saves $2000, principally on account of less repairs to apparatus. Incidentally the Laundry item of $200 is cut out and the firemen will seemingly have to get along next year without clean linen. The Health department jumps nearly $9000, increased cost of garbage collection, ashes removal, care of contagious sick and medical inspection of schools being responsible. The Wire department saves a little on its maintenance, the conduit system, evidently beginning to get in its work. Two new branches are added to the Library plant and with the increased salaries, $2000 more is needed. The Police get $1000 for the usual increases in pay. Public Buildings received $2700 increase, mostly for general repairs. The Schools, of course, come in for a large addition, $14,000 increase being approved, of which $13,000 is for salaries and $1000 for Evening schools. The Sealer of Weights and Measures modestly asks and receives an increase of $15, for expenses. The Street department is another place where more money is needed, $16,000 increase being noted. The new drain account, (which ought never to be charged to the annual tax levy) is raised $4000 to $16,500, maintenance of streets is increased $10,000 intended for work on Commonwealth avenue and Washington st., and the moths will cost $2500 more than the present year. The maintenance of sewers is costing more, $3000 being added. The Street Light account drops $2500 on the new contract made by Mayor Warren. The Treasury department is about a stand off with the present year, decreases of $11,000 in serial bonds and $1600 in interest being offset with a $13,500 addition to the sinking fund account.

Mayor Warren recommends that the water department expense be paid from the water income as usual, the account being increased some $1600. There is a total decrease in the water total of about $5000, the interest requirements going down $12,000 while the sinking funds go up over $4000. The total expense for this department is $11,270.50 and the estimated income is $13,000. These figures give ample evidence for the GRAPHIC's contention that the water rates can and should be reduced.

Correspondence

To the Editor of the Newton Graphic:

At the state election the following question will be submitted to the voters of Newton on the official ballot—"Shall chapter 254 of the acts of the year nineteen hundred and six, providing that executive officers of the City of Newton may be removed without the formal procedure of a public trial, be accepted by the city?" As many voters may not be familiar with the act in question, the reason for its enactment or the advantage of its adoption, I desire to offer the following explanation of its purpose.

All of the executive officers of the City under the present charter are appointed by the mayor subject to confirmation by the board of aldermen, and, with the exception of the assessors and overseer of the poor, hold office until they resign or are removed. Inasmuch as the present charter vests in the mayor the sole responsibility for the executive branch of the city government, it has been commonly assumed that he had the right to remove the executive officers. Such, however, is very far from the fact. The mayor's right is only to suspend such an executive officer, and his duty is immediately to report his action and his reasons therefor to the board of aldermen. Such suspension may become a removal unless within fifteen days the suspended officer applies to the board of aldermen for a hearing. If the suspended officer must be given him by the board, and thereupon, if the board votes that the action of the mayor be not sustained the officer is at once reinstated.

From this provision of the charter it is evident that in the hearing before the board, the suspended officer is in the position of a defendant and has a right to have the charges upon which his removal is sought presented and proved against him and opportunity given him to disprove the same. And in this proceeding the board of aldermen must act as a judicial tribunal. It follows that a mayor cannot safely suspend an executive officer unless he is prepared to assume the task of establishing before the board of aldermen the reasons assigned for suspending the officer required by the charter, by evidence which is competent to prove facts in a court of law. The difficulty in the way of procuring such evidence, except in cases of the grossest official misconduct, is so great that a mayor might with good reason prefer to allow an unfit official to remain in office rather than to risk a public humiliation from inability to obtain and present suitable evidence to establish his reasons to the satisfaction of the board. The impropriety of compelling a mayor to become the public prosecutor of an officer for whose official conduct the mayor is responsible so long as the officer is continued in office, is so apparent as to require no further comment.

The act which is to be submitted for acceptance by the voters at the state election, is designed to take care of this embarrassment by a very simple change, namely, to make the suspension subject to confirmation by the board of aldermen and to require the board before action to permit the suspended officer, if he so requests, to appear before the board and be heard in his own behalf. By this provision the anomaly of a public trial before the board with the mayor as prosecutor and the suspended officer as defendant is avoided, and at the same time the right of the officer to be heard by the Board in his own behalf before final action on his case, is preserved.

The provision in this 1906 act is similar to the charter of 1882 relative to removals and this 1882 charter was in force fifteen years without any friction or criticism over this particular matter. Charters which have recently been granted by the legislature have as a rule contained far more summary powers of removal than the act about to be submitted. For example in the act just passed granting a city charter to Westfield and following in many particulars the present Newton charter, the provision as to suspension is the same but while a hearing is provided for, it is to be held before the mayor and the board of aldermen and at its close the mayor alone has the right to decide whether or not the suspended officer shall be reinstated.

No one can be more earnestly in favor of protecting public officials from political reprisals and of continuing them in office indefinitely so long as they are honest, faithful and efficient, than I am. But nothing in the past municipal history of Newton justifies the belief that honest, faithful and efficient officials have ever been, or are likely to be, in serious danger of removal. On the other hand there is serious danger, and in at least one instance in the recent past, there was actual danger, that in our efforts to protect the honest, faithful and efficient official from a bugaboo, we may at the same time protect the dishonest, faithless or inefficient official from receiving promptly and surely the just reward for his misconduct or inefficiency.

Alonso R. Weed.

Political Notes

It has been well said that the best campaign contribution this year is to pick out the candidate who most nearly represents the ideas of decency and give him a vote.

The one issue which stands out prominently in this campaign is whether the people of Massachusetts want mountebankism in the office of governor and lieutenant-governor of the state or whether they want dignity and the ability which does things for the common good.

Massachusetts is a state proud of its dignity of administration, proud of its traditions and careful of the character of its legislation. Regardless of party affiliations there is in the heart of every man that has conscientious pride in his state which makes him feel drawn to the men who can best exemplify these traditions which are so dear. With these feelings there cannot possibly be any doubt in the minds of thinking men where their support should be placed this year. All other issues seem to dwindle into insignificance by the side of this one which demands that every good citizen should uphold the honor and dignity of the state administration by making it impossible for political radicalism, founded upon selfishness and nurtured by deceit, to gain a foothold in the affairs of Massachusetts.

Two rallies in the interest of James H. Vahey of Watertown, democratic candidate for senator in the 1st Middlesex district, were held in this city Monday night.

The rallies were simultaneously conducted in Lafayette hall, Nonantum, and Nonantum hall, Newton Corner, each attracting a large number. Members of the Newton democratic club paraded the streets headed by a file and drum corps and the same speakers appeared at each rally.

James H. Vahey was the principal speaker and scored the record of Edward L. McManus, republican candidate for senator in the district.

John H. O'Brien of Clinton paid a warm tribute to Mr. Vahey in his work in defending Charles L. Tucker. The other speakers at both rallies were Stanley Bishop of Brookline, William C. Maguire of Boston, William H. Dietzman of Clinton and Andrew Hughes, James A. O'Donnell and William H. Thomas of Newton, the three last named being candidates for representative from this city.

Real Estate

Through the office of Alvord Bros., Arthur S. Tucker has purchased the Hubbard estate at 108 Charles street, corner of Riverside street, at Riverside Station, Auburndale. The property consists of a large frame house and 37,075 feet of land, including five house lots. The property is taxed for $6200 of which $3200 is on the land.

Alvord Bros. have leased the following: For Mrs. Mary F. Judkins, her single house at 62 Edinboro street, Newtonville, to the Misses E. and M. A. Hall; for Mr. J. White, his house at 45 Brooks avenue, Newtonville, to Mrs. J. Setters of Newton; for Geo. M. Bridges, an apartment in his 2 family house at 26 Clarendon street, Newtonville, to H. A. Shadd; the house at 228 Langley Rd., Newton Centre, for Mr. McKean, to Mrs. M. L. Gould. The stable and land on Gibbs and Everett streets, for E. B. Bowen, to W. E. Parker; suites in the "Warren" at Newton, to Albert E. B. Clay, Miss Ethel Butts, Miss Mary L. Butler, and D. C. Davis, also suites in the "Marion" to E. F. McCobb and Charles Vagt.

Henry H. Read has sold for Miss Helen Dudley a lot of land of Chesley road, Newton Centre, containing about 1700 square feet. The purchaser was Mr. Mellen Bray.

BELGRADE RUG COMPANY.

Worn-out and cast-off carpets are not useless, after all. The Belgrade Rug Company, at 32 Hollis street, Boston, Mass., have a way of re-making them in such a way that they not only make a beautiful appearance but that they prove durable in the use of them. Don't throw away your old carpets when they seem hopeless. See what the Belgrade Rug Company can do with them, no matter how torn and unattractive. They issue a circular which states briefly what goods make the handsomest rugs, etc., as well as price list and shipping directions.

At the state election next Tuesday, the voters of Newton will be asked to accept or reject a proposed amendment to the city charter. We believe this amendment should be accepted. Newton has long been noted for the high standard of its city officials, and the civil service feature, which has been in effect for nearly 25 years has served to keep the good men in office. At the time the life tenure was placed in the city charter,
the power of removal was vested in the aldermen. This charter, for fifteen years worked without friction so far as the city officials were concerned, and it is now proposed to return to the same condition, if the amendment is accepted on Tuesday next. The 1898 charter, while keeping the life tenure for most of the city officers, changed the removal clause,
so that the mayor would be obliged to appear before the aldermen, as a public prosecutor against any city official he deemed unfit for the public service. Ex Mayor Weed has sent us a letter on this subject which we commend to our readers. We can only add that in our opinion, based on 20 years service in City Hall, the proposed change is both right
and proper and is backed with 15 years
of actual experience in our own municipal life.

With party lines more or less obliterated,
the gubernatorial situation at the close of the campaign is so complicated that the best political experts are all at sea. The record of Massachusetts in the past and the well known intelligence of its electorate give reasons for the hope that the Moran boom will be so completely smashed next Tuesday, that there will be no such thing as a political future in that gentleman's biography. If this highly desirable result will not be reached if Newton Republicans carelessly vote for Moran "just for fun" or "to see what he could do if elected," or if the self confident and lazy voter, leaves
to others the task of electing Gov.
Guild. It can only be done with the vote
and active support of every patriotic citizen of Newton.

The danger of turning our beloved Commonwealth over to the tender mercies
of a self seeking sensationalist,
whose word and work are alike unreliable, is imminent, and the time has now arrived when all conservative citizens of every party, should unite to protect the name and the fame of the old Bay State.

Mayor Warren's estimates of the finances of 1907 show a gratifying increase in receipts, which more than covers the anticipated and necessary additions to the budget. The receipts are expected to be something like $60,000 more and the expenses something like $42,000 more than this year. The water department shows a cut of over $5000 in expenses
and emphasizes again the opportunity,
now neglected for nearly a year, to reduce the water rates. The increased expenses approved by the mayor are principally in the Health, Street and School departments, and are all absolutely necessary.

Senatorial candidate McManus will need every Republican vote in this city
if he is to be elected next Tuesday. The bitter feeling over the defeat of a candidate from the far western end of the district, has crystallized into a formidable independent movement for the democratic candidate. Newton Republicans have a direct interest in Mr. McManus' campaign, and should give him cordial support, not alone because he has shown himself an able legislator, but because there is crying need of harmonizing the Republican sentiment in this district. Vote for McManus for senator.

We extend our sympathy to the new agent of the board of health. His office is no sinecure, and his experience of twelve years in the department will be of value to himself as well as to the city.

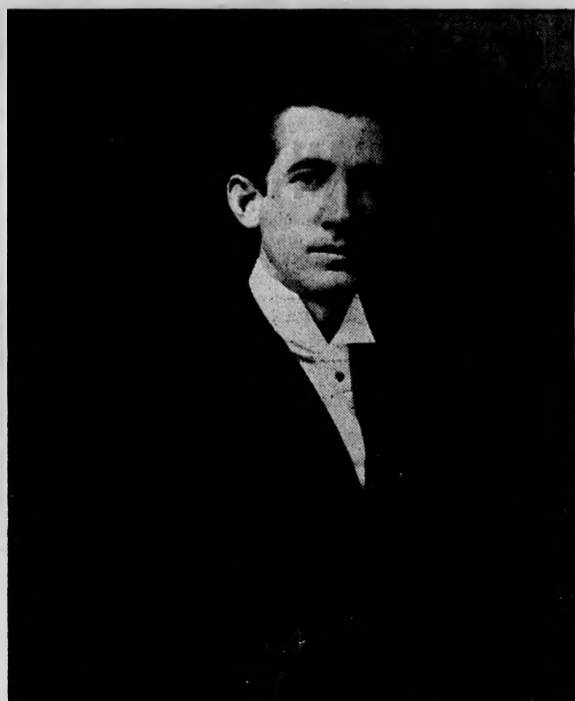

Mrs. C. A. Sweet

Mrs. Mary Perry Sweet, widow of the late Charles A. Sweet, passed away at her home on Grove street Tuesday afternoon after a long period of failing health.
She had been a resident of Abundant for many years and was much respected and beloved by all who knew her. One son and three daughters survive her. Funeral services were held from the house Thursday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock. Rev. Horace Dutton officiating and selections were rendered by the Congregational church quartette. The interment was in the family lot in Newton Cemetery.

In Grand Army hall, Newtonville, last evening, Charles Ward Post, 62, G. A.
R. was officially inspected by Assistant Inspector Haskell, Commander of Post 92 of Brighton. There was a good attendance including a number of the state officers.

An invitation dance will be given by Mrs. A. E. Cunningham Tent 2, D. of V., in Temple hall, Friday evening, Nov.
9. The affair will be under the direction of Miss Katherine Flood and a committee of ladies.

FOR SENATOR, FIRST MIDDLESEX DISTRICT

JAMES H. VAHEY
OF WATERTOWN.

Regular Democratic Nominee, endorsed by Independent Republicans

VAHEY ACCEPTS McMANUS' CHALLENGE FOR A JOINT DEBATE.

Boston, Mass., October 31, 1906.
Hon. Edward L. McManus,
4 Lincoln Street,
Natick, Mass.

Dear Sir:—
I have your favor of the 30th instant,
in which you say that you "believe the citizens of Framingham would prefer to listen to you and me concerning the issues of the campaign Thursday evening
next, in preference to listening to other speakers," and requesting an opportunity to meet me on that occasion.

It seems extraordinary that you should have postponed a request for a joint discussion until this late hour when all the plans of the campaign have been arranged, and when you must have known that any acceptance of your challenge would upset plans previously made.

I have promised the citizens of Hollis-ton to address them on Thursday evening, the night that you request me to meet you, and I intend to keep that promise.

As you are well aware, the rally at Framingham is being arranged by the citizens of that town who believe that,
without regard to party, your election to the senate would be detrimental to the interests of the people of the district, and I occupy the position of a guest invited to discuss that proposition. I have no right to invite you to be present.

In order that there may be no possible
misunderstanding, and that the opportunity for us jointly to discuss from the same platform your record in the legislature should not be lost, and as the plans of the Holliston and Framingham citizens cannot at this late hour be interfered with, I accept your challenge, and will debate with you in the city of Newton, the largest place in the district, on Saturday evening next, the issues of the senatorial campaign.

I deny your right to name the place,
date, and terms of a joint discussion between us. I am engaged to speak every night during the campaign, some nights
twice, and one night three times.

I have arranged to address the citizens of Sherborn on Saturday evening
next, but as the advertising has not gone out, will ask them to release me from this engagement in order to meet you. I shall endeavor to meet them on Monday night.

The city of Newton is overwhelmingly Republican, and I understand you rely largely upon the support of its citizens for your election. I am very anxious to present your record to them, and that you should have the opportunity to reply. The advantage, therefore, in place of debate, will be entirely with you.

Concerning the matter of expenses, I,
too, am paying my own bills, and will be glad to divide with you the actual cost of the meeting.

Please let me know at once whether or not you agree to this arrangement,
and designate someone to represent you to take care of the details. It is important that this should be done now.

Yours truly,
James H. Vahey,
8 Patten St.,
Watertown.

October 31, 1906.
James H. Vahey, Esq., 18 Tremont Street,
Boston, Mass.

Dear Sir:—
Your letter of October 31st received at 2:30 P. M.

I note that you refuse to have a joint discussion in Framingham because you are the guest of the citizens of Framingham
and Holliston on Thursday night.

I am informed that R. H. Long, Esq., of Framingham, hired the hall for your rally and that he is financially backing
your campaign. I know that certain employees of Mr. Long circulated your so-called, "Independent Republican" nomination papers.

You also claim that there are 400 disgruntled Republicans in Framingham, Ashland, Hopkinton, Holliston and Sherborn. Now, Framingham is the centre of the surrounding towns and the citizens of the above named towns can readily attend a rally in Framingham.

R. H. Long, Esq., has influence enough to hire the Opera House or the Rink for Saturday evening or Monday evening next. You can have your choice.

There is no need of a rally in Newton as the citizens of Newton with full knowledge of my legislative record endorsed the same by the unanimous vote
of their Senatorial delegation.

The people of Framingham, Ashland, Hopkinton, Holliston and Sherborn are anxious, however, to see us both on the same platform and hear us present our own claims.

If you could meet me in Newton Saturday, why can't you meet me in Framingham, Saturday?

You can probably reach Mr. Long by telephone and if he is successful in securing the necessary hall for Saturday or Monday next, let me know the day and hour and I will be there.

Very truly yours,
(Signed) Edward L. McManus.
Dict. E. L. M.

Boston, Mass., November 1, 1906.
Hon. Edward L. McManus,
4 Lincoln Street,
Natick, Mass.

Dear Sir:—
In reply to your favor of the 31st ultimo, I have to say that it is now perfectly apparent that you do not wish to have a joint discussion with me on your legislative record.

It is utterly impossible to postpone the meeting of Monday night at Newton,
which you must have known was to take place, and which has already been advertised for several days.

I make no distinction among the voters
of this district who choose to support me,
whether they be employees or employers.
I feel very proud of the support of the employees in Mr. Long's factory at Framingham, as well of the employees
in every other factory in that town. It must be obvious to you now, as it is to both employee and employer in Hopkinton, Holliston, Sherborn, Ashland, and Natick, that the reason they revolt against your candidacy is because they can no longer trust you to represent them faithfully.

Your corporation record in the legislature makes it impossible for them to believe that you can be depended upon to battle with the United Shoe Machinery trust at the next session of the senate. In fact, there is a well found belief in the whole section of the district in which you belong and where you are best known, that you will actively enlist yourself in support of shoe machinery trust measures.

Both Mr. Long, whom I have known but a very short time, but in that short space have learned to greatly admire and respect, and the other employers of labor in the district, and employees as well,
believe that the monopoly of shoe machinery now enjoyed by the United Shoe Machinery trust is a source of great danger to them, and that it will tend to decrease the wages of employees and to the profits of employers. I object, with them,
to any further extension of this monopoly,
and their reason for wanting to send
you to the senate is because they know
they can rely upon my most earnest efforts in their behalf. Not only the employers of labor, but the labor unions in your end of the district, because of your corporation record, have endorsed my candidacy.

Your gratuitous insult to employees will, no doubt, be resented by them at the polls.

You are deceiving yourself as to the situation in Newton. You secured the nomination before the citizens of Newton were aware of your legislative record. Since they have learned what it is,
they have joined with the republicans in your end of the district in bolting your
candidacy.

A man who has had as much experience in the legislature as yourself, and who has been as skillful in the debates
in shops, knows full well that it is absolutely unfair to me to ask me to debate with you at Framingham on Saturday night concerning the same subject matter upon which I am to address the citizens on Thursday night. There is no objection, as far as I know, to your hiring the same hall for Friday night that I use on Thursday night, and if you are satisfied that the citizens of Framingham and surrounding towns wish to hear you as you appear to be, I have no doubt they will go to your meeting. That will not prevent us from meeting jointly your record at Newton on Saturday night. I can assure you you will have a tremendous audience and, perhaps, with your usual skill,
you will be able to persuade them that your votes in behalf of corporations and bucket shops really do not mean what they appear to indicate to the average voter, but were given solely out of your overwhelming love for the people.

Stop quibbling, and meet me Saturday night in your own stronghold, at Newton, or else voters of the district will realize your insincerity in making this proposition. If you are so sure of the approbation of the citizens of Newton you should not be afraid to meet them.

Yours truly,
(Signed) James H. Vahey,
8 Patten St.,
Watertown.

Among Women

In resuming the Woman's World column for another year the editor would greet the club women of Newton and thank them for their friendly cooperation last year and bespeak it for the coming season. In order that this column may be most efficient to all who are interested in the work of the clubs throughout the city, contributions are earnestly solicited, not only from the clubs comprising the Newton Federation, but from any and all women's clubs of the city. To insure publication the same week contributions should be received not later than Wednesday and should be addressed to Miss Grace M. Burt, 94 Charlesbank Road, Newton. Printed addressed envelopes will be forwarded to any club secretary or correspondent upon application.

By invitation of the Peabody Woman's Club the Massachusetts State Federation will meet in Peabody on Wednesday, Nov. 7. The place of meeting will be the South Congregational church, convenient to the railroad station and the Lynn & Salem electric cars.

The morning session will open at 10.30 o'clock, and will be devoted to reports of the St. Paul biennial. The afternoon session will begin at two o'clock. Mr. Enos A. Mills, the famous Long's Peak guide and State forester of Colorado, will make an address on "Our Friends, the Trees."

The new green Federation tickets will be necessary for admission to the sessions.

Luncheon tickets at fifty cents each may be obtained from Miss Frances A. Porter, 44 Washington street, Peabody, Mass., by sending an order with money enclosed and addressed and stamped envelope for the return of the ticket. All orders must be sent on or before Tuesday, Nov. 6.

The Federation Travelling Health Library with photographs will be on exhibition at the Peabody Institute, Peabody, at the time of the State Federation meeting.

The Waban Woman's Club will hold its first meeting for the season at the season at the home of Mrs. G. M. Angier, on Monday, November 5, at 2.30 P. M.

The first regular meeting of the West Newton Women's Educational Club will be held at the parlors of the Old Unitarian church on Friday, November 9, at 2.30. Mrs. Kate Stevens Bingham will give a stereopticon lecture on "The Ascent of Mt. Ranier."

The Social Science Club meets at the Hunnewell Club on Wednesday morning, November 7, at 10 o'clock.

The Newton Mothers' Club will meet on Monday, November 5, with Mrs. G. J. Jones, 29 Putnam St., West Newton. There will be an open debate.

The Newtonville Woman's Guild will meet at the New Church parlors, on Tuesday afternoon, November 6, at three o'clock. Miss Grace Chamberlain will read "King Rene's Daughter."

West Newton Women's Educational Club's Reception

The season of the West Newton Women's Educational Club opened very pleasantly with a reception at the home of Mrs. E. N. L. Walton, the Honorary President, on Friday afternoon, October 26. A large number of the members were out to exchange greetings after the summer vacation and a delightfully informal time was enjoyed. The guests were received by Mrs. H. K. Burrison, the new president, Mrs. Walton, and Miss Amelia Davis, one of the vice-presidents. The reception committee consisting of Mrs. T. M. Elwell, chairman, Mrs. Otis G. Robinson, Mrs. Alexander Bennett, Mrs. Samuel N. Fleming, Mrs. Ernest Fogg, Miss Grace M. Burt, acted as ushers. The dining room, which was attractively decorated with autumn foliage and barberries, was in charge of the hospitality committee, Mrs. Frank Booth chairman. Mrs. F. W. Putnam and Mrs. W. H. Bancroft presided over the tables, while they were assisted by the following ladies: Mrs. W. A. Clark, Mrs. W. G. Polson, Mrs. W. G. Hambleton, Mrs. J. P. Roberts, Mrs. C. E. A. Ross and Mrs. E. B. Wood.

The new Year Book was ready for distribution that afternoon. It contains in addition to the usual features a historical sketch of the club for its twenty-five years, prepared by Mrs. E. N. L. Walton, and the program that has been arranged for the coming year.

Car Fenders Tested

Six more fenders of as many different varieties were tested last Tuesday by the railroad commissioners at Newton Center. Of the half dozen devices which were thoroughly tried out, but one is believed to be a success. Several of the others failed to pick up the dummies laid on the tracks or else when they did pick them up did so with such force that the necks of the "sandmen" were broken. Demonstrations of the devices were made before the commissioners for the purpose of later endorsing the practical ones. The experiments lasted nearly two hours and took place on the Homer-st tracks running from Walnut street to the car barns. Through the courtesy of Gen. Man. Matthew C. Brush of the Newton street railway company three open electric cars were turned over to the use of the inventors of the various fenders for testing purposes. On either end of each car a fender was attached. Railroad Commissioners Bishop and White closely watched the tests and took minute notes of the results. A large crowd of street railway men, fender manufacturers and curious spectators watched the proceedings with great interest.

What appeared to many of the spectators to be the most successful of the new devices was the Eclipse, invented by Charles Leve of Cleveland. On each trial this fender, which was a somewhat complicated affair, picked up a large and small dummy without apparent injury. Each time the dummy was placed in a standing position at various points in front of the car, which made an average speed of 8 miles an hour. When the dummy was laid down upon the ground the second fender, located just forward of the front trucks, did not work so successfully, although it did not mutilate the "man."

Mr. Leve urged Gen. Man. Brush to allow him to stand in front of his own fender and be picked up, but the latter would not allow the inventor to take the risk.

A fender exhibited by Jerry M. Hayes of Newark, N. J., rolled the dummy along each time instead of picking it up clear of the ground. That shown by Robert Bateson of Fall River, another inventor, three times broke the necks of dummies placed in a standing position. A fender exhibited by William Pickett of Lynn also used the dummy in the same strenuous manner with the like result, although from a laying down position this latter fender made one successful pick-up. Another device was shown by A. Parker Smith Jr. of Boston but it was not believed to be entirely successful.

The strangest device of all, perhaps, was the fender invented by Charles Weeden of Quincy. Upon touching a person laying or standing in its path this unusual fender picked them up, rang an alarm bell which kept going until shut off and sprinkled quantities of sand under the car wheels. This device aroused much curiosity and was regarded by many of the spectators as something of a joke. One well known street railway man enquired if the bell always rung to notify the motorman there had been an accident.

James Conlin Killed

The man found dead on the Boston & Albany railroad tracks in Brookline early Sunday morning was identified as James Conlin, aged about 40 years, single and who for several years lived at the home of Mrs. Mary A. Hurley, 14 Abbott st., Newton Upper Falls. For about two years he had been employed in the Saco & Pettie machine shops at Newton Upper Falls, and was a member of the Saco & Pettie mutual benefit association.

Evan O. Taylor Dead

Evan O. Taylor, aged 33, single, a life long resident at 1103 Beacon street, Newton Highlands, died Sunday in the City hospital morgue, Boston, as a result of an accident.

Taylor had been away from home since Wednesday, it is stated, and met with an accident in Boston which resulted in his death.

He was formerly employed in the Saco & Pettie machine shops at Newton Upper Falls and was well known in that section of the city. Several years ago an older brother, John Taylor, died as a result of being hit by a train in Pennsylvania.

Police Paragraphs.

It looked like veteran's day in court Wednesday morning when there were three defendants, each 61 years old and all old offenders, arraigned for drunkenness.

They were Patrick Foran, William Connolly and Mrs. Katherine Connolly, all of whom live on Watertown street, West Newton. They were arrested in the house at 781 Watertown street by patrolmen Lucy and Kite. Connolly was sent to the house of correction for three months, while his wife and Foran were sent to the state farm.

Foran had been before the court here 23 previous times, Connolly 16 times and Mrs. Connolly a lesser number.

John Ryan, 35 years old, who was in court for vagrancy, last Friday appeared before Judge Kennedy again Saturday morning on a continued case. Ryan was suspected by the police of being implicated with a recent break in the house of Rev. Adelbert L. Hudson of Tremont street. Ryan was identified as the man who called at the house of the clergyman about a fortnight ago and asked for shoes. He was arrested in Newtonville while prowling about a house, but the police were unable to prove anything against his other than vagrancy. He asked to be allowed to go home to England on a cattle boat, but Judge Kennedy sent him to the state farm.

Loizi R. Pasuzzi, 18 years old, a mill hand employed at the Lower Falls and living at 67 Border street, West Newton, was arraigned in court Saturday morning on the charge of assault with a dangerous weapon on Stuart C. McNeary of West Newton. It was alleged that the assault occurred Friday night near Houghton's corner, West Newton. Although McNeary told the police that he was sure Pasuzzi was the man who stabbed him twice in the wrist over a trivial row, he said in court that he was not certain of the identification. Miss Theresa Gudzi of West Newton, who has frequently acted as an Italian interpreter in the local court, testified that Pasuzzi was at her home all Friday evening. He was discharged.

"Diplomatic relations, Papa?" "Oh, diplomatic relations, my son, are city cousins, and the like, who can arrive in Podunkville in the early summer stay till the frost is on the pumpkin, keep on the good side of their rural kin all the time, and yet prevent the latter from visiting them in the city during the winter, and still not lose out on invitations to the country for the next summer." Tom P. Morgan in Woman's Home Companion for November.

"My dear," remarked Mr. Grouch, "this turkey is unusually tough. May I ask where you got it?"

"Certainly," returned Mrs. Grouch sweetly. "I purchased it at a stationery store. Do you suppose I got it from the butcher shop?"

"No, indeed," replied Mr. Grouch, jabbing the carving knife into the hard flesh of the bird. "I have been under the impression for the past ten minutes that you procured it from a hardware store."—Woman's Home Companion for November.

Clubs and Lodges

Newton Lodge 1, O. O. F., held a whist party in Odd Fellow's hall, West Newton, last Tuesday evening. Play was on 19 tables and souvenirs were awarded the winners.

At a meeting of the Gen. Hall Lodge, A. O. U. W., held in Denison hall, Newtonville, last Friday evening, Mr. J. B. Willis gave an interesting address on, "The Negro in the South."

ABOUT TOWN

The broad flat walls about the new West Newton Unitarian church will prove fine resting places for spooning couples.

The appearance of the former Central House in Nonantum Square is a disgrace to the city.

Will the proposed waiting station at Newtonville Square be constructed before the winter?

The acceptance of Cook street as a public way will be a great improvement to the Nonantum district.

The Newton Y. M. C. A. is doing an excellent work and its prospects for the coming season are glowing.

The Gas Company has installed a handsome sign in front of its Washington street office.

The Read Fund lectures this fall will be on the subject of Geology. Prof. Barton is the lecturer.

The Food Fair has a strong attraction for Newton housekeepers and music lovers.

The average is said to be one small boy for every chestnut which falls in Newton. Possibly we might not be accused of over exaggeration if we said two small boys to every chestnut.

The display of beautiful Electric and Gas Table Lamps, by McKenney & Waterbury Co., No. 181 Franklin, corner Congress Street, is one all should see. It includes most beautiful effects to meet all decorations, especially the Art Shade effects, and is without doubt the largest display in the United States.

New applications for enlistments are coming in steadily, necessitating having two squads for drill and instruction preparatory to their mustering in.

Corporal Cook O. Connell has applied for his discharge owing to his going on an extensive business trip.

The rifle practice this year is away ahead of last year's record, and shows that all departments of the Company are advancing.

What is milk? The state board of inspectors report that less than fifty per cent of the dairies in the state are conducted on clean and sanitary conditions.—Weymouth Gazette.

Milk is "a solution of casein and various salts with minute globular cells of fat."

A colored brother, in a Southern town, had joined every church in the hamlet, and had been baptized by immersion each time he was received into the fold of a different denomination. When he at last cast his lot with the Baptists, the announcement was made that the baptizing would take place at four o'clock the next afternoon.

One old sister in Zion leaned over and whispered to another: "Brudder Jackson done been baptized so often dat de fish in de creek most sholy be right well acquainted wid him!"—Woman's Home Companion for November.

"To be, or not to be, that is the question," cried Hamlet in a loud voice, but it was destined that he should proceed no further.

"Mr. Chairman, I rise to a point of order," interrupted the Ghost, who had been setting in one of the Rear Seats. "The Motion to Adjourn is not Debatable."

Confronted thus by Robert's Rules of Order, the Noble Dane paled, mumbled incoherently and sat down. Afterward he had his speech inserted in the Congressional Record.—Woman's Home Companion for November.

Fred—"Nothing pleases a girl more than the devoted attentions of the man she loves."

Tess—"Oh, yes; there is something that pleases her more."

Fred—"What is it?"

Tess—"The devoted attentions of the man some other girl loves."—Woman's Home Companion for November.

THEATRES

Keith's Theatre—Fresh from her triumph as "Peter Pan" in the English production of that remarkably popular play, Cecilia Loftus is to make her American re-appearance at Keith's Theatre, Boston, the coming week. Miss Loftus is to present a new dramatic playlet entitled "His Child," by Frederick Penn and Richard Pryce, authors of "Op O' Me Thum!" She has a company of six people with her, including Mr. Murray Carson, Miss Nellie Butler and Miss Florence Nash. Jos Hart, of the well-known team of Hart and DeMar, has retired as an actor and is devoting his energies nowadays to petite productions for the vaudeville stage. His latest in the line is "The Crickets," a ballet of Geisha land. The leading parts are played by Norma Seymour and W. N. Cripps. The Four Fords, two brothers and two sisters, who do the swiftest dancing act in vaudeville today, will be a top-line feature. For a number of seasons past Hassan Ben Ali's troupe of Toozoonin Arabs have made an annual visit to Keith's. They are due next week and will have several new tumbling feats to show for the first time in Boston. Others on the big bill will be the Quigley Brothers, the favorite Irish comedians in a new sketch that finishes with some capital jig dancing; Welch, Mealey and Montrose, who combine acrobatic stunts and some very funny drolleries; Sam Elton, the famous eccentric comedian from England who is known as "The Man Who Made the Shah of Persia Laugh"; Harry Brown, the clever colored song-writer and singer; the Columbia Comedy Four, humorists and harmonists; Lelia Taylor, a singing comedienne who always has the newest songs; Earle and Bartlett, in a laughable sketch; Will Mead and his trained dog "Sparkle"; the Prampin Trio, versatile musicians; the three sisters Nobis, singers and dancers, and the Kinetograph.

Tremont Theatre—Henry W. Savage's magnificent production of Puccini's grand opera, "Madam Butterfly," is proving the musical sensation of the year at the Tremont Theatre, and general regret is expressed that its stay is limited to another week only. The audiences have been remarkably enthusiastic, and have left no room for late comers. The entire production is saturated with the atmosphere of Japan and its quaint romance and Puccini's music furnishes a wonderful impressionistic view of the pathetic, though thoroughly human story of the love of the little Oriental geisha for the trim American naval lieutenant.

ESTELLE BLOOMFIELD

who wedded her for 999 years, after the custom of her people, and then shattered her heart by marrying an American woman. The stage investiture by Walter Burridge is a beautiful picture and in strict consonance with Japanese artistic ideals. The opera has brought a genuine triumph to Frau Szamosy, who acts the leading role with strength and sincerity and sings with the utmost power and finish. The entire cast is of uncommon excellence, and the chorus is equal to all demands. Altogether, the opera is worthy the high praise that has been showered upon it in Europe and this country, and should be heard by all music lovers hereabouts before it is taken away from the Tremont.

Grand Opera House—The story of "When the World Sleeps" which is next week's attraction at the Boston Grand Opera House, is a dramatic recital of the life and destinies of York State village folks. The characters are varied and most uncommon. Election returns will be read from the stage on Tuesday evening. Special arrangements have been made to get the full returns from Massachusetts and New York State. Matinees will be given as usual on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Orpheum Theatre—As the leading feature of next week's bill at the Orpheum Manager Williams has secured the remarkable exponents of the science of Thaumaturgy, the Fays. The remarkable work done by Mrs. Fay in her public appearances has been commented upon throughout the country and no satisfactory explanation of the astonishing results shown the public has yet been made. The Fays are to appear at the Orpheum for only a single week and will afford the usual opportunities to the audience to test the abilities of Mrs. Fay in answering questions put to her. The bill of the week will also introduce Josephine Cohan, the favorite comedienne, and the members of her company in their new sketch "A Friend of the Family"; Fred Niblo, the American humorist; Tom Nawn and his company in a new skit; A. O. Duncan, the ventriloquist humorist, the three Deirick Brothers in a wonderful acrobatic act; Mills and Morris, the minstrels; and Valoni, a famous European juggler.

Mrs. Wm. H. Rand of West Newton reports the following rentals: for F. S. Webster, 280 Waltham st. to Henry W. Allen; for F. D. Amisden, 380 Waltham st. to Mrs. C. W. S. Adams; for Mrs. S. H. Newell, 91 Hillside ave. to W. D. Whitmore; for E. T. Wiswall, 12 W. Wall st. to F. H. Wellington; for John H. Lesh, half of house, recently completed on Watertown street to G. Howard Frost; for Mrs. A. H. French, 109 Elm st. to Boston Suburban Exp. Co.

New Agent

Mr. Alfred M. Russell, for twelve years an inspector and assistant in the health department has been appointed agent and began his duties yesterday. He succeeds Mr. Dana Libbey who has resigned after filling the office for six months.

Mr. Russell is a native of Newton, and is 35 years of age. He is married and with his wife and one son resides on California street, Newtonville.

Mrs. Jackson

Mrs. Sarah W. Jackson, widow of the late Thomas Jackson, passed away suddenly at the home of her daughter Mrs. Mary A. Mitchell on Bowers street, Newtonville, last Monday aged 80 years. She is survived by several children. Services were held from the house Tuesday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock Rev. R. T. Loring, rector of St. John's church, officiating, and the remains were taken to Catskill, N. Y., for interment.

Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate

By virtue of a Power of Sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by Michael C. McCarthy, of Newton, in the County of Middlesex and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, to the Western Newton Savings Bank, dated March 16, 1881 and recorded with Middlesex So. Dist. Deeds, libro 1903, folio 13, for breach of the conditions of said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same will be sold at public auction, on the premises hereinafter described, on Saturday, the 24th day of November 1906 at 3.30 o'clock in the afternoon, all and singular, the premises conveyed by said mortgage and therein described as follows:

Two several parcels of land with the buildings thereon situated in that part of Newton called West Newton. The first lot is bounded and described as follows, viz:—Beginning at a stake at the north-westerly corner of said land, at land formerly owned by one Seth Davis and later by James Condit now of said grantor; thence the line runs south thirty-three degrees east by said land one hundred and twenty-nine feet to a stake and road; thence the line runs north fifty-five degrees east, bounding on said road sixty feet to a stake and a corner, the fence at this corner to be curved in a regular circle, so as not to be within four feet of the corner stake; thence the line runs north sixteen degrees west, sixty-six feet to a stake; then on a regular curve forty-six feet to a stake; thence the line runs north seventy-six degrees west, thirty-five feet to a stake; thence north eighty-nine degrees west thirty-three feet to a stake and the corner first mentioned, or however otherwise bounded and described. Containing twenty-nine square rods more or less. Meaning and intending to convey the same premises conveyed to Michael C. McCarthy by Timothy McCarthy by deed dated July 28th, 1885, recorded with Middlesex So. Dist. Deeds, L. 836 F. 501.

The second lot is bounded and described as follows, viz:—Beginning at the south-easterly corner of said lot at the northerly side of the road at the corner of said McCarthy's land and from thence running northerly and bounded easterly by said McCarthy's land and extending to the southerly side of land now or formerly belonging to the proprietors of the Walsall meadow, so called, thence westerly bounded by said proprietor's land and extending a distance of forty feet, measured on a right angle to a stake; thence southerly on a line parallel with the Walsall meadow, as called, thence westerly to the road above mentioned; thence easterly a distance of forty feet measured on a right angle to the place of beginning, containing one-quarter of an acre more or less, meaning and intending to convey the same premises conveyed by Seth Davis to Patrick McCarthy by deed dated January 24, 1880, recorded with Middlesex So. Dist. Deeds, L. 836 F. 501.

Said premises to be sold subject to any and all unpaid taxes and assessments if any there be, $100 to be paid by purchaser at time and place of sale.

It Pays to Trade At a Cash Store

Low prices are the logical creation of a store that does a cash business. No store that sells to you for cash, and to somebody else for credit, and to both at the same price, can hope to compete with the store that sells to everyone for cash only—ours is now and has been for years a strictly cash store. It's clearly, then, to your benefit to make a comparison of prices—always bearing in mind that there's a quantity called quality.

The Telephone Book

The young men of the New England Telephone Company have recently been distributing the October directory among Newton residences. The arrival of the new book is always something of an event in the household and Madame immediately seizes it to make sure that her named has not been omitted.

It hasn't been omitted, of course, for although this is unquestionably the most difficult book in the world to edit, print and publish, and although the company naturally enough can assume no liability for damages accruing from errors or omissions in the making up and printing, no volume is more carefully prepared than this.

To produce such an edition of a book of more than 500 pages as the New England company must get out every three months, is a task of no mean proportions. Any publisher would regard an edition of that size as a huge undertaking, even if every line of the copy could go to the printer in plenty of time for leisurely proofreading. In the case of the telephone directory, however, additions of new names have to be made up to the very last moment before the directory goes to press. Subscribers keep coming in day by day and there are always a few discontinuances which have to be noted. Firms and firm names are frequently changed. Consequently at the offices of the New England company in Milk Street, Boston, there is found an exceedingly busy department of cataloguing and publication in which a large number of trained experts give entire time and attention to the work of bringing out the telephone books.

This department serve as a clearing house for the metropolitan district. The name of every subscriber in the territory appears not only in the local and general directories of the company, but also in the great card catalogue, which serves as a check upon the work of managers, compilers and proofreaders. Cooperation of many people is necessary to insure the degree of accuracy which the directory attains. The manager of the Newton exchange, for example, reports to the cataloguing department of the company in Milk Street, once a week, all changes in his list of subscribers. He is held strictly responsible for the correctness of such notification. The cards on which the names of new subscribers are written are required to be a model of painstaking accuracy. People are very particular about the spelling of their names and it is only policy for the telephone company to take all possible pains to avoid complaints as well as the expense of alterations.

After the cataloguing department in Milk Street has received a card of notification from the manager at Newton, the contents of this card are immediately recorded in a general card catalogue which serves as a check not only upon the work of publication, but upon the accuracy of the local manager. If, for instance, the name of a new subscriber should have been assigned by mistake to a number which was already held by another subscriber the error would be noted as soon as the subscriber's card was put into the catalogue. Suppose the filing clerk takes down the name of John Smith, with the number Newton 314-2, and William Jones of the same place is already down with the number 314-2; then the duplication is noted at once and the error corrected.

Changes are not only entered on the card catalogue, but they are at once recorded on proof sheets for the next book. The preparation of copy for the printer thus goes on daily throughout period. Indeed the number of red ink alterations on a page of proof would startle the average printer, for not only are there many new subscribers, but it is also the experience of the telephone experts that old subscribers move very frequently and sometimes a little interval elapses between the removal and the replacing of telephones so that a name often has to be stricken from one issue of the directory and inserted in a succeeding issue.

The copy begins to go to the printer about a fortnight before the end of three months period. Then the proof sheets must be read with more than ordinary care, and, although they come back to the cataloguing department in such shape that very little of what has been set up ever needs correction, yet they are returned to the printer interlined in red ink with the latest additions to the lists of subscribers. Finally the directory is put on the press and run off by shifts working night and day, in order that subscribers in Newton may have it about the middle of the month in which it is dated.

A Few of the Wonders of Plant Life

Plant life is formed so small that a microscope is needed to see it and then so large it rears its head to 300 or 400 feet in the air. Some of the forms of plant life are very curious and interesting. The giant redwood trees of California and the eucalyptus of Australia are the Colossi of tree growth found on the earth at the present time. But flower giants are as rare and more a flower called the Rafflesia, named after a flower called the Rafflesia, named after

Sir Stamford Raffles, of enormous proportions. It is a flower parasite growing from the body of a huge vine. This flower has five thick, fleshy leaves or petals that are an inch thick and two feet long, each one of which weigh nearly three pounds.

The flower weighs from twenty to thirty pounds, and when the petals are spread out measures from three to four feet. The centre or nectary, bowl-shaped, would hold six quarts of water. It grows without leaves on the stem, hardly an inch in diameter, and has the appearance of an enormous toadstool.

Another flower is found in Sumatra—a giant lily,—allied to the Wake Robin. It is found in the deep forest. The leaf stalks are ten feet long, and from the centre of the flower rises a spadix six feet in height. It covers an area of more than forty square feet. The spathe is near three feet in diameter and like the Jack-in-the-pulpit, bell shaped. It has serrated edges, delicate green tint on the inside with purple hue on the outside.

The odor is so strong and disagreeable that neither man nor animals care to linger long near it. In fact the natives believe that it will kill both if exposed to the terrible smell. It has a tuber of enormous size. One presented to the Royal Gardens at Ken, England, weighed fifty-seven pounds. It bloomed there, one night and gave the attendants and others a royal treat in sight if not in smell.

It has been named the giant arum,—botanically the Amorphophallus-titnaw. There grows at Cape Negro, Africa, a peculiar plant called Welwitschia mirabilis. The natives describe it as part spider, and in fact it looks enough spider-like to warrant their belief. The stem or trunk is four feet across and grows to the height of only one foot. It has two enormous leaves, six to eight feet long, which splits up into ribbons by the high winds of the table-lands and gives it the appearance of an immense spider, whose legs were whirled and twisted in the breeze.

The whole plant has a circumference of ten to eighteen feet. Nearly a century is required to reach its full growth.

The Victoria regia, which belongs to the lily family is another wonderful plant, now often seen in public and private aquariums. The most striking and interesting part of this plant is the leaf, which is six or seven feet across, bright green on the upper surface and crimson on lower, and has a rim turned upwards five inches high. It presents a beautiful appearance gracefully floating on the water.

Some of the palms are of gigantic size and their leaves so large as almost to stagger belief. In Brazil a palm, the Raphia—bears a leaf that is seventy feet long and forty feet in diameter. The Maritima regia another giant palm has a leaf that is fifty feet long. In Ceylon, a giant palm, the Talipot grows a leaf so large a whole family can tent beneath it, finding ample shelter.

The bamboo is another wonderful plant growing to more than one hundred feet in height in some places. Our common fish rods are of one variety. When growing in a grove they are tall, slim, picturesque and very beautiful. The rattan, that vine of unnumbered uses, from whipping on unruly boy to beautifying a home is another wonderful plant.

It has been known to grow more than one thousand feet in length—a fifth of a mile—and hardly larger than ones finger. What a tremendous power must be exerted to force the water, drawn up from the ground, through its entire length.

These are all land plants. Some of the plants that grow beneath the water are equally remarkable. In the sea, off the coast of Santa Catalina Island, grow wonderful marine plants. One variety of kelp is of immense size and a small vessel attached to one of the leaves is firmly held. There is an aquatic plant growing near Ferguelen's Land in seven hundred feet depth of water, so strong that a small vessel tied to it will be securely anchored.

A very wonderful and interesting plant grows in the province of Jalapa in Mexico. It is called the Dicon and belongs to the Cycad group, one of the most ancient groups known on earth. Scientists are of the opinion that it grew on this earth in the paleozoic age. Plants of this species are found in Jalapa 2000 to 3000 years old. One specimen under cultivation has grown only about a foot in forty years. It flowers only once in four or five years and a single flower has weighed fourteen pounds. It resembles, in shape, a pineapple but is longer and narrower.

The seeds are larger than horse-chestnuts, and dozen of them are found in the seed bearing capsule.

Burdett College of Shortland, Typewriting and Bookkeeping, 18 Boylston Street, Boston, is doing something characteristic of its progressive spirit in teaching the genuine Touch Typewriting. Only recently a schoolman of broad acquaintance with different business colleges spent some time in investigating the methods employed in the Burdett Typewriting Department, and after his investigation, he said, "Out of my knowledge of schools," mentioning those in some of the large cities, "I have not seen one in which Touch Typewriting is taught so thoroughly as it is taught here." This will be welcome news to prospective students of stenography, as one can not be too well equipped in this branch nowadays.

Police Paragraphs.

John Keefe, son of a Watertown expressman, was in the police court Saturday morning on a continued case charging illegal transportation and sale of liquor. Upon the charge of making an illegal sale he was found not guilty. Convicted of illegal transportation a fine of $50 was imposed. Keefe appealed and was held in $300 for the superior court. It was alleged that he delivered the liquors to one Clement Divito, a Nonantum Italian.

Bernard J. Quigley, the Newton Centre man who told the police Wednesday night he had been robbed of $3 and thrown off a vegetable wagon by two men who had asked him to ride, found the missing money in the hip pocket of his pants yesterday morning.

James O'Hare, 21, living at 108 Prospect street, Cambridgeport, and Patrick F. Coyle, 32, living at 309 Western avenue, Cambridge, whom Sergt. Burke and patrolman Joseph Seaver arrested upon suspicion were arraigned in court Thursday morning. Coyle was charged with drunkenness and O'Hare was charged with drunkenness and the larceny of a pint bottle of rum from Quigley's pocket.

Quigley told the story of how he had met the men in a Brighton saloon. He said, they asked him to ride as far as Newtonville with them. He alleged that on Washington street, near Lowell avenue, O'Hare took the bottle of rum from his pocket and then threw him off the wagon.

Judge Kennedy placed both drunk cases on file after finding both men guilty. He then imposed a fine of $5 upon O'Hare, whom he found guilty of taking the bottle.

Thomas Slamin, 38 years old, living at 44 Chapel street, Nonantum, was arrested Monday night by Patrolmen Goode and Hughes on a charge of drunkenness. Tuesday morning he was released on the drunkenness charge, but on a warrant for the Boston police in which he was charged with the larceny of $11 Slamin was turned over to the Boston police.

George Beaudrot, a Nonantum grocer, was arraigned in the court Wednesday as a result of a raid on his place Saturday afternoon when the police seized 224 pint bottles of English malt which is said to be 5 per cent alcohol. Because of illness in his family the case was continued one week. Chief Mitchell secured a bottle of malt and had it analyzed and as a result of this the raid was made.

Fines aggregating $55 were imposed upon Michael Gemenoro, 33 years old, living in the rear of 45 Oakley street, Brighton, when arraigned in the police court Monday morning, as a result of a disturbance committed the previous night.

With a number of companions Gemenoro boarded an east bound electric on Washington street, West Newton, Sunday night and made himself obnoxious. Efforts of the conductor, Thomas Mills, to quiet the man were fruitless. When the car reached Newtonville square patrolman McLaughlin arrested Gemenoro and patrolman Kiley placed Frederick Visco, aged 37, who lives at the same address, under arrest on a charge of disturbance.

When Gemenoro was searched at police headquarters a loaded 38 calibre revolver was found in his pocket. He said he carried the revolver because he had a large amount of money with him. A charge of carrying a concealed weapon was placed against him.

Both men secured bail. As they took up their umbrellas to leave the station house a dirk knife fell out of one of them. This was secured by Lieut. Harrison, but both men denied owning the knife.

In the court Monday morning a fine of $30 was imposed upon Gemenoro for carrying a concealed weapon, the revolver; $10 for drunkenness and $15 for disturbance upon the electric. He paid. Visco was found not guilty of disturbance or carrying a concealed weapon, it having been charged that the dirk knife belonged to him. He was discharged.

Mme. Dille's Corset

Recommended by Physicians and Surgeons to be worn after all Abdominal operations, also to all who walk or stand much, as the flesh is not pushed down, but the muscles are contracted and hardened. Stout women also know from experience that only a Corset well fitted can really reduce the figure, and at the same time be perfectly comfortable. These Corsets are warranted to do this or money refunded. Private fitting rooms for each patron at Mme Dille's new Corset Store to be opened Monday Oct. 27 at 46 Temple Place, Thiersers Building. Price $3.00 to $7.00. Corsets made to order $5.00 to $15.00. Mme. Dille 46 Temple Place.

The paramount issue in the election in Massachusetts this year is the honor of the commonwealth. Neither the tariff, nor reciprocity, nor any of the other questions upon which the old parties have differed will be appreciably affected by the result. The thing for the voters to decide is, first of all, whether they will turn the government of the state over to Mr. Moran and his heterogeneous following, and count this commonwealth to the fallacies and follies, the revolutionary doctrine and dangerous policies, which this movement represents.

Literary Notes

To read the November number of Suburban Life is to cover almost the whole wide range of suburban life activities. A hasty outline will give a slight idea of the diversified attractions. The leading article contrasts city and country life in a way which will surely set people to thinking. "A Good Old Fashioned Thanksgiving" is worth anybody's reading. "Buying the Supplies for the Suburban Home" is an extremely practical article by the well known author, Helen M. Winslow. "A Glimpse Into Interesting Halls" is especially fine pictorially. "A California Bungalow Which Cost But $1,500" is illustrated by plans and photographs. The editorial has distinctively a Thanksgiving flavor. "The Unique in Architecture" is one of the most original articles which has appeared for a long time. There is an entire page devoted to the most unique houses in America, forming a collection which is unique indeed. "Chickens at Fifty Dollars Each" tells about an Iowa man who is making a good income on five town lots. "Hand Weaving as a Suburban Money Making Project" is interesting and suggestive. "A Peep Into Nature's Preserve Closet" is a nature article along unusual lines. The author is Maude Gridley Peterson the well known nature writer. "A Kit of Tools." "Window Gardens Worth While" and "Floral Calendars as Holiday Gifts" are timely and practical contributions. "Bird Homes Which Any Boy can Build" should appeal to the young members of the family. This is only a part of the contents but enough to show its scope and variety.

The November McClure's is a striking number and will be remembered long beyond the usual term of magazine literature. The leading article is a brilliant challenge to the advocates of Spelling Reform, coming from no less an authority than Professor Hugo Munsterberg, Harvard's noted psychologist. In a manner sometimes satirical and again full of impressive gravity, he delivers some of the most crushing blows the Spelling Reform movement has had to meet. Carl Schurz's American reminiscences open in this number with Mr. Schurz's first impressions of this country—impressions so freely received and so delightfully narrated that they awaken one picture after another of the stirring years before the Civil War. The fourth instalment of "The Story of Montana" describes the sale of the Montana legislature, telling how one man after another went down in defeat and dishonor, and painting with great dramatic effect the scene of Clark's election. Lincoln Steffens, relates the story of Judge Lindsey's gallant fight against ignorant parents, a cynical police, and a corrupt ring. Burton Hendrick concludes "The Story of Life-Insurance," summing up in a few concise and significant pages the conditions which he has brought before the attention of the American public.

"The Hanging of Mary Dyer," by Basil King, a remarkable romance dealing with the Quaker persecution in America, is one of McClure's most original departures in fiction. "The Makin' of a Hayro," by G. W. Ogden, relates the exciting rescue of a passenger train by an obscure section-hand. "The Reforming of a Bridegroom," by Helen R. Martin, is a deliciously human study of some Pennsylvania Dutch people, and "When Jonathan Hatch Harks Back," by Charles Fleming Embree, which tells how an elderly lawyer became homesick for the "good old times," is full of homely humor and pathos. Justus Miles Forman contributes an artistic and tenderly written love story, "Night and the Curtains Drawn." "Wood-Doves," by Louise Imogen Guiney is a piece of highly imaginative verse.

An English critic, in commenting on Jack London's "Call of the Wild" said that parts of the book undoubtedly reflected the author's dominating spirit. If this is true the spirit must be restless because we now learn that London has set sail in a forty-five-foot craft for a seven years' tour of the world for the Woman's Home Companion. The author-sailor writes to the magazine of his purpose.

"As you know, the 'Snark' is a small craft. She is forty-five feet long on the water-line, and at sea is to be propelled solely by the wind. Yet she is equipped with a seventy-horse-power engine. When we strike the land, out go the masts, on goes the engine, and away we go up into the land. For instance we plan to go up the Seine to Paris; up the Thames to London; up the Danube from the Black Sea to Vienna; up the Amazon and other big South American rivers. We expect to spend months on the canals of China, a summer at Venice, a winter at Naples, and certainly a winter at St. Petersburg. And because the boat is small and able to go up into the land, I consider that I shall get in far more intimate touch with peoples and conditions than if I merely hung around the ports.

"I expect to deal largely with the homelife of various peoples, with especial attention to the part that is played by the women and children. I shall knock around a great deal in out-of-the-way places, and shall see ways of living undreamed of by our readers.

"I n addition to home-life in general, a number of topics occur to me; domestic problems; social structures; problems of living; cost of living, compared with same in United States; education; opportunities for advancement; general tone of peoples, culture, morals, religion, etc.; how they amuse themselves; the marriage and divorce problems; housekeeping; charities; and last but not least, the servant-girl problem."

Experimenting With Fenders

Practical tests of safety appliances for electric cars were held on Homer street, Newton Centre, last week Tuesday by the railroad commissioners. The tests took place on the tracks of the Newton and Boston street railway company. They were witnessed by the commissioners, a number of inventors of various devices and a number of street railway men of this and other cities.

Three electricies of the Newton street railway company were placed at the disposal of the commissioners in making the tests. The inventors had about two weeks' time to attach their new devices to those cars, one at either end of the vehicles. When it came time for the tests there was a little delay other than shifting a motor man from one end of a car to another.

Only five fenders were ready for testing, and others will be tested at the same place next Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. The first one tried consisted of a straight platform extending out from the front of the car like those now in use in this city, but with a folding leaf underneath it, intended to be released by a pedal under the motorman's foot when approaching an obstruction, so that the obstruction would be scooped up between the two sections of the fender and carried safe until the car could be stopped. This was tried thrice on the small dummy, a lay figure stuffed with sand and weighing about twenty-three pounds; and although the dummy was carried along it was wedged so tightly into the fender that it was badly lacerated. Another fender was then tried, so constructed that when the motorman trips it by a pedal it dips downward close to the track, picking up the obstruction scoop-fashion. The dummy had been so seriously torn by the earlier experience, however, that when it was struck for the first time by the second fender its feet were cut off just where they had last been sewed on; and the make-believe victim had to be removed for repairs.

When the figure was again ready, the second fender was given three trials. In the first, the dummy, standing erect, was picked up and folded backward into the scoop, and carried free until the car stopped, the only question being as to how hard his head had struck the top of the fender, as he folded backward. In the other two trials the dummy was prostrate, and with the car going at nearly fifteen miles an hour, the fender scraped his form along the track, without picking it up, and eventually catching one of his arms under the edge of the scoop and apparently twisting and breaking it frightfully.

Next came a fender combining the scoop that could be dropped to the track and a folding lid that dropped down from above in such a manner as to keep the victim's head from striking the front of the car as he was folded backward into the receptacle. This was tried three times. With the dummy standing erect, he was picked up rather neatly, and folded back into the fender still upright; but when he was prostrate, the fender merely scraped his body along the roadbed, catching and grinding his limbs to some extent. That it struck him forcefully was shown by the fact that the impact was sufficient to buckle up the metal framework of the scoop a little.

The fourth device was made of metal framework, but with its netting of rope mesh. It is intended to be applied to cars having the air brake, in which case it is intended to set itself automatically on striking the object and also to set the brake and stop the car at the same time. But it was tried with no air brake, and merely showed what it would do in picking up a victim. With the dummy erect, the fender caught him; but he rebounded and was scooped along in front for some distance. Tried again, in the same way, the dummy was picked up and carried safely in the net.

These trials had pretty nearly used up the small dummy, so a large figure, also stuffed with sand, representing a man, but weighing only seventy-five pounds, was experimented with. The fenders were brought out again in the same order as at first. The first one wedged the body within its two leaves so that force had to be used to extricate it, and on trying a run at the figure standing erect on the track picked it up, but terrible to relate, cut its head completely off with a terrific blow against the bumper. Headless, but still with plenty of sand in him, the dummy was duly prostrate on the track in front of the second fender. First, the fender scraped him along the track and ground him under its edges; next it rolled him directly under the wheels and allowed him to go bumping and pounding over him until the poor dummy had been mangled beyond recognition. He was finally pulled from out the running gear, with sand dripping from a score of gaping wounds, a mere bundle of rags.

A fifth fender, made of wood and shaped like a V-shaped plough, was tried with what remained of the small dummy. The fender was intended to allow its two leaves to spring outward on striking the obstacle and push the obstruction from the track. But part of the time the leaves would not spring and the rest of the time the one that did spring was on the wrong side. So poor dummy was again caught and scrubbed along under the edge of the device until his very maker would not have been able to recognize him.

Newton Hospital Catholic Aid Society Whist

The Newton Hospital Catholic Aid Society, one of the leading charitable organizations of this city began another season last Friday evening with a whist party and dance at Bray Hall, Newton Centre.

In the large hall more than 200 couples enjoyed dancing, while in the small hall whist was played at 38 tables. The floor for dancing was in charge of Pres. George E. Stuart, assisted by Thomas M. Holden and Bernard Early. In the whist play the first ladies' prize was won by Miss Katherine Reardon, the second by Miss Agnes Shattery and the third by Miss Mary Fanning. The first gentlemen's prize was won by Daniel O'Connell, the second by George Luddy and the third by Dennis Flannigan. The affair netted a substantial sum which will be used to defray the expense of two beds in the Newton hospital.

Although the society was organized but a year ago last April it has already accomplished much work in aid of the hospital, and has taken front rank among the organizations in the Newtons working solely for charitable purposes. The object is to assist the hospital in caring for the sick of the city who are unable to secure the necessary medical attendance in their own homes.

The general committee of arrangements consisted of T. M. Holden, B. Early, Andrew C. Hughes, Thomas J. Sullivan, Charles Sheridan, Edward Stanton, Edward Kenny, Dr. Joseph Stanton, Dr. Louis H. Marshall, Dr. William H. McOwen, Dr. Patrick F. Coady, Dr. Thomas M. Gallagher, Dr. Frank Costello, Dr. Edward Fall, P. A. Murray, Frank A. Hurley, Martin Murphy, Mark Croker, M. H. Garrity, D. J. O'Donnell, Maurice B. Coleman, James R. Condrin, T. M. Gleeson, James Farrell, James Cannon, John Flood, Thomas M. Spellman, John Barry, Mrs. T. M. Gleeson, Mrs. Margaret Mullin, Mrs. Teresa Marshall, Mrs. Mollie Leary, Mrs. Margaret Lane, Mrs. Alice Burns, Miss Julia Enegess, Mrs. Joseph Ryan, Miss L. A. Magoley, Miss Adelaide Hyde, P. Sarsfield Cumiff, Joseph P. Barry, John Foley, J. Vincent McDonald, J. J. Mahoney, Thomas M. Mullin, Thomas J. McGrath, James Cannon, Jr., David H. Warren, John A. Duane, Miss Josephine H. Stuart, Mrs. M. H. Garrity, Miss Catherine R. A. Flood, Miss Kathryn Ryan, Miss Margaret Ryan, Miss Elizabeth Cassidy, Miss Jennie Chisholm, Miss Gertrude Leonard, Miss Elizabeth I. Hyde, Miss Sheehan, Miss Margaret Cain, Miss Elizabeth F. Levi, Miss Grace Cahill, Mrs. William Magne, Miss Gertrude Moran, Miss Nellie Foley, Miss Mary Waters and Rev. J. J. Redican.

The officers of the society are as follows: George E. Stuart, president; Thomas M. Holden and Bernard Early, vice presidents; Miss Elizabeth I. Hyde, recording secretary; James R. Condrin, financial secretary.

"So you break our engagement, Gwen-dolen!" he exclaimed bitterly. "Then in your presence let me end the life which you have blighted."

Drawing forth a vial marked "poison," he put it to his lips, and drained it to the last drop. As he sank back unconscious, did the beautiful girl fling herself upon his breast in an agony of remorse and burst forth into frenzied sobs? Scarcely!

Hastily quitting the room she returned presently, her lovely face tragic, yet composed. Kneeling beside the young man she forced between his lips the following: (1) One cup of turpentine; (2) one pint of milk; (3) a bowl of warm soapuds; (4) a small bottle of aromatic ammonia; (5) a cup of black coffee; (6) a glass of mustard water; (7) a gill of vinegar; (8) juice of a lemon; (9) the beaten whites of six eggs; (10) one cup of flour and water.

"Algeron," she observed coldly, as he began to revive, "it is evident you did not know that I am a graduate of a correspondence course in first aid to the injured. My one regret is that, since it was impossible for me to ascertain whether the poison you took was an acid or an alkali, I was compelled to administer all the antidotes of which we had learned."—Woman's Home Companion for November.

Registration for the State election has closed with a total of 6356 names on the voting list, an increase of 103 over last year's figures.

City Treasurer Newhall has been elected treasurer of the West Newton Unitarian church.

A country paper lays down this rule of etiquette: "When a lady and gentleman are walking in the street the lady should walk inside of the gentleman."

Own a Piano by Renting It.

Our new plan of Rental Purchase solves the problem. We will rent you a piano and by agreement apply all paid toward the purchase. This allows ample trial in your home before a decision is made to buy. If you are pleased with the instrument it can be rented until rent accumulates enough for its purchase, 36 or 48 months' time being given to complete the Rental Purchase.

This plan practically eliminates the inconvenience of piano-buying. Let us send you our catalogue and explain more fully the advantages of our Rental Purchase Plan. Write to-day for list of bargains if convenient to call.

The Special Cup

Harry J. Murch won premier honors at the Gymkhana games held at the Cedar street grounds of the Newton Athletic Club Saturday afternoon, under the management of the Bay State Automobile Association. He captured three out of the eight events with his little Cadillac, and in addition was awarded the special cup for the car winning the largest number of points at the meeting. It was a trifle late in the season for this sort of outdoor sport, but taking everything into consideration the meeting was very successful, and the cars entered in the different events were superbly handled by the operators, as in every competition success depends upon the skill of the drivers. There was a good attendance and all of the events were run off promptly on schedule time. There were 15 entrants in the event for driving at rings at a speed of not less than eight miles an hour. Almost all the drivers miscalculated the location of the rings, but those who had the best eye were Harry Murch and Ralph Coburn, who each picked off four rings, but the cup went to the former on time required to do the trick. This was Mr. Murch's first win and he followed it up by taking another cup in picking up and replacing the ten pins, in which event Mr. Hawkins was second.

Perhaps the most skillful bit of driving by Mr. Murch was the obstacle race, in which he had to touch six barrels placed in two rows on the football field. The plan was to touch the first barrel going ahead and then send the machine backwords to bare the third barrel. This performance was repeated until all the six barrels had been negotiated and the time required together with the general excellence of the performance, determined the winner. Mr. Murch's time in this event was 1m. 11 3/5, and the next best performance was that of G. H. Kimball, in 1m. 15s.

proving that he is fine judge of pace. H. H. Hawkins was right in his element when it came to driving through a limited space without knocking down the barrels, and he won the third event on the card, with G. H. Kimball second. The ball and tub race was a stumbling block for the drivers, as great care had to be exercised in dropping the balls in to the pails while the machines were travelling at a speed of not less than eight miles an hour. The balls were very lively, and unless they were carefully deposited they would jump out of the pails. C. L. Dane had a long reach and with his car under perfect control he made an absolutely perfect performance, and his speed is what won for him, as in this event F. H. Penbody, in a Ford runabout, and Harry Murch, in his Cadillac, also had clean scores. It was almost dark when the brake test, while the car was going 15 miles an hour, was called. In order to have the cars traveling at the proper speed a pace-maker was sent out in front of each entrant. J. L. Snow in a Peerless car made the best stop. He brought his car down to a full stop after travelling a distance of 16 feet and 9 inches, which speaks well for his brakes and the manner in which they were applied. Harry Murch was a good second in this event.

Mrs. Sanford

Mrs. Deborah J. Sanford widow of the late Seneca Sanford, and a former well known resident on Chesley road, Newton Centre, passed away Friday at the home of her daughter Mrs. Harry L. Tilton on Forest avenue. She was a native of Boston and was 49 years of age. Funeral services were held from the family residence, Monday afternoon at one o'clock. Rev. E. T. Sullivan, rector of Trinity church, officiating and the burial was at Mount Hope Cemetery.

High School Notes

The Tufts freshman football team, which was scheduled to meet Newton high Friday afternoon on the Newton A. A. grounds at Newton Centre, failed to appear. After the local team had waited nearly an hour for the Tufts aggregation to appear the game was called off. A large number of spectators were disappointed.

BELGRADE RUG COMPANY.

Worn-out and cast-off carpets are not useless, after all. The Belgrade Rug Company, at 32 Hollis street, Boston, Mass., have a way of re-making them in such a way that they not only make a beautiful appearance but that they prove durable in the use of them. Don't throw away your old carpets when they seem hopeless. See what the Belgrade Rug Company can do with them, no matter how torn and unattractive. They issue a circular which states briefly what goods make the handsomest rugs, etc., as well as price list and shipping directions.

Men's Club

The first fall meeting of the Men's Club held at the Methodist church Saturday evening was well attended. After supper had been served Prof. George H. Blakesley of the collegiate department of Clark University spoke on, "Experiences of a Summer in Russia." The speaker, who has recently returned from a study of Russian peasant conditions, stated that high rents and low wages make life in the land of the Tsar intolerable.

"The situation of the Russian peasant is the key to the whole problem, for from this class is recruited the army, which is merely peasants in uniform. Most of the peasants are still loyal, but they are all dissatisfied with economic conditions and the situation becomes more critical each week, masses of the peasants being driven into the arms of the revolutionists."

"The demand is for land, which the peasants say they will take without any payment save fire and blood. In some naturally fertile sections the peasants are starving because they do not have land enough. The average is only eight acres for each male peasant, and proprietors often refuse to sell. Owing to the three-field system of cultivation, a part of the land is always out of cultivation. Rents are three or four times as high as they should be, largely because of the middle man, who rents great estates, and then sublets them in small plots. It has been proven that land can be rented for lower rates at a profit."

"The situation is aggravated by the fact that the peasants think themselves the real owners of the land. The popular idea is that the proprietors have cheated them out of it. They now refuse to buy land, even when the owners are willing to sell, but cry, 'Wait until we can get it for nothing.'"

"The proprietors are not a hard-hearted class. Many of them correspond to the small American farmers, and regard an attempt to take their land much as a farmer here would regard a similar attempt. Many proprietors have only small estates, and a large number are liberal to the peasants, but in some cases these have had all their goods taken away by the peasants whom they have benefited. The disturbances started with an economic object, but the plundering has been continued for mere lust of the work. It has been a wild, savage time, and at present the jails are not large enough. Revolutionary organizations exist today, and many say that the next time the proprietors will lose not only their goods, but also their lives."

"The Social Democrats and the peasants are not in sympathy, and have become affiliated only because the Democrats have sent out agitators to take advantage of the unrest of the peasants and make capital out of it."

"The Russian peasant is reckless and careless with old-fashioned methods of agriculture. Famines are nothing new but have caused much trouble for 200 years. If the land were given up to the peasants it would come back to the proprietors inside of five years. The greatest enemy to the peasant is the peasant himself. The middlemen, who cause the worst oppression, are always peasants. Large estates are an absolute necessity because of the amount of land and capital required to make farming a success. If all the land were divided among the peasants each would receive about half an acre more, and a man who cannot farm on six acres will not be a success on six acres and a half."

"The real seat of the trouble is the school question, and not the economic question. The peasants are very backward and this can be remedied only by education. The characteristics of the peasant explain the present situation. In character he is just like the aristocrat. A Russian will follow a philosophic principle without compromise. He is extremely rationalistic. No one can tell what the next movement will be. The government is being weakened. It is introducing reforms as soon as possible but whether it can accomplish enough is the problem. The salvation of the people is in the development of the school system."

Charles Ward Post 62 G. A. R., entertained a large gathering of members and guests at an inspection held last week in Grand Army hall at Newtonville. The inspection was successfully made by Commander Haskell of post 92, Brighton. Among the prominent guests who witnessed the work were DC J. Payson Bradley, SVDC D. H. L. Gleason and PDC J. H. Wolfe. One pretty feature of the meeting was the rendering of a flag presentation two weeks ago to the post by tent 2, Daughters of Veterans, of this city.

Political Notes

Members of the Newton Democratic Club paraded through Newton Highlands last Friday night, headed by a file and drum corps, to Lincoln hall where a well attended rally in the interests of James H. Mahoney, candidate for senator in the 1st Middlesex district was held.

Literary Notes

The Inter-Nation for November contains a very interesting article by Ralph Berggren on "The Boston Elevated Railway Company." Some of the comments are extremely interesting and enlightening showing as they do, what the outside world thinks of Boston's rapid transit system.

"During the past four years there has been a great deal of outside popular interest in the character and achievements of the Boston Elevated Railway Company. Articles and pictures have appeared in many well known American magazines and periodicals, such, for example, as the 'Saturday Evening Post,' 'Collier's,' 'Harper's Weekly,' 'The New England Magazine,' 'The Strand Magazine' (English and American), 'The World Today,' 'Public Policy,' and others less widely circulated. Nor has this interest been confined to magazine readers. Throughout the country the Sunday press has of late years devoted much space to the salient characteristics of the Boston transportation system both for its engineering problems, popularly treated, and for the 'human interest' of its relations with employees and travelers. 'Bostonians like to believe, and they apparently have reason for so believing,' said the New York Sun, 'that this system makes it possible to travel further and more comfortably for a nickel in their city than is possible anywhere else in the world.'"

It is interesting to note, however, that the problems of management, the domestic and intimate side, so to speak, of street railroading in this city seem to have attracted even more attention than those of construction. The Boston system, in other words, has practically attained the distinction of being a standard for the comparisons of other municipalities—and this especially in questions relating to the comfort, convenience and polite treatment of passengers."

Unknown to itself, Boston has obviously come to occupy a unique position, especially significant at a time when rapid transit is so important a problem of municipal development. City and transportation system are apparently pretty well satisfied with each other which is a desirable condition not yet reached by any other of the larger American municipalities.

The Boston transportation system stands as the finest existing example of a monopoly so constituted and managed. Stock watering, for example, is very carefully provided against and the system this absolutely restricted to paying dividends on none but actually paid in capital; more than that, it is restricted from paying in dividends annually more than eight per cent on its invested capital, and has voluntarily agreed to a provision in its charter that if dividends should ever be paid in excess of six per cent, the cities and towns of the community served should receive an amount equivalent to the excess. Such an arrangement, while it protects the capitalists whose money has been invested, makes it equally certain in case of large earnings, that the money will go to the betterment of the service and thus directly back to the people who spent it. As a matter of fact the road has never declared dividends in excess of this modest per cent of interest."

Mr. Vahey's election as senator in this usually strong republican district is a distinct rebuke to the methods by which the nomination of the Republican candidate was obtained. That nomination belonged in all fairness to the candidate whom the majority of the country towns favored, and was given to the person who did not have that endorsement. The consequences were felt at the election on Tuesday when Senator Dana's plurality of 2643 last year was changed to a democratic plurality of 1536, and another breach made between the metropolitan and the country ends of the district. Hard and disagreeable work must be done by republican leaders during the coming year to repair the needless damage which has been done, or there will be constant trouble in senatorial matters during the next nine years.

Possibly the gentlemen who thought they represented the Republicans of Newton at the recent senatorial convention, now realize that Newton voters believe in fair play to the western end of the district. A loss of 1542 in the republican plurality for senator in Newton deserves careful consideration for future action.

The Moran vote in Newton was a surprise to the "silk stocking" element. It was brought about by hard work by the democratic city committee. To equal the Bartlett vote in Newton with a candidate like Moran, is a political feat which ought to make the republican city committee sit up and take notice.

Vahey Elected

The complete vote for senator in the First Middlesex District is as follows:

	McManus	Vahey
Newton	2551	2305
Watertown	521	1370
Frammingham	632	1553
Natick	1117	884
Holliston	136	279
Hopkinton	178	349
Ashland	135	193
Sherborn	93	69
Weston	177	72
	5540	7076

Mass Meeting

The Newtonville Improvement Association will hold a mass meeting in Temple hall, Saturday evening, Nov. 17 in the interest of the Claffin Field project. Congressman Weeks, Hon. Samuel L. Powers and Hon. Chas. W. Bartlett will speak and there will be excellent music. The public are invited.

Birthday Party

The birthday party for the benefit of the Charity Square of Central Church, Newtonville, held at the residence of Mrs. Alvin Henry Clifford on Walnut street was a most brilliant affair, and largely attended. The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion with potted plants and ferns. The receiving party consisted of Mrs. Clifford, Mrs. A. P. Felton, Mrs. H. R. Gibbs and Mrs. L. E. Hume, and several young ladies of the church acted as ushers. In the dining room, Mrs. William Hollings and Mrs. A. G. Sherman poured, Mrs. A. E. Vose and Mrs. W. H. Allen served frappe and Mrs. W. C. Boyden described the birthday cake with its eleven candles and told the story of the custom. Mrs. D. B. Wissall, Mrs. Paul Clifford and Miss Edna Johnson of Auburndale, Miss Ellis of Montclair, N. J., and Miss Stevens of Malden assisted.

Mrs. Howard Fletcher sang several songs in a most charming manner and was particularly effective in the "Love Story in Song" the poetry of which, written by Mrs. W. B. Blakemore was interspersed with the singing and read by the author.

The Talbot Reception

One of the society events of the autumn season was the reception given by Dr. and Mrs. George H. Talbot at the Newton Club last Monday to meet their daughter Miss Josephine Talbot. From 5 to 8 o'clock nearly 400 guests responded to their invitations and were present in the parlors of the club. Dainty refreshments were served and an orchestra provided music and played for dancing which followed in the assembly hall until 11 o'clock. Miss Talbot was the recipient of a profusion of flowers from her many friends.

Royal Arcanum

On next Monday evening at Denison hall, Newtonville, there will be a lecture on Jamaica, illustrated by the stereopticon, by George E. B. Putnam, Past Regent of the Council, to which members and ladies and their friends are invited. It is expected this will be an interesting affair.

Among Women

The Newton Equal Suffrage League will meet at Lasell Seminary, Auburndale, on Monday evening, Nov. 12, at 7.45. Arguments for and against will be presented. Mrs. Katherine Lente Stevenson, Mrs. Harriet A. Eager and Mrs. E. N. J. Walton will lead the debate.

At the next meeting of the Social Science Club Mrs. Hyington will give a paper on Dr. David Livingstone.

The first regular monthly meeting of the Newton Centre Woman's Club was held in Bray hall on Thursday, October 25, the president, Mrs. Frank E. Anderson, in the chair.

The program consisted of a piano solo by Miss Curries, an interesting paper by Mrs. Samuel Ward, entitled "The Bay Psalm Book," Mrs. B. Benjamin Buck read a delightful paper "A Plea for Fun and Nonsense," Mrs. S. Willoughby Wilder and Mrs. Alaric Stowe rendered charming solos. The program was followed by a reception to new members.

The Waban Woman's Club opened its eleventh season with a reception and tea at the home of Mrs. Geo. M. Angier, Pine Ridge Road. The president, Mrs. Nellie S. Pillsbury, Vice President Mrs. Ruth Winchester and hostess Mrs. Emma G. Angier received.

The reception was followed by a welcoming speech by the president.

The entertainment consisted of cello solos by Mr. Dodge, monologues by Mrs. Goddard and concluded with vacation stories by Mrs. Pietro Isola, a former president.

Mrs. Marion Knott and Mrs. Clara Heald poured.

The afternoon was an exceptionally pleasant one to all present and a very attractive program has been arranged for the coming year.

The next meeting is to be at the home of Mrs. Pietro Isola, Beacon street, where the members will be entertained with a lecture on Dickens by Mr. Geo. H. Vincent.

The second meeting of the season of the Newton Mother's Club was held Monday, Nov. 4, at the residence of Mrs. G. S. Jones, Putnam street, West Newton.

Mrs. E. R. Spear of Newton Centre gave an interesting talk on "Discipline," Mrs. Henry Whitmore spoke on "Children's Parties," and Mrs. John J. Mitchell and Mrs. E. C. Hinckley gave their views on "Time spent with and away from the children."

After each subject, an open debate was held by the members, and the meeting proved a very enjoyable one.

The Newton Ladies' Home Circle will hold their next whist at the residence of Mrs. Emma Child, 391 Lexington street, Auburndale, Wednesday, Nov. 14, from 2.30 to 4.30 P. M.

The Twentieth Anniversary

The twentieth anniversary of the Monday Club of Newton Highlands was observed Oct. 29 at the Newton Club. The president, Miss Katherine Ball, assisted by four of the past presidents, Mrs. Wetherbee, Mrs. Nickerson, Mrs. Cobb and Mrs. Phipps, received the members and guests. The formal exercises of the day were held in the large parlor, and opened with an address of welcome by the president. As the 20th birthday, she said, is the threshold of womanhood, where the larger questions of life lie before one, so the Monday Club at this advanced age must meet its greater opportunities.

Letters of regret were read by the corresponding secretary, Mrs. Pollard. Mrs. Parmelee of Newton Highlands, accompanied by Mrs. Sanson, rendered two fine violin solos, "The Shepherd's Dance" and "The Torch Dance," composed for Sir Henry Irving's production of "Henry VIII." For an encore she responded with "A Bee Song" which was most realistic with its humming and buzzing.

Mrs. Ryder gave a reading from "The Newtonian," a very complimentary reference to the literary work of the club.

Mrs. Newell gave a review of the work of the club in past years. To those who had been admitted to membership within a year or two the scope of the club's earlier activities was a revelation, and though awestruck at the wisdom stored in the minds of the older members they found comfort in recalling an old toast given a learned professor: "Professor B. B. H. knows Latin; he knows Greek; he knows everything. We are glad to know him."

After another charming selection by Mrs. Parmelee Mrs. Engles gave an address on "The Presidents," each of whom had been so admirably fitted for her time of service, from Mrs. Phipps, the dear mother of the club, who so kindly and tenderly nurtured its early years, to the "dear little sister," so full of youth, grace and energy, who now occupies the chair of honor. Music followed, "A Slumber Song" and "Gypsy Dance."

A farce in three acts was next presented by members of the club. Its bright sarcasm and genial mirth caused much amusement and hearty applause.

The honored founder of the club, Mrs. Kathleen Phipps, gave an original poem, "The Monday Club after Twenty Years."

At the close of the program the dining room doors were opened. The table, beautifully decorated with the club color, yellow, was graciously presided over by Mrs. Arend and Mrs. Bosson and was crowned with a huge birthday cake, whereon burned twenty candles. In view of the inclination of club women to linger "over the teacups" and the brief life of the wee candles, the "children's party" which would otherwise have been the closing event came first, and with fitting quotations and moving reminiscences the candles were blown out by twenty ladies.

The birthday cake was cut by the president and served with the other dainty refreshments.

The efficient committee of arrangements provided for every one's enjoyment, not forgetting a birthday gift at the close of the party, a dainty bonbon box, blending the club color, autumn fruit and the hallowe'en spirit in one.

Thus closed another red letter day for the Monday Club.

Hunnell Club

The first of the "Neighborhood Nights" of the present season was held last Tuesday evening, and the mere announcement that Ernest W. Harrison, pianist, and Carl W. Dodge, cellist were to provide the major portion of the programme together with the well known reputation of the ladies of the club for providing excellent refreshments, was sufficient to fill the ladies parlor and reception rooms.

After the program an excellent spread was served by the following ladies in the card rooms: Mrs. Everett T. Ryder, Mrs. Harry Dexter, Mrs. Fred A. Gay, Mrs. Walter H. Barker, Mrs. Francis W. Dana, Mrs. Arthur J. Wellington, Mrs. F. N. Place, Mrs. C. N. Young and Miss Myra Southworth.

After the serving of the refreshments in the card rooms, dancing was enjoyed by many in the upper hall until a late hour.

Now that people are coming home from Europe, from the country home and elsewhere, Charles E. Lauriat Company feel inclined to call their attention to the fact that their famous bookstore is no longer located where they were wont to find it, and that home-coming Bostonians who are book lovers—and who are not—should get familiar with the new location, especially as they have a store and a stock that they are rather proud of, and with good reason. Opposite the head of Franklin street is now nearer the shopping centre than opposite the "Old South," and most people will find the change a great convenience.

High School Notes

The girls field hockey team defeated Radcliffe last week, in an exciting and well-played contest. The score, Newton 1, Radcliffe 0.

The Stone School football team was defeated on Wednesday by our band of warriors. Newton outplayed Stone all thru the game but could only score one touchdown, Newton 6, Stone 0.

At a meeting of the Debating Club on Tuesday Charles Paul '08 was elected vice president.

The junior football team was called out Monday and Theodore Chandler was chosen captain.

"Situation Insurance" is a feature at Burdett College, Boston's progressive school for training in Shortland, Touch Typewriting and Bookkeeping. President Burdett began years ago to build up an Employment Bureau through which his students could go out into situations. The efforts of years and a liberal expenditure of money have made this department such a success that the demand made by business men for Burdett graduates can no longer be supplied. There is probably no truer service which parents can render their children than to give them a practical education in an institution like this, as they then have an independent means of earning their livelihood. Burdett College is located right in the business heart of Boston, 18 Boylston Street. The cost of tuition is $37.50 per term of ten weeks.

pany which will include William Norris, Herbert Standing, Verner Carges, Joseph Twohey, Helen Lowell, Maud Crichton, Olive Wyndham, Mrs. Cooper Cliffe and Eda Bruna. The piece is under the direction of Lieber & Co., and has been given a splendid and appropriate scenic equipment. While this will be the first presentation of the play, it is said that it is written in the happiest possible vein, and that instead of teaching a moral lesson, or anything of that kind, it is constructed only to furnish an acceptable and amusing entertainment. It is said to be full to the brim of bright and scintillating wit, and replete with interesting and novel situations, making altogether one of the most interesting and unconventional entertainments ever seen.

Mr. Mague

Mr. Thomas F. Mague the well known contractor, passed away on Saturday after a long illness. He was a native of West Newton where he was born 54 years ago. A widow, five sons and five daughters survive him. The funeral was held from his late residence on Mague avenue Wednesday morning at 8.15, solemn requiem mass following at St. Bernard's church at 9 o'clock. Rev. Father Francis Cronin was the celebrant, Father C. J. Galligan, deacon and Rev. Father Donovan of Wellesley, sub deacon. The bearers were Messrs Martin J. Neagle, John Gaw, Charles Dolan, John Gallagher, John Foran and Michael McGinnis. There was a large attendance and a profusion of floral tributes from relatives and friends. The interment was in Calvary Cemetery, Waltham.

Park Theatre—Shoppers who have occasion to visit Boston next week will have an opportunity of seeing a remarkable new play under curious conditions, for the latest effort of Mr. C. Haddon Chambers, "Sir Anthony," which is described as a comedy dealing with suburban life is to be given its first performance on any stage next Monday afternoon, Nov. 12th, at the Park Theatre. During the week the play will be seen on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons only, and it is to be interpreted by a specially engaged company.

What You Can Do With This Oil Heater

With a Perfection Oil Heater you can heat a cold bed-room, make a sick-room more comfortable, warm a chilly hallway, heat water quickly, and do many things better than can be done with any other stove no matter what fuel it burns. The superiority of the

PERFECTION Oil Heater

lies in the fact that it generates intense heat without smoke or smell. The oil found and the wick carrier are made of brass throughout, which insures durability. Gives great heat at small cost. Fuel has oil indicator and handle. Heater is light and portable. Absolutely safe and simple—wick cannot be turned too high or too low. Operated as easily as a lamp. All parts easily cleaned. Two finishes—nickel and japan. Every heater warranted. If not at your dealer's write nearest agency for descriptive circular.

The Rayo Lamp

can be used in any room and is the best all-around house lamp made. Gives a clear, steady light. Is the safest lamp you can buy. Brass throughout and nickel plated. Equipped with the latest improved burner. Handsome—simple—satisfactory. Every lamp warranted. Write to nearest agency if you cannot get it from your dealer.

The members of the congregation should be in their seats early as there will be a large attendance.

Police Paragraphs.

Probable cause being found in the cases of John D. McBride 22 years old, of 107 Harrison av. Boston, and formerly of West Newton, and Harold C. Folsom, 26, of Charlestown, who were charged with breaking and entering and larceny, they were held in $10,500 for the grand jury on Saturday.

These were the young men arrested in Boston for the Newton police after having been discharged in the Boston court when arraigned for alleged larceny from an unknown person.

McBride called himself John Kelley, but Inspector Frank B. Fletcher of the Newton police found that his right name was John D. McBride, who was sent to the Lyman school, Dec. 24, 1900, for breaking and entering a place in this city. McBride escaped from the institution and the police have since been looking for him. Folsom also has a record and only two weeks ago completed a term in the state prison for breaking and entering at Brockton, the police say.

Folsom and McBride both pleaded not guilty when arraigned on three counts. They were charged with breaking and entering in the night time and larceny from the store of John McCammon, 383 Washington st., Newton, on Monday night; breaking and entering in the night time and larceny from the store of Andrew J. Fiske, 985 Watertown st., West Newton, on Tuesday night, and attempted breaking and entering the store of John T. Burns, Center st., Newton, on Tuesday night.

On the first two counts they were held in $5000 each and on the third count in $250 each.

John Burns, the young son of John T. Burns, and Howard Fyle, another Newton boy, testified that Folsom and McBride were the men who Tuesday night threw a stone through the transom of Burns' office while they were inside. The Burns boy identified the men as the two who knocked him down on Washington st. when he gave chase to them.

Inspector Frank B. Fletcher testified to the finding of goods belonging to McCammon and Fiske on the men, as well as to finding other property stolen from the stores of these merchants in the room occupied by the young men at 107 Harrison av., Boston. McCammon and Fiske identified the goods as part of the property stolen from their stores. The goods taken from Fiske's place included some 18 boxes of silverware, according to the police, as well as considerable other stuff. Much credit is given Inspector Fletcher for his work on the case.

For Wedding and Anniversary Gifts, the beautiful Electric and Gas Table Lamps, as exhibited by McKimney & Waterbury Co., at their show rooms, 181 Franklin, corner Congress St., over three hundred ideal styles, fitted with Art shades, varying in price from $3.00 to $300.00 each.

THEATRES

Hollis Street Theatre—Admirers of Miss Maude Adams, particularly for the delightful performance which she gives in J. M. Barrie's wonderful creation, "Peter Pan," cannot but be interested in the announcement that her present performance of "Peter Pan" at the Hollis St. Theatre, Boston, constitute the only New England appearances she will ever make as Peter Pan. Miss Adams and Mr. Barrie's beautiful idyll of eternal youth are now so famous throughout the country and have been looked for with such expectancy ever since their run in New York last season, that it seems almost a public service to circulate the fact that it will be only possible to see the "Peter Pan" of Maude Adams during the present Boston engagement. For the convenience of out-of-town playgoers the performance of "Peter Pan" begins promptly at 8 evenings and finishes at 10:45. The Wednesday and Saturday matinees begin promptly at 2 and end at 4:45. This allows ample time for non-residents of Boston to see the entire performance with comfort. There will be but four more weeks of "Peter Pan" at the Hollis St. Theatre. Every man with the heart of a boy is a Peter Pan. The play is the apotheosis of youth. It has proved to be the greatest success, a success amounting to a triumph, in the record-breaking career of its charming interpreter—Maude Adams.

Boston Grand Opera House—At the Boston Grand Opera House next week, Chas. E. Blaney will offer his latest piece written by himself entitled, "Wild Nell, A Child of the Regiment," a military drama in four acts and five scenes. Miss Vivian Prescott, who assumes the role of "Little Major," a wild mountain flower whose father, being shot in a gambling brawl, leaves her in the charge of a private soldier of the 58th Cavalry, U. S. A., known as "Tom Hadley, the Gambler" created by Mr. Walter Wilson, the young romantic actor. She is brought to the fort and becomes the pet of the regiment. Matinees will be given as usual on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Keith's Theatre—There will be no less than a dozen what are termed "star acts" in the bill arranged for the week commencing Monday, November 12th, at Keith's Theatre. James J. Morton, "a fellow of infinite jest," is one of the most unique monologue entertainers in vaudeville. His methods are entirely original and his material always new, while his personality is very magnetic. The six musical cuttys present a most pleasing instrumental act. They are "really and truly" brothers and sisters, possessed of remarkable ability and versatility. One of the noticeable features in connection with their performance is that they are absolute masters and mistresses of all the instruments they introduce in their delightful entertainment. The former preacher, Edwards Davis, is one of the big successes of the present season in his powerful playlet, "The Unmasking," the climax of which is a great deal scene. Mr. Davis is supported by a capital company. Another of the acts imported this season exclusively for the Keith Circuit will make its Boston debut. It is the Four Harveys, the most wonderful performers on the wire that have ever been known on the stage. This is a pretty strong statement, but it is the unanimous verdict of all who have seen them work. The Rialto Quartet, harmonists and humorists; the Three Donals, phenomenal gymnasts; Julia Redmond and company in a very funny farcelet; Emerson and Baldwin, comedy jugglers; Alexis and Schall, in a lively acrobatic skit; McNamee, the clay modeller; the three Perry sisters, in a snappy sketch; Bennier and Stella, duettists, and the Kinetograph will all be on the program.

Tremont Theatre—Henry W. Savage's splendid production of George Ade's most brilliant comedy, "The College Widow" comes to the Tremont Theatre again next Monday. The sterling worth and wonderful success of this delightful play is too fresh in the memory of local theatre-goers to require any special laudation. It is well known that "The College Widow" remained a whole season at the Garden Theatre, New York, two years ago, and last year two companies of equal excellence were organized and nearly every city of importance in the country was visited, where it was received by crowded houses and remarkable enthusiasm. This season the demand for return engagements has been such that the company to be sent out are three in number, one going West, one South, and one to the larger cities of the East. In this latter organization, which comes to the Tremont, Mr. Savage has endeavored to assemble the best company that the play has ever had. From the two companies of last year he has carefully selected those artists who by their particular physical fitness and exceptionally good work proved themselves best fitted to portray the roles they represent. Therefore with the pick and flower of last year's companies, including many of those in the original cast, the result must be obvious, and George Ade's delightful characters will doubtless be presented with a faithfulness that will make it difficult to realize that one is not witnessing a performance of the real characters as Ade originally saw them. The four beautiful scenes have been newly painted, and the same care and attention will be given to the artistic detail of the presentation that distinguishes all of Henry W. Savage's productions.

Hemlock Gorge Changes

The end of a series of permanent improvements inaugurated by the Metropolitan Park Commissioners, at the Hemlock Gorge Reservation, at Newton Upper Falls, is nearing completion. These improvements were made partly desirable owing to a suit brought against the Park Commissioners a few years ago by the owners of a factory building bordering on a mill privilege, who sought damages for the filling-in of an old-time waterway, leading out of the Charles River above the second falls, and flowing into it again a short distance below.

Maude Adams, in "Peter Pan," at the Hollis St. Theatre.

While the matter was in the courts, for some three years the wild scenic surroundings of the famous Echo Bridge were fearful to behold as the water thereabouts was kept continually at a low level so that no damage might result to adjacent property. The lowness of the water caused the echo, for which large numbers of people came miles to hear, to entirely disappear, and the eye of the visitor rested only on ugly muddy banks of the "Silvery Winding Charles."

Four years ago the Boston & Worcester Street Railway Company laid its tracks over the Hemlock Gorge Bridge (an ancient and narrow wooden structure) and it soon became evident that a new bridge must be built in the future, that the broad lines of the Boylston-street boulevard, which cost in Newton alone $200,000, might not be narrowed at this important point.

The civil suit was finally settled and the Park Commissioners immediately set about getting plans and making contracts for building a two-arch concrete bridge with rough granite facing. The work of construction was started a year ago last summer, coincidentally with the building of a half-circular concrete and rough granite dam south of the old one, the gates of which are hidden under the small arch of the bridge. Last spring when the bridge had been completed the old roadway—the cause of the law suit—was opened up again and a concrete bulkhead constructed at its upper end. Then the city of Newton entered into a contract with the Park Commissioners to build under the street a concrete culvert having an arch some nine feet high. When a proper channel has been made canoeists will then be able to paddle from below the dam, under the roadway and up to the bulkhead where a suitable carry is to be provided.

All this work cost about $55,000, the bridge alone costing some $40,000, and was carried on under serious difficulties by reason of the street railway tracks and traffic. It was found necessary to shift these tracks three times while the work was in progress, and this was done each time by a large track gang at night and without delaying the service of the street railway. The tracks were finally permanently placed early last Tuesday morning, and the work of properly grading the various embankments and approaches is under way.

The water is again at high level in the river and the wonderful echo can now be heard. The bridges, etc.—so carefully have the Park Commissioners been in considering aesthetic values—fit harmoniously into the rugged landscape and lend added charm to the Hemlock Gorge Reservation, which is rated to be the gem of the entire Metropolitan Park system.

The cost of building the $40,000 bridge was apportioned as follows: City of Newton, $5000; town of Wellesley, $5000; County of Middlesex, $5000; County of Norfolk, $5000; Boston & Worcester Street Railway Company, $5000, and the Park Commission, $15,000.

The New England National Bank located in the Equitable Building, corner Milk and Devonshire streets, Boston, has a record of nearly a century of strength and reliability second to none. Mr. Chas. W. Jones is President, Mr. Stephen W. Holmes, one of the aldermen of Newton is its vice president and Mr. Edwin S. Webster, a resident of Chestnut Hill, and a member of the well known firm of Stone and Webster is one of its directors. The bank has a capital of one million, with surplus and undivided profits of $850,000 additional and its deposits aggregate about four millions of dollars. The bank confines the use of its money to its customers and to thoroughly investigated and established securities. This method of transacting business and its strong financial condition make the New England National Bank well qualified as a depository for trust funds and reserve accounts.

Halloween

Halloween was filled with festivities at both the Boarding-houses of the Boston Young Women's Christian Association. Peals of merry laughter, weird figures flitting about corners, hurrying footsteps, music, spicy odors from regions below met the visitor when the heavy Warrington street door opened to a magic password took her in safety past a spook which guarded a door, down a stairway, past booths of fortune-tellers into the big kitchen where the source of merriment was discovered.

Bobbing apples, puffing out candles, roasting peanuts and all sorts of games were going on. But in regions still more subterranean, the writer, having gone down stairs backward and met her fate in a looking glass, found herself in the real kingdom of spooks who passed her from one to another with doleful groans till she escaped up another stairway to the light and fun above.

At Berkeley street, a spook parade and a Bluebeard's chamber, a cone of doughnuts, a warning from the ghosts of Romeo and Juliet, games and refreshments, gave as one of the boarders said, "Just the best time we've ever had yet."

Crosby's Restaurant, 19 School street, Boston, is a good place to dine.

The Election

That Newton voters were interested in the state election was early manifested at the polls when the party workers at the polls noted the greatly increased vote during the morning hours. The gain kept up throughout the day and the total vote of 5424 is over 85 per cent of the registration, 9 per cent higher than the 1905 total. The increase was almost wholly in the republican column, Moran securing about the same number as Bartlett last year, while Gov. Guild's plurality of 1000 in 1905 was increased to 1781 on Tuesday. That the Moran vote equalled the Bartlett vote was a decided surprise to the political wiseacres as it was thought that he would receive only the solid democratic strength of the city.

It is a cause of congratulation that Lieut. Gov. Draper received a plurality of 1297 instead of running behind 119 votes as was the case last year. He was cut extensively in some of the wards but held his own remarkably well. The remainder of the state ticket received the usual republican plurality of about 2000 except Attorney General Malone who fell 381 short of the vote. Congressman Weeks ran ahead of his ticket and his vote of 3536 is the next to the head in total figures, being exceeded only by popular Ned Childs, whose vote for Register of Deeds, was 4026, with only a Socialist for an opponent. Captain Weeks carried every precinct save Nonantum. Elias B. Bishop, William F. Garcelon and John F. Lothrop are elected representatives to the General Court with totals approximating 3000 and majorities of about 1700.

The surprise of the day was the vote for senator in this district. It was known some few days before election that the republican candidate would have a hard time getting the usual party vote, but it was not thought possible to reduce Senator Dana's majority of nearly 1800 a year ago to a paltry 200 in 1906. A large number of blanks were cast for this office and in addition many republicans voted for the democratic candidate Mr. Vahey. Mr. Vahey carried every ward in the city save the republican strongholds of six and seven, and received a good vote even in those badliwicks.

The amendment to the city charter was defeated by 307 votes. The returns were slow in coming in as the law prohibited the counting of ballots during the afternoon. Precinct 3 of Ward 5 (Waban) was the first heard from at 6.46 P. M. while Precinct 1, Ward 4 with some new election officers did not reach City Hall until 2.26 A. M. of Wednesday. No difficulty was experienced throughout the day in handling the election and City Clerk Kingsbury laid made careful and ample preparations for every contingency.

The detailed vote is given on page 2

Fire

Three children under 5 years of age were in the house at 237 Auburn street, Auburndale, Wednesday afternoon, when fire broke out from some unknown cause. They were taken out by several neighbors without difficulty.

The house was owned by Lewis Feldburg, a tailor, whose family occupied the upper story. The lower floor was occupied by John Wilkins and family. Both families were away when the blaze broke out. An alarm was sent in at 3.15 from box 4, but the fire had gained such a headway that the firemen were unable to save the dwelling from being gutted. The loss amounted to $1800; partly insured. Rats and matches are said to have been the cause.

Logan-Shaw

A pretty wedding took place on the evening of Oct. 23 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Shaw, No. 475 Ninth street, Brooklyn, N. Y., when their daughter Bessie Jean, was married to Arthur Raymond Logan, of Newton Highlands. The house was decorated with yellow and white chrysanthemums and autumn leaves. The bride was given away by her father, Miss Harriet Brown was maid of honor and Miss Christine Tripp Shaw, the four-year-old niece of the bride, was flower girl. Charles S. Logan, brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and Sewell and Royal Shaw, brothers of the bride, were the ushers. The Rev. Robert Bruce Hull, of the Greenwood Baptist church, performed the ceremony. William H. Holt, of Brooklyn, officiated at the piano. The bride was gown in white crepe de chine and point lace. Her veil of tulle was held in place by a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid wore corn colored crepe de chine and carried yellow roses. The flower girl wore a dainty lingerie frock and carried a basket of yellow and white roses.

Mr. Vahey's Thanks

It is impossible for me in person to thank the citizens of Newton who assisted in my election. Therefore, in the most public way, I want to express my grateful appreciation of the magnificent support accorded me by the city. I shall try very earnestly to be worthy of such confidence, and shall give the best that is in me to the service of the people of my district. From the depths of a very grateful and sincere heart, I thank the citizens of Newton.

High School Notes

Boston Latin and Newton played a 0 to 0 game of football last Friday. The game was exciting and interesting to watch. Both teams used the new rules effectively. Newton had the better of the game all the way through.

The football team has been holding secret practice for the last three days, preparatory to the Brookline game. "Dan" Hurley of Harvard, Captain of last year's varsity team has been coaching the backs. The Brookline game today will decide the league championship.

Hinds who played tackle on last year's football team is captain of the Technology freshmen team, on which he is playing end.

A mass meeting of the boys was held Wednesday in the drill hall, and the school cheers were rehearsed for the Brookline game.

In a well-played game of field-hockey the sophomores defeated the freshmen last Thursday, by the score of 2 to 0.

The senior football team was called out Tuesday, but only a few candidates reported.

In the first of the inter-class football games the sophomores defeated the freshmen 11 to 6.

The '09 team made two touchdowns in the first half, but in the second period the freshmen stiffened up and scored. Gallagher, Atkinson and Gunn played best for 1910, while Cutler, Byfield and Smith excelled for 1909.

Grand Concert

On November 27, at 8 o'clock, a grand concert will be given at the Hunnewell Club, under the direction of Dudley Warner Fitch.

The following artists comprise the program: Miss Mary E. Reilly, soprano; Miss Emma L. Sladen, contralto; Master Lothair I. VanBuskirk, boy soprano; Miss A. Laura Tolman, a well known cellist of international fame; Mr. Hubert W. Pierce, a character artist in repertoire, who is too well known in the Newtons to need introduction; Miss Nellie W. Swan, pianist; Mr. Dudley W. Fitch, accompanist. Hall, advertising and business under the management of Mr. Wm. F. Banks.

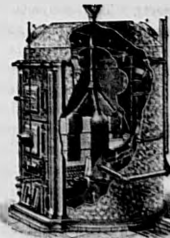

Among Women

The Women's Auxiliary will hold their regular meeting a week earlier on account of Thanksgiving day. The date is Wednesday, November 21st, at 3.00. Messrs. Ward and Ellison and some of the boys will tell of their experiences at Camp Becket this summer. A food sale will be held on Saturday, November 24th. Supplies for Thanksgiving dinner can be bought. The sale begins at 2 P. M.

Messrs. Litchfield, Ellison, Haskell, Cushman, Emery and Bascom attended the conference of Y. M. C. A. workers held at the Ford building, Boston, November 13th.

The boys' meeting on Sunday afternoon is attracting many boys these days. That the Newton association has the best singing at their meetings is acknowledged by other associations. You will enjoy the singing and speaking. Come at 3 P. M.

On Monday evening a gospel song service for men will be held in the parlor at 7.30.

The camera club exhibition brought out 100 vacation pictures taken by members of the club during the summer. The dozen pictures presented by Mr. Wm. Wharton were almost perfect in regard to arrangement and neatness. One of his pictures was given fourth place. Mr. M. H. Ward was given first place by the judge on artistic work. Many of his pictures were taken in New Brunswick and were beautiful portrayals of the wild scenery of that region. Mr. LaRose had one card of pictures finished on bristol paper that attracted a great deal of attention. One picture of the rapids above Niagara Falls was the best of any in the exhibition. The other members of the club all made a creditable showing and deserved great credit for their work.

The bowling team played its first game of the season at South Boston Wednesday evening and took two strings from South Boston. Johnson of the Newton team was high with 264 and Ward of Newton captured the high single. The score is as follows:

Free Winter Course in Dairy Farming

The Massachusetts Agricultural College officers without charge for tuition a general course of instruction in the management of a dairy farm and in dairy operations. This course begins January 2nd and continues 10 weeks. It is open to all citizens of the United States above 16 years of age.

Students taking this course enjoy the great advantage of a systematic though short course of training under recognized experts. The subjects taken up are soils, manures, fertilizers, and crops; the breeds and breeding of dairy stock; the feeding of dairy animals; stable construction and sanitation; prevention and treatment of the common diseases of stock; dairy products, their general characteristics and the laws of milk production; Pasteurization; elementary botany and entomology, and general horticulture. Students receive careful training and extensive practice in the use of separators, making the Babcock test, and in butter making.

All wide awake communities are demanding better dairy products. Students taking this course learn how to make the necessary improvements in methods of production. The demand for farm superintendents is great, but only up-to-date superintendents are wanted. Those taking this course are able to learn the latest methods.

Any one desiring information concerning the course should address Prof. William P. Brooks, Amherst.

Automobilists Fined

That under the present city ordinances of Newton a penalty may be imposed upon persons convicted of speeding automobiles was the finding made by Judge Kennedy in an automobile case in the police court.

New Drinking Fountain at Newton Centre.

The committee of the Newton Centre Improvement Association which has had in charge the erection of a drinking fountain on the corner of Commonwealth Avenue near Centre Street, Newton Centre, owing to the public interest in the matter, have decided to plan for a much more expensive and elaborate structure than was at first contemplated.

Messrs. Coolidge & Carlson have generously contributed their services without charge and the City of Newton has granted the location and has agreed to perpetually maintain the fountain when erected.

The right to impose a penalty was questioned by counsel in the Newton court Monday, when John W. Covert, a chauffeur for Hollis H. Hunnewell, the Wellesley millionaire, was arraigned for alleged speeding on Commonwealth avenue. Counsel at the time asserted that the city ordinances provided for finding a person guilty but made no provision for imposing a penalty. This statement caused much surprise to lawyers, court officials, the police and to automobilists themselves. In view of this point being raised Judge Kennedy on Monday continued five automobile cases for one week for final disposition. In the meantime he has carefully examined the ordinances.

It was in the trial of the case of Joseph P. Durbin of Needham, a professional demonstrator for the Stanley firm, who told the court that he had driven more kinds of automobiles more miles than any other person in the world, that Judge Kennedy announced his finding.

"I have carefully examined the law and am satisfied that the court has power to enforce a penalty in cases of this kind. Under the circumstances I took the greatest care in examining the law and I find that it is perfectly clear on this matter. I had supposed up to the time counsel for Covert questioned the right that police courts had this right. I now believe they have absolute power, the last paragraph of section 9, chap. 412 of the acts of 1906 being very clear on this matter," said Judge Kennedy.

Three automobilists were arraigned for speeding Wednesday morning in the police court. Two were fined $10 and one case was placed on file.

The case which attracted the most attention was that of Joseph P. Durbin, who the police testified sent his machine at the rate of 26 miles an hour through the Commonwealth avenue "trap" at Newton Centre, which was manned by Sergt. Thomas C. Clay and patrolmen Martin J. Neagle and Nathaniel Seaver. Durbin pleaded not guilty. He was represented by counsel.

"I have run more kinds of automobiles more miles than any other person in the world, without question," said Durbin when he took the witness stand. "I knew about the trap, as I had been told beforehand that it was there," he continued. "I slowed up at the Centre street crossing, but at one time my speedometer registered for a fraction of a minute 22 miles an hour. I was driving at a reasonable speed."

In summing up the case Judge Kennedy said: "It will take some time to get the people educated up to the custom of machines going 25 to 35 miles an hour over crossings. When electric cars were first run there was a feeling that people would not be able to get out of the way on crossings, but the public was soon educated up to the custom of electric cars."

Judge Kennedy said that the people were not yet educated up to having machines run rapidly over crossings. He then imposed a fine of $10. Durbin paid.

Robert R. Ross of this city was arraigned on a charge of making 26 miles an hour November 9 in a westerly direction in the "trap." He told the court that in the recent automobile contests here he came within six seconds of making 12 miles an hour on the track by guess work. He thought he was within the speed limit the day he was held up by the police.

"Your honor may remember I had you out for a ride about two years ago and—" said Ross.

"What has that to do with this case?" asked the court.

"I did not go at a reckless speed that time."

"No, I didn't think you would," replied Judge Kennedy, and a general smile went round the court room.

Ross was fined $10.

Eugene McCarthy, a 20 year old chauffeur living in Arlington, was charged with making 25 miles an hour in the "trap." McCarthy said he was informed in Boston that there was a trap on the Newton boulevard, so had been on his guard. His machine, he testified, had been out of order and a mechanical expert from Buffalo was riding with him to see how the car ran.

He was found guilty of speeding, but the case was placed on file.

Whist Party

A successful whist party and dance was held by St. Bernard's Aid Society of West Newton in Mague hall Friday evening. Whist was played from 8 to 10, and dancing followed until midnight. James R. Condrin was in charge of the whist playing, while the general committee of arrangements included Miss Margaret Cain, the president of the society, Bernard Farrell, Daniel Kneeland, Thomas Green, James Condrin, Miss Mattie McEnaney, Miss Rose Dunphy, Miss Julia Franey, Mrs. M. Subscriptions may be sent to William H. Rice, Treas. Newton Centre Improvement Association, Newton Centre, Mass.

Police Paragraphs.

When Carmen Collulico, 51 years old, a hurdy gurdy man living at 90 Grant street, Brighton, was arraigned in the police court Monday morning on charges of drunkenness and disturbance, he said he always carried a revolver and a dirk knife to protect himself.

"I had $435 with me," he asserted. Patrolman Butler of division 2 testified that Collulico got into an altercation in a Nonantum store with his son-in-law, Joseph Vacco, and exhibited a loaded revolver and a dirk knife.

Vacco testified that he moved from Brighton a week ago to Adams street, Nonantum, after having lived with his father-in-law for two years. When the latter came to Nonantum to collect some board money Saturday night, he testified, Collulico threatened to kill him.

Collulico took the stand and testified that he had supplied his son-in-law with furniture and food for two years and came to Nonantum to collect the bill. He exhibited a paper which he said was an agreement that Vacco was liable for the money whether he be in America or Italy.

Collulico was found guilty and a fine of $10 imposed on each count. When he pulled out a roll of bills to pay his fine he unwrapped a small American flag from the roll.

William Hanlon and Patrick Lyons, employees of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, were arraigned in court Monday for alleged larceny of 431 pounds of lead cable from the company.

A representative of the telephone company alleged that the men loaded the cable onto a wagon owned by the company on the noon of Oct. 24 and drove to a junk dealer's where they sold it. Hanlon was the driver of the wagon and Lyons was employed as his helper. The telephone company representative then pleaded for clemency for the men, stating that the company had recovered the cable and that the men were old employees and had large families to support. Both men have been discharged from their positions. It was stated that Hanlon was hit on the head nine months ago and has not since been accountable for everything he does, according to the telephone representative. Judge Kennedy found the men guilty and continued the cases to April 6.

For many weeks the telephone company has missed quantities of cable from this city.

One of our readers who is much interested in the subject of daily medical inspection of schools sends us the following clipping from the Journal of Education:

"Since Boston introduced medical school inspection in 1894 the saving of expense in the city hospital alone has been greater than the $10,000 a year which it has cost, and the cases of diphtheria have fallen off two-thirds, and scarlet fever five-sixths. Think of the significance of this in the saving of expense to the homes."

He also sends us the report of a recent hearing in Boston on this subject, in which emphasis was laid on the need of school nurses.

Political Notes

The democratic city committee has filed nominations for two ward aldermen, one school committee member and three ward committees for the coming city election. The ward aldermen nominated were William J. Doherty in ward 1, who has the endorsement of the republicans, and Michael J. Murphy in ward 5. The school committee nomination was that of James S. Cannon in ward 2 for a term of three years. For democratic ward committee in ward 1 William J. Doherty, John W. Murphy, William P. Sweeney, Charles F. Riley and Hugh J. Murnaghan were nominated. In ward 3 the committee nominations were John E. Foley, Daniel O'Connell, Bernard D. Farrell and John P. McGee, and in ward 5 Michael J. Murphy and John J. Nolan were nominated for ward committee. In ward 4, West Newton, there is some agitation to nominate a democratic candidate for alderman this year and Thomas J. Lyons, a well known business man, has been approached to allow the use of his name.

Political Notes

Congressman Weeks has received word that he will be appointed to the chairmanship of the committee on expenditures of the State Dept. when Congress convenes in December, to succeed the late Representative Ketchum of New York. The appointment of a member serving his first term is very unusual and indicates the position Capt. Weeks has made for himself at Washington.

It was the republican city of Newton which elected James H. Vahey of Watertown to the senate over Edward L. McManus of Natick. Already the gentlemen who were foremost in the work are wetting their cheeks with tears over what they have done while professing utter ignorance of the happening, but the responsibility is well placed. Newton has from the first been the weak spot in the campaign for Mr. McManus. When he was a candidate in the caucuses the Newton vote was the most coy and he grew to have some doubt on that, but finally when the nomination came to him he was given all promises of support. It was only right he should be for the choice of Newton in the past has been supported, not only by Natick, but by all the other republican towns in the district, and fair dealing was to be expected. The Newton professions of loyalty were so pronounced that McManus was really taken in. Not so all his friends. They persisted to dig into the heads of the Newton people the necessity of loyalty and they were assured that everything was all right. In the end Newton fell so far behind in the vote which it should have given him that Vahey was elected. One of the side explanations given is that they could not hold the vote for McManus. That is good in its way but if there is any other city where the leaders have a more complete control over the republican voters, and which moves them at will over the board, it would be well to send its name up. McManus lost evidently because it was on the cards that he should lose, but it is rather an unfortunate opening for what was supposed to be an era of good feeling on all sides.—Practical Politics.

Mrs. Smith

Mrs. Mary J. Smith, wife of Mr. Fred W. Smith, passed away at her home on Washington street Sunday. She was born in Hardwick, Mass., and was 44 years of age. Her husband and one daughter survive her. The funeral was held from the Church of Our Lady Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock and the remains were taken to Ware for burial.

MIDDLESEX, ss. To the heirs-at-law, next of kin, creditors, and all other persons interested in the estate of Clara D. Kendrick late of Newton in said County, deceased, intestate.

WHEREAS a petition has been presented to said Court to grant a letter of administration on the estate of said deceased to Arthur Kendrick and Eliza H. Kendrick of Newton in the County of Middlesex, without giving a surety on their bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Cambridge in said County of Middlesex, on the fourth day of December A. D. 1906, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And the petitioners are hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Newton Graphic, a newspaper published in Newton, the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court.

Witness, CHARLES J. MELSTIRE, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this ninth day of November in the year one thousand nine hundred and six.

W. E. ROGERS, Register.

Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate

Pursuant to the power of sale contained in a mortgage deed given by Grace D. Dutton of Newton, in the County of Middlesex, Commonwealth of Massachusetts, to Frederick W. Webber of said Newton, dated November 2, 1903, and recorded with Middlesex So. District Deeds, Book 3081, page 335, for breach of the condition of said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same, will be sold at public auction on the premises below described on Saturday, the eighth day of December, 1906, at half past four in the afternoon, all and singular the premises conveyed in said mortgage deed, and thereina described substantially as follows: A certain parcel of land with the building thereon, situated on the easterly side of Elm Street in that part of Newton called West Newton, and being bounded and described as follows: viz:—southwesterly by Elm Street there measuring ninety feet; southeasterly by land now or formerly of Capen, there measuring one hundred and fifty feet; northeasterly by land now or formerly of Langley, and in part by land now or formerly of Perkins, there measuring ninety feet; and northwesterly by land now or formerly of Mead, there measuring one hundred and fifty feet, containing thirteen thousand five hundred square feet, be the same more or less, and being part of lots numbered ten and eleven on a plan of Webster Place, drawn by A. Wadsworth, dated September 1844, and recorded with Middlesex South District Registry of Deeds. Said premises will be sold subject to one mortgage of $3000.00, and unpaid taxes and assessments if any. Terms as sale.

We print elsewhere in this issue a contribution relative to medical inspection of schools and notice of the beginning of an agitation for school nurses.
The tendency of this movement towards usurping the functions of the home is noticeable. The next step will be a supervision of the diet, followed by an inspection of the homes, to see that proper sleeping accommodations are provided,
and it is possible that the future will see school children compelled to follow a schedule of food, sleep and recreation fixed by a very paternal school committee. In all seriousness, however, we believe that there is a limit to the authority to be exercised in the schools and the sooner that limit is defined, the better the average parent will be pleased. So long as the Newton school committee persists
in forcing on one school district, a length
of session, which every educator declares
is too long for immature minds, its powers on health matters should not be enlarged.

The nomination papers of the two parties for the municipal primaries do not promise any great sensations for the city election next month. The Republican nominees will be unopposed at the primaries and so far as results are concerned, will be practically unopposed at the polls. Only four changes are therefore to be made in the board of aldermen. Ward Three, losing two of the strongest members in the board, Aldermen Hunt and Ellis, Ward Five, retiring Alderman Webster, and Representative elect Bishop completes his term as alderman in ward 6. No changes except for the better will be made in the membership of the school committee, Mr.
Whiting, who has been most negligent
of his duties in Ward Four being succeeded by Mrs. Adeline F. Davidson.
Mrs. Davidson's election will give the ladies two members in the committee, as Miss Cobb will succeed herself in Ward Five.

Boston Grand Opera House.—Barney
Gilmore in the comedy drama, "A Rocky Road to Dublin" written by Daniel L.
Hart, author of "The Parish Priest," etc., will be the attraction at the Boston Grand Opera House next week. The name of the play might suggest slap sticks and rough and tumble comedy, but there is nothing of the kind in "A Rocky Road to Dublin." Instead there is a coherent, interesting story, sane, well-written dialogue and ably drawn character
studies to please the intelligent Irish.
Barney Gilmore as the hero, Robert Daley, has a very congenial role. He sings capably, plays the harp artistically,
acts with a nice appreciation of ready Irish wit and looks every inch the young Irish gentleman. Matinees will be given as usual on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

Secretary Bonaparte's joking suggestion of a "legalized boss" would be a splendid solution of the predicament in which the Republicans of this senatorial district now find themselves.

First Snow Storm of Season

A sticky snow storm covered streets in this city with slush last night. The storm made general travelling about the city the worst since last winter. The snow clung to trees and broke off a number of limbs of shade trees. It also broke down wires in various parts of the city, one of the worse accidents of this kind being at Newton Lower Falls. Here policemen were called out to guard wires
which fell in the village square.

It was the first real snow storm of the autumn here.

With ex-congressman Samuel L. Powers and Congressman John Weeks as the principal speakers at Temple hall, Newtonville, tomorrow night, the Claflin Field project will receive an impetus which ought to carry it far towards success. In addition, Alderman Frank A.
Day, Mr. Charles E. Kelsey and Mr.
Robert S. Gorham will explain the beginnings of the movement and their hopes for its future.

UNITARIANS

Discuss Some Modern Tendencies

Newton Unitarian Clergymen The Principal Speakers

The monthly meeting of the Unitarian Club was held last evening at the Newton Centre Unitarian church. Notwithstanding the storm there was a good attendance. An informal reception was first held in the parlors and was followed by the supper in the banquet hall. At 8 o'clock, in the main auditorium, President George Hutchinson called the club
to order and made a brief address previous to introducing the speakers. The general subject to be considered was,
"Some Modern Tendencies" and Rev.
Alfred H. Brown of the Newton Centre church spoke on "The Rise of the Individual." He stated that he spoke as a minister treating the subject from a ministerial point of view. Individualism began with the beginning of things and its growth was parallel with the growth of the world. The whole tendency of nature is growth beginning with protoplas-
m and developing through the ages to the higher animals and to the human being. An impulse along the line of development came with the advent of Jesus and a fuller realization of the value and responsibility of the individual soul to the Creator. At the time of the Reformation the religious men awoke to a higher consciousness, and the beginning of Unitarianism was a more progressive step in the same direction. Society exists for the individual and the individual for society. Each is of necessity to the other.
The value of the Commonwealth is its laws enabling the individual to possess
property, to carry on business and a reasonable protection to life from violence abroad and at home. The prompt obedience to the laws both religious and political is better understood as time passes and the result if they are broken. A high grade of morality and honesty is the best policy bringing greater happiness, a more perfect life and a better understanding of God.

Rev. Adelbert L. Hudson of Channing church discussed "The Growth of Secularism," which he regarded as a wholesome reaction from unnatural and insincere views of life. Up to a generation or two ago it was the prevailing habit of those who professed to be guided by religious motives to speak of this present life as having no value except
as a preparation for another and better world. To take an active interest in the affairs of this world merely for the sake of the practical results to be accomplished was to be worldly minded, which was only another name for sin. It goes without saying that so unnatural a view of life could not be consistently carried out. Whatever opinions men might profess they could not help taking an entirely sane and very lively interest in the practical affairs of this life, even though they might express a doleful disregard for worldly interests, and sing with fervor "I'm but a Stranger here; Heaven is my home."

But the development of the larger freedom of the individual, discussed by Mr. Brown, led men to discover that they need no longer submit to such a false and narrow view of life. It was not necessary that they should pretend
to regard this world as "a vale of tears"
when in fact they found it full of interest and challenge. With this liberation of men's minds has come an era of wonderful progress. Many causes have contributed, but the speaker thought the underlying cause had been this releasing of the energies of men to develop the resources of the world in which they lived without being handicapped by any feeling that in so doing they were violating a deeper law of their being.

But splendid as the growth of secularism in its effect on the world's progress, the reaction of which it is the expression has gone too far in assuming that religion had said its last word a generation ago, and that in outgrowing
the mistaken views of its former leaders the business world has severed all connection with religious sanctions. It is the old motives in religion which have been discarded, not religion itself. The speaker next discussed the new motives in religion so that I need only bring the theme to the point when he will begin;
but it seems to me that much of the present indifference to religion on the part of many most excellent men and worthy citizens is that they have outgrown the old motives in religion without having made any effort to comprehend the new. Religion rightly understood goes hand in hand with the practical working out of all interests of life.
Which is only another way of saying that divine laws must be realized by natural processes. Just as the mountains are composed of the same materials which make up the valleys and the plains, so religion is just our common
daily life lifted up onto its higher levels.

The last speaker was Rev. Julian C.
Jaynes of West Newton whose topic was,
"The New Motives in Religion." The change for the better has come in the religious world of thought and feeling,
the period of creed and dogmas is passing away and the attitude of mind is toward liberalism. Belief was formerly supreme and the final test of creed, now
all are working toward a better conception of God's laws. Total depravity and original sin was the human condition
and could only be changed by getting religion which was clothed in repentance and gloom. In the present generation the religious growth is gradual and there is a natural gravitation of the soul toward God. The Christian of today is bright and happy, takes life normally and enjoys a reasonable amount of recreation and pleasure; he is glad to be alive, radiates good cheer, and believes that a normal life and consistent religion are stepping stones to the world beyond. The new thought takes the soul out of itself,
is busy smoothing the rough road way of life and the unconsciousness of self brings happiness to others, is the realization of the ideal and is the true conception of Christianity.

Next Friday evening, Nov. 23, Thos.
Burnett Camp No. 10, Spanish War Veterans hold an informal smoke talk at their quarters in Nonantum building, Newton. A cordial invitation is extended to any who have served in the war with Spain, whether soldier, sailor, or marine
to attend on that evening and talk over the matter of joining with our Newton Camp. Refreshments will be served and a good time promised to all who attend.

Accident

About 6:30 o'clock last night two inward-bound Brighton cars crashed together on Massachusetts avenue near the corner of Marlboro street Boston. Frank W. Morgan, 19 years old, of 137 Charles-band road, Newton, who was riding on the forward platform, was stunned by the shock of the collision, and was badly cut about the face and hands by falling glass. His wounds were dressed and he was taken to his home. Both cars were slightly damaged. The cause of the accident was slippery rails.

Business Men's Class

The lectures of Professor James Hardy Ropes, of Harvard, before the Business Men's Class at Eliot church are drawing a large attendance. Thus far the lecturer has sketched the underlying motives of the earliest missions after the death of Jesus, from which the entire fabric of organized Christianity has grown, and has shown the rapid geographical spread of the work. Next Sunday Professor H. K. Rowe, of the Newton Theological Seminary, will address
the class upon the Preparatory Period
historically occurring between Old Testament times and New Testament times.
On the following Sunday Professor Ropes will resume his lectures, dealing with the preparation of the ancient world
for receiving Christianity.

On account of weather conditions the trip to Cabots woods, planned for this afternoon has been postponed. Announcement of the date will be made at the next lecture.

Concert and Dance

Boynton Lodge I. O. O. L. held a most enjoyable concert and dance last Tuesday evening at Dennison hall, Newtonville. The Kate Belle Walton Concert Co. of Boston consisting of Mrs.
Walton-Quinn reader, M. Millie Beardsley, contralto, Annie Cutter Lamson, violinist, Lucia Cutter Belyea, cornetist,
Josephine Green, pianist, and Lilian
White, drummer, assisted by Chester Bonney, boy soprano, rendered a delicious program which was much enjoyed by the large audience. Dancing followed until midnight.

CLAFLIN GUARD NOTES.

Squad drill is proving to be the means of imparting to the men in a clear and concise manner the very foundation of close order drill, showing them that the ultimate success of any military manoeu-vers depends entirely on the men individually, and that they must grasp a situation in a quick and intelligent manner and think for themselves.

Taking pictures of a regiment, something like seven hundred and fifty, and taking them individually seems something of a proposition, yet that is precisely what Oppenheim, the photographer, has started out to do. The "Dandy Fifth" is to be taken one company at a time, and then grouped together by company in a large album, showing every man in the regiment in dress uniform,
and designating them by name. "Three companies have been "done" and now the "Clafkins" are up, among the leaders as usual.

The three officers of the company will be guests of the Claflin Grand Veteran association at a banquet to be held at the United States Hotel on Thursday evening, November 21, at 7.30.

Waban Lodge gives a concert in Dennison hall, Newtonville, next Wednesday evening.

Y. M. C. A.

Three straight wins were scored by the Newton teams in the opening contests of the season in the association gymnasium
Wednesday night.

The first team defeated Melrose Y. M.
C. A., champions of last season, 28 to 13.
The second team defeated Quincy 1st,
40 to 10. The intermediates defeated Lexington, 21 to 2. The games were witnessed by a large and enthusiastic audience.

In the game between Newton's first team and Melrose the visitors were given one point on account of a foul by a Newton player. The Wilson brothers were the star players.

His contributions were his picture of the white terraces of a great modern summer hotel on the North shore, which was seen at a St. Botolph Club exhibition, and a painting of an attractive girl drinking tea.

—Is your house wired?

—Mr. Mitchell Wing of Hunnewell avenue returned Sunday from Europe on the White Star liner Cymric.

—At the complimentary pianola recital held in Steinert hall, Boston, Wednesday evening, Miss Adelaide Griggs was the soloist.

—Mr. Frank H. Burt of Charlesbank road will be in Amherst the last of the week and will attend the Amherst-Williams football game on Saturday.

—In the parish house of Grace church last evening, under the auspices of the Girl's Friendly Society, Mr. William F. Banks gave a lecture on, "The Cathedrals of England." The lecture was illustrated by fifty stereopticon views.

—A large chorus choir has been formed at the Immanuel Baptist church to furnish music for the Sunday evening services. Next Sunday evening the chorus will be assisted by Mrs. Lara Parks Ridley, contralto soloist. Sermon by the pastor.

—The first entertainment of the season at the Hunnewell Club will be on next Thursday evening, November 22nd and will consist of an instrumental concert given by members from the Boston Philharmonic Orchestra Club, assisted by Mrs. Ralph C. Emery, soprano. A. H. Handley is the conductor of the Orchestra Club.

—The Boston Philharmonic Orchestra Club, consisting of fifteen musicians from the Boston Philharmonic Orchestra under the conductorship of A. H. Handley of Oakleigh road, opened the season last Monday evening at the Central Club, Somerville. The program presented was a most varied one including compositions by Meyerbeer, Beethoven, Weber, Gounod for orchestra, solos for cello played by Carl W. Dodge and soprano solos sung by Miss Mary F. Shervod of Newtonville.

Naval Examination

An examination for nomination to the Naval Academy at Annapolis for the existing vacancy in the 12th Congressional district was held by direction of Congressman Weeks last Friday and Saturday at the Newton High school. Some fourteen young men from six different places, four of them from Newton, in the district took the examinations in arithmetic, algebra, geography, U. S. history, and English. The committee in charge consisted of Prof. Marshal L. Perrin of Wellesley Hills, Mr. Irving O. Palmer of the Newton High School, and Lieut. Commander Gustav Kaemmerling U. S. N., Naval Inspector of Engineering Material and a classmate of Capt. Weeks. Dr. Irving J. Fisher of West Newton was the physical examiner. As a result of the examination Congressman Weeks will name E. C. Howe of Millis as principal, W. L. Leonard of East Foxboro, First Alternate, J. F. Malley of Randolph, Second Alternate and J. T. Comerford of Brookline as Third Alternate.

Mr. O'Donnell Killed

The man who was fatally injured by a fall from an electric car in Middleboro Wednesday was Michael O'Donnell Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael O'Donnell of this city. He was 27 years old.

O'Donnell left his home in Auburndale early that morning for Nantucket to make a two days' visit with a relative, L. D. O'Donnell. It was this letter found in his pocket which led to his identification. He took a train from Auburndale for Boston shortly after 6 o'clock and after transacting a number of errands in Boston started for New Bedford on the electric. He expected to reach the latter city in time to board a boat for Nantucket.

O'Donnell had only a few weeks ago returned from a long trip through the west. Since that time he had been employed as a driver for an Auburndale express firm. He lived for a number of years with his parents at 53 Washburn avenue, Auburndale, but recently the family moved to 329 Lexington street, that village. The young man had a wide acquaintance in that section of the city.

Miss Jennison

Miss Mary E. Jennison, a well known resident on Watertown street, died suddenly at her home Friday in the same house where she was born. She was a woman of a retiring disposition, strong in her friendships and at all times cordial with those with whom she came in contact. Deceased was for several years bookkeeper at Dutch's market at West Newton and more recently in Howe's provision store in Newton. Her mother and two sisters survive her. Funeral services were held from the house Sunday afternoon at 2:30 Rev. Charles W. Holden of the Watertown Methodist church where Miss Jennison was a member, officiating, and there were many relatives and friends present. The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful. The interment was in Newton Cemetery.

Woman's World

Conducted by MISS GRACE M. BURT.

At the meeting of the Newton Highlands Monday Club on November 12, three papers on the People of India. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Thompson of Walnut street.

The last meeting of the Pierian Club was held Nov. 7, at the home of Mrs. H. E. Child. After the business was dispensed with the papers for the afternoon were read as follows: Star fish, Mrs. Easterbrook; Sea Urchins, Mrs. Everett; Crabs, Lobsters, Shrimps, Mrs. Ryder; Barnacles, Mrs. Halliday. A piano solo was rendered by Mrs. Alex. Dresser.

The Newton Equal Suffrage met at Lassell Seminary on Monday evening, November 12, Dr. Eaton presiding. The program included piano solos by Miss Heath and Miss Sisson, students at the Seminary, and a debate upon the question of women's voting. Mrs. E. N. L. Walton, an old friend of suffrage, presented the arguments usually brought forward against women's voting, namely, that women lack tact, that they do not need and do not want to vote, that they are too emotional, that they are different from men and a lower order of beings, that the polls are not a fit place for women to visit, that the home is thereby endangered, that women will want to hold office, that they should not take the time from the home, that they cannot fight, and lastly that the results in the West where universal suffrage has been tried have not been sufficient to warrant it. These arguments were refuted in an able manner by Mrs. Katherine Lente Stevenson. She said that because men and women are different is one of the strongest reasons why women should vote, for woman touch, woman life and woman thought is needed, and because she sees things from a different range of vision her vote is necessary. That some women do not want the ballot does not affect the essential justice of the matter. The ballot needs woman. Women are helping work reforms, for the protection of the home, but at present they are obliged to do it by the indirect method, but the simple direct method is better than the indirect. Women have filled public office and filled them with dignity. Mrs. Stevenson cited instances in the West where they have aroused public opinion and brought about great changes for the better. If they have not succeeded in securing all the desired results in Wyoming, it must be remembered that in that state there are nine men to every one woman. She concluded by saying that if the ballot is a good thing it cannot hurt a good woman, and if the woman is good, she cannot hurt the ballot.

Mrs. Harriet A. Eager, State Organizer of the Massachusetts Woman's Suffrage Association, addressed herself particularly to the young ladies present and showed them how conditions have changed since our grandmother's time and that those which existed then are no longer adequate for us today. She made an earnest appeal for the girls in less fortunate circumstances who have no one to help them better their condition and therefore need the ballot more than those who have others to shield and protect them.

Miss Swankee Cameron of England, who was present, was asked to speak of conditions in her country. She said that the suffrage question is much before the public at the present time, that reports of the actions of certain agitators have been much exaggerated, however, they have made the people think and talk. There are many in Parliament today who think that suffrage is coming and coming soon. As some one over there has said, all the arguments are on the side of suffrage, but it is still a question of sentiment.

The fall meeting of the Massachusetts State Federation was held at Peabody on Wednesday, November 7. The morning session was occupied with reports of the Biennial Convention of the General Federation held at St. Paul last June. Miss Helen A. Whittier, president of the State Federation spoke of the scientific manner in which the program was arranged and with what remarkable results it was carried out. Each committee of the General Federation was allowed an hour in which to give its report and to present a speaker, an expert upon the subject considered. In the afternoon there was no regular sessions, but the time was divided between the various committees for the conference upon the subjects already presented in the morning. These conferences proved much more popular than was anticipated, so that they often ran over the allotted time. But other than this there were no conflicting meetings. Miss Whittier, as did all who reported upon the Biennial, spoke in highest terms of praise of Mrs. Decker, the presiding officer.

The work accomplished was brought to the members by Mrs. Leila C. Pan-nock, President of the Heptecore Club of Somerville. The General Federation, she said, includes forty-six state and territorial federations, 876 clubs comprising a membership of half a million women. She was impressed with the tremendous power for good which such an organization must be.

Miss Helen M. Winslow, who reported upon the evening sessions, expressed the wish that the men and the few women who do not believe in the club movement might have attended those sessions, where 5000 and 6000 were assembled—to the limit of the Armory where they met—hundreds having been turned away.

Mrs. Emeline C. Ricker of the Dorchester Woman's Club spoke of the social features, including the friendly intercourse at the hotel headquarters, the receptions given by prominent residents of St. Paul, the "play day" when an excursion was taken to Minnehaha Falls and the various trips to the numerous lakes and resorts in the vicinity.

Mrs. E. A. Whitman of the Cantabrigia Club in speaking of the spirit of the Biennial expressed the wish that she might bring back to her hearers some of the enthusiasm of that great meeting. The keynote throughout was the home. The political spirit was conspicuously absent while all were imbued with the attitude that the club movement is a work for humanity itself. All who spoke, spoke because they had something to say. She was impressed with the great change that has taken place in the woman's club in the past few years. It is indeed enlarging the true sphere of woman.

Mrs. Lucia Ames Mead urged the club women to take a larger interest in the cause of universal peace and in the establishment of a regular Hague Conference. A third National Peace Conference is soon to be held, to this she urged the clubs to send delegates.

Joseph Lee of the Massachusetts Civic League called the attention of the delegates to the necessity of their assistance in enforcing the law for medical inspection in the public schools and in arousing the interest of the teachers and the mothers in this matter.

At the close of the morning session luncheon was served under the direction of the hostess club, the Peabody Woman's Club. Every appointment was well ordered and the comfort of all carefully attended to. During the intermission automobiles were on duty to take the visitors around the town. Many availed themselves of this privilege and also of inspecting the Traveling Health Library belonging to the Massachusetts Federation which was on exhibition at the Peabody Institute and of visiting the rooms of the club in Odd Fellows Hall.

At the afternoon session Mrs. May Alden Ward, second Vice President of the General Federation, spoke of the Biennial of 1908 which is to be held in Boston. She outlined the plans as far as formulated, spoke of the great difficulty which is at present before the committee, that of a suitable meeting place, for an audience room seating from 5000 to 6000 must be obtained and one which has at the same time good acoustic properties.

The last Biennial cost $5000 and surely as much as that will be needed, if not a larger sum. She urged the cooperation of the clubs throughout the state for assistance in all directions. The people throughout the country want to come and we want them and we need the inspiration of such a gathering.

The speaker of the afternoon was Mr. Enos A. Mills of Colorado, who had been one of those to address the Biennial, and his subject "Our Friends, the Trees." He showed the great necessity for preserving the forests, and their extreme usefulness to mankind. The countries, he said, who have gone backward are those who have forgotten their forests, as Syria, Spain, China, while those who have succeeded have cared for and protected them. It was the forests of America that led people to come here. It is hard to overestimate the value of the trees to us. The living tree is one of the most useful of things while living. The desert is not a good place to grow good citizens. He showed how great is the relation of the trees to the healthfulness of the climate, in keeping the air and water pure; the influence of the forests upon the flow in the rivers, how the cutting away of the forest has been responsible for the floods and the irregularity of the flow of the streams. He urged the necessity of re-foresting the country and the establishment of larger areas of forest reserves. One third of the wealth of the country has come from the forests that were here when Columbus came. He showed how much may be done by reforesting, and cited instances of domestic forests, notably the Black Forest of Germany. Then he bespoke the friendship of the birds as a necessity in preserving the trees.

His address was interspersed with the recital of personal experiences among the mountains of Colorado which was intensely interesting. At the request of one of the delegates he told the history of a giant pine tree which had been cut down by a saw mill owner, but being injured by the fall was rejected as too much broken to be of any value. Upon examining the trunk and the rings of growth as it was cut to pieces, Mr. Mills discovered that it was 1047 years old and he related many vicissitudes through which it had passed as revealed by the appearance of the wood. Such desecration of the forest as this fairly made the hearts of his hearers ache so that the women went away with renewed purpose to secure the passage of the present bill for Forest Reserves now before Congress.

The musical numbers were especially fine, each session being opened with an organ recital by Mr. S. B. Whitney of Boston, and a vocal solo by Mrs. Florence Bradstreet of Danvers.

Prepare to shudder! A club woman—no less illustrious a one than Mrs. Sarah Pratt Decker, president of the National Federation of Women's Clubs—has spoken. Also she has said things. Note her significant words: "I know a small Western town that has ten Shakespeare clubs. Grasp, if you can, the full horror of that. But the streets of that town are dirty, and aesthetically the place is dead. There is no care for child life, no interest in sanitation, no regard for the larger issues—it is all Shakespeare. With all reverence for the Bard of Avon, I say, what a pity!"

From this I permit myself to infer that those ultra-Shakespearean dames ought instead to be scouring and weeding the streets, kalsomining the town pump, tinkering the plumbing and bossing the local bureaucracy. Nonsense! Are n't there men-folks about? In Cranford the wait of Mrs. Sarah Pratt Decker might square with Jevons, but in an American small town let's hope not! Glory and honor to Wilhelmus Rex for calling the ultra-Shakespearean dames to bear a hand in his service, and not meddle with the sphere of full-grown, adult men!

Still, from the viewpoint of mere man, I marvel that one minute townlet should breed ten Shakespeare clubs. Obviously it is n't Shakespeare that attracts. The good ladies are attracted by one another. And yet they get one another always in the Shakespearean phase, which is n't really very hilarious and couldn't keep ten masculine organizations alive for a fortnight. We don't get up clubs to improve our minds; we get them up to cultivate sociability and to demolish what's left of our morals; give us poker and the brimming highball. Our good fellowship thrives upon devilry. To be "out with the boys" is our dream. Women, on the contrary, evince an appalling seriousness and aspire in their clubbishness to expand their intellects and regenerate Christendom.

But wait, brethren, wait! The ladies long ago perceived the truth recently enunciated by a Chicago professor—namely that "the average man regards a woman as a cross between an angel and an idiot." They have organized clubs to undeceive him. Already they have shown that they aren't idiots, and that, upon the contrary, they fairly sizzle with mentality. Presently, no doubt, they will proceed to quash the other clause of the indictment. Hence a well-grounded fear that the women's clubs of the future will be something quite appalling.—Boston Transcript.

The Newton Ladies' Home Circle will hold its next meeting in the parlors of the Baptist church, West Newton, on Wednesday, November 21.

There was a large number of club members and guests at the meeting of the Auburndale Review Club on Tuesday, November 13, in the Congregational Chapel, and all greatly enjoyed Miss Emma Porter's lecture on Great Names of the Renaissance, with its graceful word-pictures of Florence and other art environments, and its sympathetic, delicately drawn surmises of the style and characteristic beauties of the artists discussed.

The club voted that the remaining lectures of the art course, in January, February, and March, shall be open to the public upon payment of a small admission fee.

At the meeting of the Newtonville Woman's Guild last week Miss Grace Chamberlain gave "King Rene's Daughter", which proved equally as charming as her recital of "Candida" last year. On November 20 the program will be in charge of the Charitable Committee and Miss Annie Ellis will speak of the work at Nonantum which includes the Day Nursery and the Girl's Club. Tea will be served.

Mr. George H. Maxwell will speak before the Social Science Club next Wednesday on "School Gardens and their Relation to Social Science." Guests may be invited.

The Social Science Club considered the Life and Explorations of Dr. David Livingstone at its meeting on Wednesday morning. Mrs. Byington presented the subject in a most thoughtful and appreciative manner, taking her hearers through the jungles and wild regions explored by this remarkable man, and pointing out carefully the many ways in which he served his country and the country and the world through his discoveries. She said that while he died a disappointed man, yet his life exemplified the truth that success often comes through failure; for she felt that his death there in the wilderness did more for Africa than anything he could have done in a longer life. The spirit of Livingstone still works mightily in Africa and his influence is yet found by the missionaries who go there to labor. The discussion brought out many interesting points and incidentally the consideration of the negro problem of this country. One member, who has lived in the South, expressed the opinion that the only solution of this great problem lies with the South itself.

The first regular meeting of the West Newton Women's Educational Club was held in the parlor of the old Unitarian church, Friday, November 9, and was largely attended. Mrs. Burrisson, the new president, occupied the chair for the first time. The program, which was in charge of the Education Committee, consisted of a lecture by Mrs. Kate Stevens Bingham of Oregon upon an "Ascent of Mt. Rainier." Dealing as it did with Mrs. Bingham's own personal experience added much to the interest of the lecture. The numerous lantern slides were exceptionally fine and most interesting.

All members of the club who desire joining the choral class will meet with Mrs. Gammons on Thursday mornings at 10.30 instead of on Tuesday as previously announced.

At the next meeting Miss Grace Chamberlain will recite Bernard Shaw's "Candida." Tea will be served at the close.

Clubs and Lodges

Newton Commandery, Knights of Malta attended the Methodist church at Newton Highlands last Sunday afternoon in a body. Rev. J. E. Charlton, pastor of the church, preached the sermon.

A party of 52 members of Dalhousie Lodge went in a special car to Needham last Monday evening, where they were guests of Norfolk Lodge. The grand officers were present and the third degree was worked on several candidates.

Mrs. A. E. Cunningham Tent 2 held a successful dance in Temple hall, Newtonville, last Friday evening. Dancing was from 8.30 to 1, music, Spring's orchestra. The matrons were Mesdames Andrew C. Hughes, P. H. McNamara, J. T. Gavin and John Flood. Miss Katherine Flood was floor director, assisted by a corps of aids. The hall was appropriately decorated for the occasion with flags and potted plants.

Newton Royal Arch Chapter will receive a visit from the grand officers next Tuesday evening.

In Dennison hall last Monday evening the members of Mt. Ida Council, R. A., enjoyed a lecture on "Jamaica," by Past Regent George B. Putnam. A large number of stereopticon slides were used to illustrate the beautiful scenery, customs and costumes of the people and many of the buildings, parks and drives.

Home Lodge, I. O. O. F., of Newton Highlands worked the 2nd degree on five candidates in Waban Lodge room Wednesday before many visiting brothers.

Waban Lodge, I. O. O. F., will give an entertainment and dance in Dennison hall, Newtonville, Wednesday evening, November 21st. Entertainment by the Kate Walton Concert company.

THEATRES

Keith's Theatre.—The theatrical season is now "on" in earnest and theatre-goers are being entertained by the best attractions that can be obtained, as witness the big bills at Keith's the past few weeks. The program for the coming week will be found up to the highest standard, both in quality and quantity. Another of the Keith exclusive importations will be prominent in the list in the person of Tom Edwards, one of the greatest ventriloquist entertainers the stage has ever seen. He has created a sensation in New York the past two weeks, and has suffered not at all by the comparisons that have been made between his work and that of Arthur Prince. The list of head-liners will also include Emma Carus, one of the most popular vocalists of the day, who is making her farewell vaudeville appearances prior to a starring tour in a musical comedy; the Hungarian Boys' Band, remarkable juvenile instrumentalists; Lee Harrison, the clever monologist who was for several seasons principal comedian with the Roger Brothers' companies; the 4 Harveys, in their marvellous wire act; Bryon and Langdon, in their laughable farcelet, "The Dude Detective"; Lee Tung Foo, the only Chinese vocalist in vaudeville, and Marzella and Millay, horizontal bar humorists and burlesque wrestlers. Others on the bill will be Cavana, an expert wire performer; Charlotte Ravenscroft, violinist and vocalist; Horace Wright, in a novel character specialty; Jennings and Renfrew, two Boston Boys who write the songs they sing; the Three Madcaps, acrobatic dancers; Mr. and Mrs. Jack in a brisk sketch, and the Kinetograph.

Tremont Theatre.—Mr. Savage's splendid production of George Ade's famous comedy masterpiece, "The College Widow," now running at the Tremont Theatre, is generally conceded the palm as the jolliest, the most exhilarating and altogether wholesome evening's amusement of the decade. Inherently delightful, this comedy de luxe was given all the accentuation that proper presentation can suggest. "The College Widow," as its title suggests, is founded upon life in a small college town, with student and village types intermingled in charmingly humorous transcripts from familiar campus scenes and incidents. It is primarily a satire, but is also an excellently constructed play, telling its simple story without verbiage or immaturity. From the opening speech there is scarcely a line that is not relevant to the theme upon which Mr. Ade has built. The dialogue teems with smart repartee, rude but good natural philosophy, and straightforward-the-shoulder Americanisms. It is a thing of joy to the collegian, yet appeals to the risibilities of all. The company has been selected with great care and attention to their physical as well as histrionic fitness to accurately portray Ade's delicious characters, and nearly every member of the cast has had from one to two years' experience and marked personal success in his or her role.

Orpheum Theatre.—Manager Williams of the Orpheum appears to be always on the alert to provide some new and startling attraction for his Boston patrons. He announces for next week an engagement with Kocian, the young Bohemian violinist, who was brought over here a few seasons ago by Rudolph Aronson and created a sensation in his concerts at Symphony Hall. Kocian will play a recital programme as a feature of each performance next week. Harry Tate brings his London comedy company here for the first time and will appear in the comedy skit "Fishing." Miss Grace Cameron, the original Dolly Dimple of "Piff Paff Poff," the Cottrell-Powells from the New York Hippodrome, Jack Norworth from Lew Fields' theatre, Adolf Zink, the diminutive comedian, Harding and Ah Sid, and Mlle. Olive are also among those engaged for next week. It is announced that the amusing spectacular attraction Jewell's Manikins will be continued for a second and last week. The great popularity of the matinees at the Orpheum has resulted in an enormous subscribers list for these performances and the social characteristics of the intermissions resulting from the acquaintances formed at these matinees has become one of the attractive features of the Orpheum. The Sunday night concerts have come to be accepted as a standard feature of the week's amusements.

Miss Grace Cameron, the original Dolly Dimple of "Piff Paff Poff," the Cottrell-Powells from the New York Hippodrome, Jack Norworth from Lew Fields' theatre, Adolf Zink, the diminutive comedian, Harding and Ah Sid, and Mlle. Olive are also among those engaged for next week. It is announced that the amusing spectacular attraction Jewell's Manikins will be continued for a second and last week. The great popularity of the matinees at the Orpheum has resulted in an enormous subscribers list for these performances and the social characteristics of the intermissions resulting from the acquaintances formed at these matinees has become one of the attractive features of the Orpheum. The Sunday night concerts have come to be accepted as a standard feature of the week's amusements.

BENEATH THE GILDED DOME.

Election Echoes

Note: It is intimated that the next indictment to emanate from the office of the District Attorney of Suffolk County is for the purpose of checking Sargent-at-Arms Remington in his work of regilding the dome. Moran is not so sure that the lofty cap to the State House is to glitter in honor of his advent as he was the night in the campaign when he said "Let Guild take notice that I am to be the Governor of this State next year."

"What party would be so insane as to nominate him for the governorship or offer him as a candidate for the presidency? If he had been beaten, as Bryan was, because of some such unpopular issue as free silver, he might appeal to the public again on some new, vital and popular issue. But he has been beaten for reasons as immutable as his personality. He has been tried, convicted and adjudged insupportable."

The puzzle is to find of whom the above was written, Moran or Hearst? The paragraph appeared in a leading New York or Boston paper. When you get that solved, tell us what Democratic paper said that "Only by the votes of tens of thousands of Democrats who refused as a matter of personal and party honor to support the candidate of 'Rot-tenness and Riot' was the Republican state ticket saved from complete annihilation." Find whether it was said of Hearst or Moran, or both.

Eugene N. Foss has announced that he will be out against Lieutenant Governor Draper again next year, and very likely he will be. That is neither here nor there. The important consideration is, how easy will it be to down a public man who has a good record? Aside from the particular views on particular subjects held by our public servants, the public are very likely to judge men by their real worth, and the man who undertakes to pick flaws in Eben S. Draper as a worthy and useful citizen, had better read the abundant lessons furnished by our recent history. It isn't difficult to undermine a pretentious aspirant for office, but when proven by his work that he has been true to his trust, it is astonishing how secure such a man is in the confidence of the public.

Among the Senators elected to the next Senate is Thomas F. Curley, who was chosen by the Fourth Suffolk District. The Boston Post (Democratic) says of Curley, that "he was elected to the lower branch of the legislature in 1905, but his seat was declared vacant by the House because he had been convicted of impersonating another man at a Federal Civil Service examination. He served two months in jail for this offense. He was a Deputy Collector at the City Hall before his conviction." Perhaps the "Honorable Senate" will follow the example of the House and declare Curley's seat vacant in the Senate. Nobody appeared to find any fault with the action of the House at the time in maintaining the dignity of that body and also of the Commonwealth.

A good many members of this year's House, who are coming back next winter, will miss the smallest man who was in last year's group. He came pretty near being among the ten biggest men in Speaker Cole's aggregation of two hundred and forty, and it has taken an Ex-Senator to fill his seat; that bright lad will have to be on his feet more than he is in his seat if he makes an impression equal to that of the sage of Holyoke.

If the New York Sun will allow the suggestion, as that bright journal dubbed Moran as John Buttin Moran, how would it do to designate him now as John Burntout Moran?

By-the-way, the New York Herald says that it so happened that Hearst voted in an Undertaker's establishment. It might have added that he, together with Moran, were later in the day politically embalmed at public expense.

The latest advices are to the effect that John B. Moran has concluded not to carry out his threat to remove ex-Senator Fairbank the first Wednesday in January. Fairbank is ready, but the people have refused to furnish John B. with the derrick.

Will the distinguished statesmen, Martin Lomasney, Brigham of Marlboro and Jim Mellen again form the Club sandwich, with Brigham acting as the lettuce leaf, as of last year in the House. That was inspiring sight.

About everybody has been elected except the President of the Senate. The Eastern and Western ends and the Middle of the State each have a candidate. Thirty-nine Senators are certain not to be elected and the fortieth may wish he hadn't been before he gets through with the job. It will be no bed of roses in this year of grace.

The fact that such a man as John B. Moran can receive nearly two hundred thousand votes for the Governor of Massachusetts, ought to cause the people of this Commonwealth to sit up and do some thinking. The three men who contributed to the defeat of Moran more than any other three, were John B. Moran, Thomas W. Lawson and Mayor Fitzgerald. Following these were about ten thousand Boston Democrats.

The fact that the State House dome is out of the reach of the City Hall warrants taking the risk of regilding that slightly eminent with fine gold leaf.
EDGAR J. BLISS.

Popularity of Canadian furs in the United States has come about in no small measure through the efforts of the Dunlap Cooke Company of Canada, Ltd., furriers, with their four stores in Canada and one in the United States, at 167 Tremont street, Boston. Their invasion of American territory with "Canadian furs at Canadian prices," emphasizes the present-day Canadian progress. This enterprising company has just issued thirty-five thousand finely illustrated catalogues with embossed covers, beautifully executed in three-color work, and showing how luxurious are Canadian furs. These booklets will be mailed free upon request to St. John, N. B.; Halifax, N. S.; Amherst, N. S., or Boston. The Dunlap Cooke Company, by importing furs in to the United States in the raw state receive them duty free, as against a duty of thirty-five per cent charged on manufactured furs. They are then made up to suit American tastes expressed by buyers of fine furs in the United States and Canada.

The ideal customer of any national bank or trust company, is one who carries a large account, seldom drawn upon. This is the reason why financial institutions allow interest on deposits over a certain figure, and otherwise make it an object for the depositor to retain a large balance in his favor. The New England National Bank of Boston with commodious quarters in the Equitable building endeavors by promptness and accuracy in its work, intelligent and scrupulous attention to details, to further extend its business, and by its courtesy and the accommodating spirit shown to large and small customers alike, is constantly increasing its deposits. Mr. Stephen W. Holmes of this city, is the vice president of the bank.

Burdett College, 18 Boylston St., Boston, has made for itself an enviable place among the educational institutions of this State. It is a favorite school with young people who wish instruction in Book-keeping, Touch Typewriting and Stenography. It is difficult to analyse the causes of the marvelous success which this College has, but it doubtless owes a part of it to the business policy of President Burdett and his associates, in absolutely refusing to attempt to win a new student by any false promises. The cost for tuition at Burdett College is $37.50 per term. Situations are found for all graduates, as this school has a private Employment Bureau for this purpose.

Literary Notes

Recreation for November

The November issue of Recreation is replete with entertaining stories that will please sportsmen everywhere. This up-to-date magazine is leading all its contemporaries in the great out-of-door-field, and not only excels in its hunting and fishing features, but is also publishing every month a selection of superior articles of broader appeal. "An Antidote for the 'Shame of the Cities,'" by Ernest Russell, the leading article in the November number, is bound to attract widespread interest. "Afield with the Dog," by Charles H. Morton, is a charmingly faithful sketch of the exquisite camaraderie between man and his dog. "Hunting the Red Deer," by William Arthur Babson, is just about the best thing ever published on the subject. Other hunting articles of equal timely interest are R. W. Stone's "Some Alaskan Big Game"; James Leddy Pequinot's "His Woodland Highness, the Moose"; A. W. Bittling's "Hunting Big Game in Wyoming"; James E. Sawyer's "The Columbian Blacktail," and Chauncey L. Canfield's "The Moose of Minnesota." In "The Fight Under the Mesquite" Emory A. Peffley tells a very amusing story. Other features worthy of mention are "The Art of Camping," by Charles A. Bramble; "Cruising the Fjords of the North Pacific," by D. W. and A. S. Iddings; "The Merry Little Hound," by N. Williams Haynes; "Some Rules of Horsemanship," by Captain James W. Dixon, and "The Football Outlook in the East," by W. N. Morice.

The National Magazine for November has a distinctively harvest festival Thanksgiving spirit. Senator Hansbrough and Mr. W. R. Kellogg are contributors to the North Dakota articles, which form a great feature of this number. These articles are splendidly illustrated, and give one a remarkably clear idea of the development that has taken place in this—one of the richest of Uncle Sam's great states. Then, as if to complete the story, we find at the very beginning of the magazine in "Affairs at Washington," that Mr. Chapple has written of the nation's prosperity and of the "bumper crops" as shown by official reports in the office of Secretary Wilson at Washington. Charles Warren Stoddard, in splendid style contributes a reminiscence entitled "An Adriatic Queen," which with "Money That Burns," by Elizabeth Magie; "A Negative Thanksgiving," by James Ramsey Bettis; "The Strategy of Pumps," by Archie P. McKishnie; "The Invader," by Henry Kendrick Schofield, and a large number of other pieces of first-class fiction supply all that one might wish for in this feature of the National. Another one of the Lamson studies adorns the cover, while Captain C. W. Hall, well known as a writer of great strength, contributes the verse used in the frontispiece "Dakota in Harvest."

SCHOOL BOARD

The November meeting of the School committee was held Wednesday evening
with Chairman Gorham presiding.

The annual report of the committee was presented by the Chairman, approved and together with the annual report of the Superintendent was ordered printed to the extent of 2500 copies.

New teachers were appointed as follows: Grace A. Gilkey, Pierce, Mary M.
Doyle, unassigned, and Annis M. Sturgis for Backward children. May C. Collagan was transferred from the Davis to the Franklin school and Mary M. Bradley from the Franklin to the Davis.

A resolve that the Hyde school lot was not large enough for the proposed new building without destroying the playground, etc., and requesting the Joint School house commission to "consider the matter of acquiring the remainder of the block upon occupied by the school was adopted.

The aldermen were requested to transfer $1000 to the Incidental appropriation.

About Town

A new time table will go into effect on the Boston & Albany railroad on Sunday next.

The city received a check for $11,000
this week for land taken and damages
caused by the new railroad to Needham,
which occupies a little over ten acres of the water works land on the Needham side of Charles river. The railroad cuts off 150 acres from the remainder of the land held by the city for its water supply. The award is regarded as most advantageous to the city.

City Auditor Otis will have the sympathy of his friends in the death of his brother Mr. Harrison Gray Otis of Worcester on Wednesday. Mr. Otis was 71 years of age and for many years was chairman of the Worcester Assessors
and more recently was Deputy tax commissioner of the state.

Mrs. Mary Simkhovitch of Greenwich House, New York city, the daughter of Col. and Mrs. I. F. Kingsbury will speak at the Social Education Congress held in Ford Hall, Boston, Saturday afternoon of next week on the subject "The Relation of the School to the Home."

The Primaries

One of the lightest votes in recent years was polled in the joint caucuses held Tuesday to nominate candidates for the city election. The republicans polled 187 votes and the democrats 153.

A feature on the democratic side was the nominating by stickers of one candidate for the school board in ward 5 and ward aldermen in wards 2, 3 and 4.

In ward 4 some one cast one democratic vote for the republican alderman-at-large and as a result the republican alderman-at-large secured the endorsement of the democrats as the latter party nominated no such candidates of its own in any of the seven wards.

The republican nominations were as follows:

Ward 1—Alderman-at-large, Frederick W. Stone; ward alderman, William J. Doherty; school committee, Joseph L. Caverly; ward committee, William S. Bowen, Paul Champagne, Edwin O. Childs, Frank D. Frisbie, Frederick L. Trowbridge.

Ward 2—Alderman-at-large, Charles D. Cabot; ward alderman, Edward K. Hall; school committee, Abbot Bassett; ward committee, Albert P. Carter, Edward P. Hatch, Edward K. Hall, Elisha L. Avery, Herbert K. Hallett.

Ward 3—Alderman-at-large, Frank S. Webster; ward alderman, A. Stuart Pratt; ward committee, Daniel G. Wing, Arthur G. Hosmer, Henry M. Davis, John A. Potter, Charles E. Hatfield.

Ward 4—Alderman-at-large, Frank H. Underwood; ward alderman, Adam E. M. Beck; school committee, Adeline A. Davidson; ward committee, Horace McC. Bunker, Frederick W. Jones, David W. Morton, J. Franklin Ryder, Howard P. Converse.

Ward 5—Alderman-at-large, Edward P. Bosson; ward alderman, Lewis H. Bacon; school committee, Cora S. Cobb; ward committee, Frank R. Moore, Albert S. Hutchinson, Thomas J. Sullivan, H. Stewart Bosson, Charles F. Johnson Jr.

Ward 6—Alderman-at-large, Matt. B. Jones; ward alderman, Allston Burr; school committee, William E. Parker; ward committee, Burton P. Gray, George W. Pratt, Alfred E. Alvord, Walter L. Sanborn, Frederick G. Melcher.

Ward 7—Alderman-at-large, Thomas Weston Jr.; ward alderman, Frank A. Day; ward committee, Chauncey B. Allen, Madison Bunker, Arnold Scott, Alfred H. Wing, William F. Carcelon.

The democratic nominations were as follows:

Ward 1—Ward alderman, William J. Doherty; ward committee, William J. Doherty, John W. Murphy, William P. Sweeney, Charles F. Rooney, Hugh J. Murnaghan.

Ward 2—Ward alderman, George E. Johnston; school committee, James S. Cannon; ward committee, John F. Barry, John Cronin, Thomas Regan, Thomas Spellman, Robert H. Casey.

Ward 3—Ward alderman, James R. Condrin; ward committee, John L. Foley, Daniel O'Connell, Bernard D. Farrell, John P. McGill, John M. Barry.

Ward 4—Ward alderman, Thomas J. Lynos; ward committee, Thomas J. Lynos, Timothy J. O'Connell, Daniel Walsh, William Kiley, Alfred Murray.

Ward 5—Ward alderman, Michael J. Murphy; school committee, William McOwen; ward committee, Michael J. Murphy, John J. Nolan, Thomas H. King, Donald M. Hill, Timothy J. Galvin.

Ward 6—Ward committee, L. H. Groth, Robert W. English, William J. Burke.

In ward 7 the democrats made no nominations.

Peculiar Accident

A peculiar accident occurred Wednesday morning to a freight train on the main line of the New York Central road near Eddy st., Newtonville, when an inward express struck and shattered a door of one of the freight cars.

The freight train was outward bound. One of the big doors of a box car had in some manner become loosened and was hanging at right angles to the car attached to the outward train. The door was broken into kindling wood and scattered over the tracks.

D. R.

The annual whist of Sarah Hull Chapter, D. R. was held at the Newton Clubhouse last Tuesday afternoon. The hall was prettily decorated and all arrangements successfully carried out under the able chairmanship of Mrs. Willard D. Tripp. Mrs. Loveland, Mrs. Faith, Miss Hubbard, Mrs. Hubbard and Mrs. Scherer won the bridge prizes and Mrs. Rowan, Mrs. Trowbridge, Mrs. Geo. Cox, Miss Barker, Mrs. Swan and Mrs. Davis were the winners at progressive whist.

Y. M. C. A.

The bowling team scored their second victory in the League Series last Saturday by taking two out of three strings from the Boston Y. M. C. A. The tournament was rolled off on the Technology Chambers alleys on Irvington street. McKenzie obtained the highest total of 251 and Johnson the highest single of 97 for the Newton team.

PASTOR CALLED.

REV. H. GRANT PERSON.
The New Pastor of Eliot Church.

At a special business meeting of Eliot church held last Friday evening Hon. Henry E. Cobb, chairman of the supply committee, read a report in which the committee recommended extending a call to the Rev. H. Grant Person, now pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Seneca Falls, N. Y. The report was received favorably and the vote which followed was unanimous. On Monday evening the Eliot Religious Society endorsed the action of the church. Rev. Mr. Person has accepted the call and will begin his duties about the first of the new year. He will receive a salary of $4000 a year and will have an assistant whose salary will be $1,000.

Rev. H. Grant Person, the new pastor of Eliot church was born in Saratoga County, New York, September 17, 1866 of good old New England stock. He received his early education from his mother, who was a teacher in a private school for many years. He prepared for college at Poulney Academy, Poulney, Vermont, and graduated from Williams College, in 1891, when he was the Class Day Orator. He graduated from Auburn Theological Seminary in Auburn, New York, in 1894, and was ordained and installed as pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Chittenango, N. Y. In 1898 he accepted a call to the First Presbyterian church, Seneca Falls, N. Y., which he now leaves to come to Newton. His pastorate at Seneca Falls has been marked by an addition of 200 members to the church, the installation of a new pipe organ and the erection of a Manse. In 1898 Mr. Person married Miss Georgia H. Ferry of Saratoga Springs, N. Y., a sister of his college class mate, the present Dean of Williams college. They have two small children.

Buried Here

The remains of Miss Georgia Cayvan, who was for many years one of the most popular actresses in New York, were buried in Newton Cemetery yesterday afternoon.

The death of this old-time stage favorite, who was for many years a prominent member of the Madison-square theatre company in New York and from 1887 to 1894 was leading lady of the Lyceum in that city under Charles Frohman, occurred Monday in a sanitarium at Flushing, L. I. In 1897 Miss Cayvan was obliged to undergo a surgical operation for a second time, after which she never again appeared behind the footlights. Two years after this she became a patient in the Flushing institution in which her death occurred.

It is said that Miss Cayvan died practically penniless. When she was first removed to the sanitarium a large benefit performance was given in New York, at which enough money was raised to pay her expenses in the institution up to the time of her death.

Whatever may have been her financial condition, it remained for Mrs. James A. Neal whose home is at 216 Highland street, West Newton, and a friend and warm admirer of Miss Cayvan for many years, to provide for a respectable burial.

Clubs and Lodges

Riverdale Lodge N. E. O. P. met in Society hall, Auburndale, last Monday evening. One candidate was initiated by the officers of the lodge.

The meeting of Crescent Commandry U. O. G. C. has been postponed from Wednesday evening, Nov. 28, to Wednesday evening December 12. This change is made owing to the holiday.

John Eliot Lodge A. O. U. W. will hold a public whist, in A. O. U. W. hall, West Newton, Tuesday, Nov. 27, from 8 to 10.30.

Past State Councilor Chas. F. Dow at present D. S. C., of Centre street, Newton, officially visited Enterprise Council No. 1 Jr. O. U. A. M. of Haverhill, Mass last evening.

Mr. P. A. Murray has designed and is now making an automobile tour which will allow the owners of touring cars to obtain all the comforts and advantages of the limousine body. The Murray invention, for which a patent has been applied, can be attached to the ordinary touring car in one minute's time and will quickly turn a summer car into one which will withstand the rigors of the cold weather. The new top weighs but two hundred pounds, while the regular limousine body weighs from 1000 to 1200 pounds, and it goes without saying that the Murray top is far cheaper in price. Mr. Murray will have the new top on exhibition at his shop on Washington street this week.

Golden Wedding

At the home of their daughter, Mrs. A. H. Elder on Erie avenue, Newton Highlands, last Monday, Mr. and Mrs. Charles N. Morse of Foxboro quietly observed their golden wedding anniversary with a small family gathering. They were the recipients of many letters and telegrams of congratulations from distant relatives and friends and also were presented with a profusion of beautiful flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Morse have resided in Foxboro during nearly all of their married life and returned to their home there on Tuesday.

In a bank of the size of the New England National at the corner of Milk and Devonshire Sts., Boston, doing a general banking business, the personal element enters into transactions with customers, much more than is possible in the huge financial institutions, where a single individual or account is of lesser relative importance. Customers in this bank are personally known to the clerks as well as to the bank management and by this personal knowledge and attention, is given the ability to serve them to their very best individual advantage. The New England Bank is energetically seeking to extend its business and has a capital of one million, surplus and undivided profits of nearly a million more and about four millions on deposit.

HAND-I-HOLD BABE MITS

A Drugless Treatment for ECZEMA

And all other skin diseases where it is important to prevent scratching.

When a child has any skin irritation it is a well known fact that he can do more damage by scratching in one minute than nature and medicine can remedy in many days.

HAND-I-HOLD BABE MITS prevent scratching, permit the tortured skin to heal, and this is done so soothingly that the child is delighted.

HAND-I-HOLD BABE MITS are also used for the prevention of Thumb Sucking, Nail Biting, Etc. They are on exhibition at the following stores in Newton:

Next Sunday the annual contribution
for the Newton Hospital will be taken up in all our churches. The Hospital is one of the causes of Thanksgiving to the residents of Newton and it is appropriate that this season of the year should be taken to appeal for its support. The increased work now being done, the extension of the Hospital plant, and other causes combine to make the appeal this fall a little more urgent than ever before. Let the increased prosperity of the city and its citizens, manifest itself in the donation which everyone, rich and poor alike, will join next Sunday. The non-church man or woman also should not neglect this opportunity to show appreciation of the work of the Hospital and contributions can be sent directly to the treasurer as well as thru the churches.
Let us all unite to make this 1906
contribution a record breaker.

Under the caption "PLAGIARISM" our infantile contemporary on the South Side, commented on the fact that the GRAPHIC had recently used an article
without credit to the Boston Transcript.
The charge is true as the article in question was sent as a clipping by a correspondent who neglected to mention the name of the paper from which it was taken. We understand that the article was written by the editor of our South Side contemporary, and it is our failure to recognize the "I" in the article which probably caused him to omit it from the above title.

Republican candidates for ward aldermen in Wards 3 and 4 will need considerable assistance next month to obtain election. The Democratic candidates are able and popular men and with the full vote of that party behind them, the Republicans must come out and vote in order to win.

Persons who remember the attitude of Newton Highlands citizens when the land for the new Hyde school was purchased a few years ago, will not enthuse
over the present project to buy the remainder of the vacant land in that vicinity.

For the benefit of our correspondent
who fears that we have abandoned our campaign for reduced water rates, we will say that we are simply giving our readers a little rest before making another assault.

The Juniors defeated the Sophomores
in an interesting contest of field hockey
on Monday, by the score of 4 to 0. Miss Johnson and Miss Harrington played well for 1908, and Miss Webster and Miss Tapley for 1909.

The second game between Brookline
high and Newton high will take place Thanksgiving morning at the Cedar street grounds, Newton Centre at ten o'clock.

A musical entertainment was given by Waban Lodge, 156, I. O. O. F., Wednesday evening at Denison hall, Newton-ville. There were about 200 present and after the concert dancing was enjoyed till a late hour. The entertainment was furnished by the Kate Belle Walton Concert Company of Boston, which consisted of the following artists: Kate Belle Walton, reader and manager; Alice Worcester Weeks, soprano; M. Millie
Beardsley, contralto; Annie Cutter
Lamson, violinist; Lucia Cutter Belyea, cornetist; Josephine Greene, pianist;
Lucy White, trap drummer. The committee in charge were: F. B. Woodside, W.
S. Cunningham, W. H. Barney, A. A.
Murray, Geo. W. Mills and J. K. Billings.

Police Paragraphs.

For the second time in a week Charles W. Titcomb, 32 years old, a milk dealer living at 37 Lincoln street, Newton Highlands, was arraigned in the court yesterday morning for alleged illegal use of milk jars. Today he was convicted of seven counts and fines aggregating $35 were imposed.

Titcomb appealed but after the court
had adjourned he withdrew his appeal
and was given until Dec. 1 to pay.

Hunnell Club

The announcement of the attraction to open the entertainment season at the Hunnell Club last evening was sufficiently strong to well fill the hall even though the weather was not first class concert weather.

The Boston Philharmonic Orchestra
Club, a body of musicians especially selected for their ability from the Boston Philharmonic Orchestra, assisted by Mrs. Ralph Emery, Soprano and Carl
W. Dodge, rendered an excellent musical program. A program replete with brightness to say nothing of tuneful and interesting musical numbers.

The orchestra was conducted by A.
H. Handley who displayed and brought out the fine work of the orchestra with ease and grace, showing himself to be thoroughly at home with the baton and
with the requirements of each composer
whose compositions were played.

The concert opened with the Coronation March from the Opera "The Prophet", making a fitting opening number to the program. It was played with vigor and strength, yet in the softer and more "dolce" passages the differences were well marked by the orchestra, showing their knowledge of ensemble work.

The overture "Raymond" by Thomas
has been given in Newton several times
before and upon this occasion was played in an interesting manner that pleased everyone. The string number by Tellam
"En Sourdine," a dainty little string number played with the instruments
muted was one of the best received numbers on the program, consisting as it does of a pretty strain well worked into a slow waltz tempo.

Mrs. Emery's first offering was the Cavatine from Gounod's "Queen of Sheba" opening with a recitative movement
and then going into an andante movement with few changes. Mrs. Emery was accompanied by the orchestra and sang well. Her intonation and tone and tune were all good and in addition, her voice possesses deep singing qualities
that made her work all the more pleasurable to her audience. For an encore number she sang the "Rosary" by Ethelbert Nevin.

The selection from the Opera "Aida"
by Verdi showed the orchestra in another light and this number received much commendation in the way of applause. One of the bright movements and most tuneful movements being the six-eight andante one with a solo for the cornet played by Lyman W. Freeman who gave to his work an artistic touch.

The next number was a double one.
Two Hungarian Dances by Brahms.

Carl W. Dodge was the next soloist to appear. Mr. Dodge's offering was a Fantasie by Servais, "O'Carra Memoria".
He played it well, showing himself to be acquainted with each note, movement and phrase of the number. For an encore number he played a Romance by Victor Herbert.

The next number was perhaps the most popular of all, Weber's "Invitation to the Waltz." Opening as it does with a movement for Cello, Flute and Clarinet
and then going into a bright, brilliant waltz tempo, which continues through the remainder of the number.

Mrs. Emery's second offering was a group of songs, "The Spring Has Come"
by White and a Madrigal by Harris,
both of which were sung with tuneful-
ness and style, showing her voice to excellent advantage.

An interesting number for the orchestra was a new French suite by Lacha-ume. It was bright, catchy and of an airy make-up.

The last number was the Finale from Gounod's "La Reine de Saba." A heavy orchestral number in march tempo that kept one's feet keeping time, making a good close to an enjoyable program.

In commenting upon the concert as a whole, it was very excellent. Mrs. Emery and Mr. Dodge as soloists were the features of the program. Mr. Handley's work as conductor, presenting him to many perhaps in a new field of musical work, was marked with much ability and the work of the orchestra, with the exception of its lighter movements compared well with other concerts of a similar character given in Newton.

There is a close contest for first place in the club bowling tournament. Last Friday's games were won by teams captained by H. P. Wardwell and H. H.
Learned, three to one in each case.
Teams 1 and 3 being the victors. On Monday night Capt. Wardwell's team again won three out of four from team 10 and Capt. Learned made it four straight from team 8. Mr. Learned rolled consistently each game, having a high score of 214 and total of 531 on Friday and a high score of 211 and a total of 529 on Monday. Mr. R. W. Augier had a high score of 215 and a total of 504 on Friday, while P. E. Stanley had a total of 524.

The ladies bowling tournament began last Monday with ten teams entered captained respectively by Miss Loring, Miss K. Holmes, Mrs. J. F. Bothfield,
Mrs. R. G. Howard, Mrs. F. H. Love-
land, Miss K. Howard, Miss B. Holmes, Mrs. A. W. Blakemore, Mrs. E. T. Ryder and Mrs. E. P. Tuttle. Miss Loring's team won four from Miss K.
Holmes, Mrs. Ryder's team made the same against Mrs. Tuttle and Miss Howard's team won three out of four from Mrs. Loveland.

The winners at whist Saturday evening were Capt. A. D. W. Sampson and
Dr. Cummings and Henry Tolman and Walter White.

Tomorrow night there will be bowling
for a Thanksgiving Turkey.

Better Telephone Service

One of the great events in the history
of every local telephone exchange is the "cutting over" which occurs whenever a new switchboard is brought into service simultaneously with the throwing out of the old one. Newton West is to be cut over, unless some unexpected accident
prevents, on Saturday evening, some time after the early evening load has fallen off. The work on the new exchange building in Cherry street has progressed
so satisfactorily that the new switchboard could have been cut into use on Saturday last, but the management decided to make a few more tests in order to be sure that every feature of the operation would be absolutely satisfactory.

The outward evidence that West
Newton citizens will have of the change
which has taken place will appear in the fact that, beginning for most people
with the waking hours on Sunday morning, they will no longer have to turn a crank to ring up Central. The act of lifting a receiver from the hook has, in the common battery system, the effect of lighting one of a large number of little electric lamps about the size of the end of a lead pencil. The operator, seeing the glow of the lamp, plugs the connecting jack into a hole just by the lamp. Such a form of operation is necessarily just a little quicker than operation at the magneto switchboard, where the operator must watch for the falling of a drop and then plug in on a panel some distance below. The force at the Newton West exchange has been well trained in its duties at the new switchboard, and it is expected that the public will find no hitch
in the service even from the start.

The building, which stands on Cherry street just below the corner of Washington, typifies the simple, severe and unostentatious architecture which the Bell companies of the United States have adopted for their exchanges. It has been erected on a lot 100 by 50 feet. Each floor of the building is 36 by 68 feet.
This is large for a suburban exchange,
but the structure has not only to make provision for the local service but, as Newton West is headquarters for an entire suburban district, it must also have offices for the district superintendent and his force.

The main or second floor consists of an operating room 34 to 48 1-2 feet, a retiring room 16 1/2 by 37 feet, and a toilet room 16 1/2 by 9 feet. These accommodations are large considering the size of the present switchboard, but the telephone business in this neighborhood is growing with such unprecedented rapidity that several years in advance have to be forecasted.

The new switchboard is one with positions for nine operators, two of whom give their whole time to handling incoming calls from other exchange districts.
The chief operator's desk and the Information Desk are combined into one.

The rest room will be furnished with appropriate furniture, including a gas range for making warm coffee or for heating a cold lunch brought from home.
There will be pictures on the wall,
books and magazines on the table, and whatever else in the judgment of the managers seems likely to provide for the welfare of the operators.

On the lower floor the rooms to the right of the entrance are the public room where anyone having business with the telephone company will make his wants known, and in back of this the headquarters of the district superintendent.
On the left is a large room for the district foreman and his assistants, and in the rear of all these a single room extending the width of the building and devoted to the clerical work of the district.
Behind this is the compartment in which directories, insulators, strands of copper wire and all the other apparatus necessary in the telephone business are stored.

In the front part of the basement is the terminal room where the strands of wire brought into the building in cables
are distributed in such a way that each set to the appropriate place in the switchboard and that in event of necessary changes can be removed without great expense or trouble. Here, too, are a closed storage battery room and one in which the wire chief has his supplies and his force. The power is from two sources, a generator supplied with electrical current from outside the building
and one connected with an auxiliary gas engine. In this way there is assurance of no interruption in the service.

CLAFLIN GUARD NOTES.

The three officers of the company attended a dinner at the United States Hotel Wednesday evening as the guests of the Claflin Guard Veteran Association.

Thanksgiving morning the "Claflins"
will hold a shoot at the Lexington range.
There will be a close rivalry as there are some good prizes.

In the afternoon of the same day the Sunlight dance will take place at the Armory, and dancing will also be continued in the evening.

Maj. Dearing, Regt. Surgeon, will be out on the 23rd to examine recruits and also the men that are up for enlistment.

An Ancient Traveler's Outfit.

A small "Traveler's Guide," dated 1780, contains a good deal of advice as to the luggage which should be carried. "Take," says the book, "two suits of clothes, one coffee colored and one blue; a chest fannel, a pair of leather breeches, a sleeping suit, three pairs of stockings, two pairs of gloves, two wigs, one hair bag (?), two caps, two hats, two pairs of shoes, one pair of slippers, six 'undershirts,' four 'overshirts,' six neckties, six collars, six handkerchiefs, four pairs of cuffs, three cravats, two pairs of cotton hose, two pairs of socks." But this is not all, as is shown by the following items: "Take a Bible, a book of sermons, a 'Traveler's Guide,' two albums, a diary, a quire of white paper, quills and ink, an almanac, a mirror, a silver watch, a silver snuff-box, a silver spoon, a pair of silver shoe buckles, a silver tie pin, three silver studs, a gold seal ring, a knife and fork with silver handles, a sewing case, an opera glass, a compass, a wax light and a tinder box, a toothbrush, a silver toothpick, a sword, a silver mounted cane, a padlock with which to fasten your door at night inside, a clothes brush, a box of medicine."—Pall Mall Gazette.

Fishes That Cannot Swim.

More than one species of fish is met with which cannot swim, the most singular of which perhaps is the maltha, a Brazilian fish, whose organs of locomotion only enable it to crawl or walk or hop after the manner of a toad, to which animal this fish to some extent bears a resemblance, and it is provided with a long upturned snout. The anterior (pectoral) fins of the maltha, which are quite small, are not capable of acting on the water, but can only move backward and forward, having truly the form of thin paws. Both these and the ventral and anal fins are very different from the similar fins in other fishes and could not serve for swimming at all. Other examples of non-swimming fishes include the sea horse, another most peculiarly shaped inhabitant of the sea, which resembles the knight in a set of chessmen, and the starfish, of which there are many specimens, which mostly walk and crawl on the shore or rocks, both being unable to swim.

The African Ostrich.

The African ostrich, from which the best white feathers are obtained, stands six or seven feet high and weighs from 80 to 100 pounds. Its egg is equal to about two dozen hens' eggs. Its feathers sell in Africa for about $200 a pound at wholesale. While walking quietly its step is about twenty-six inches, but when frightened the stride increases to about twelve feet, and at this gait it can run something like twenty-five miles an hour. When pursued it sometimes turns and deals the pursuer a blow with the foot that makes him think of the kick of a mule. The African ostrich is the largest bird now existing on earth. The American ostrich is only about half the size of the African and has three toes, while the African bird has only two. The plumage of the American ostrich is gray.

The Discovery of Electro Gilding.

The experiments which led to the discovery of the method of electro gilding were made in a cell at the citadel of Magdeburg, in which place, on account of his participation in a duel, young Siemens was at the time a prisoner, the chemists and apparatus employed being procured and smuggled into the fortress by a friendly chemist of the town. In the second place, it was the sale of the patent rights in this invention in England which supplied the brothers Werner and William with the necessary funds to carry on their experiments and so helped to lay the foundation of the important firms of Siemens & Halske in Germany and Siemens Bros. in England.

The Tyrant Doctor.

Human nature is beginning to revolt at what it calls "that modern tyrant" the doctor, for it is a fact, and rather a sad one, that doctors have got the upper hand of us in these days; that when we are ill we go through medical tortures and when we are well we endure a preventive system hardly less wearisome and painful. The truth of it is we are all become faddists, and the doctors are the very worst ones.—Lady Phyllis in London Bystander.

Woman's Brain.

Because woman has a smaller brain mass than man it does not by any means follow that she has an inferior or smaller intellect. I smile the quiet Socratic smile when I hear men declare that women have not equal intelligence with men. It is a position that no man can seriously maintain.—Dr. Emil Reich.

Different Medicine.

Mr. Courtney (flatteringly)—I had the blues when I came here tonight, Miss Fisher, but they are all gone now. You are as good as medicine. Miss Fisher's Little Brother—Yes, father himself says she'll be a drug in the market if she doesn't catch on to some fellow soon.

Making a Job of It.

The firemen continued their exertions until after 2 o'clock, by which hour all the damage that could be done was at an end.—Newcastle (England) Chronicle.

Believed Him.

He (indignantly)—I beg your pardon, miss, but I always keep my word. She (complacently)—I can easily believe that, for no one would take it.

Mrs. Mary Smith, wife of Nelson Smith died at the home of her daughter Mrs. Frederick O. Burnham on Madison avenue last Saturday. She was a native of Fairfield, Vt., and was 56 years of age. Funeral services were held from the house Monday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, Rev. A. L. Squier, pastor of the Methodist church, officiating and the interment was in Newton Cemetery.

Words of Praise

Nov. 21, 1906.
The following letter was received not long since by one of our citizens who has furnished it for publication. The testimony it contains is all the more impressive from the fact that it is the unsolicited word of a stranger.
"It may interest you to know that my disability is the result of malarial poisoning contracted in the war of the Rebellion, in which I served as private soldier for nearly three years; that I am a minister who has been set aside from the work of my profession for more than eighteen years, by this disease and during the past year have been a great sufferer.
"It is impossible for me to speak in too high terms of the care and attention given me at the hospital, by the physicians who had charge of me, the management of the hospital who cared for me, and all the nurses who ministered to me. I desire to express my belief (and I have been a hospital patient both in army and in civil life) that the Newton Hospital is an institution in which the city whose name it bears, the Commonwealth in which it exists, and the Maker it honors, may well rejoice."

Mental Poise and Health.

People who reach extreme old age are, as a rule, pretty well balanced physically and mentally. A poised life is serene, and serenity and harmony tend to longevity. The mind that is not well balanced is constantly jangled and out of tune. There is a constant jarring which racks the whole human machinery. There is discord in an unbalanced life, and discord is always destructive—deadly. The well poised, dignified life is not thrown off its center quickly. The man who goes all to pieces over trifles is one-sided. There is a momentum in a poised, balanced nature which steadies its progress and helps hold it on its chosen track.
Hot temper, constant mental confusion and disorder are vitally sapping—life shorteners.—Success Magazine.

The Natural Way.

A philanthropic person heard of a negro family that was reported in destitute circumstances, and, calling at their domicile, he found the report true. The family consisted of the mother, a son nearing manhood's estate and two young children. The benevolent old gentleman after hearing the mother's story gave her eldest son $1 to get a chicken for the Thanksgiving dinner and took his departure. No sooner was he gone than the negroess said to her son, "Sambou, you done gib me dat dollah and go get dat chicken in de natural way!"—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Odd Graveyard Inscriptions.

At Worcester, England, the slab erected over a departed nutcracker is inscribed with a single word, "Gone." In Sussex the initials and date of the death of the deceased are followed by two words, "He was." The most remarkable inscription is at Cane Hill cemetery, Belfast, where the inscription says, "Left till called for."

Piling It On.

"Our minister does have the hardest luck. Just think, the baby's down with the croup, Albert broke his collar bone last week, their horse died yesterday, and now Mrs. Rector has pneumonia."
"I suppose that by and by, on top of all that, some fool will get them up a donation party!"—Woman's Home Companion.

Two Ways to Prosper.

Two kinds of business men are bound to succeed. We refer to the man who knows how to advertise and to the one who knows that he does not know, but knows enough to get one who does know to write and place his advertisements for him.—Troy Press.

The Association Chess Club has been remarkably successful and although handicapped on account of not being able to secure the players that were expected yet in the match played between the Morphy Club the second strongest team in the Metropolitan League, one game was won, a draw, and the third will be protested and if the case is decided favorably it will make a draw match between the two clubs. Then in the association league in which we also have a team Newton has been foremost from the very start.

On last Thursday evening there was organized a new club in the Boys' Dept. This will be a social club and among the many things planned will be that of inviting many business and professional men to come to the association and give short talks along the lines in which they are working or interested, in this way not only will the sessions be very interesting, but from an educational standpoint they will be of great advantage. More can be learned of this new organization by making inquiry of the fellows or at the office.

The talk on "Power" given by Mr. Hayden of Watertown at the Sunday afternoon meeting last week was very interesting and the attendance was remarkably good taking into consideration the day. The Rev. Geo. S. Anderson, of Somerville, will tell of his trip to Jerusalem and through Palestine Nov. 25 and in connection with this talk Mr. Anderson usually shows some of the curiosities that he found while on the trip. All older boys are invited to be present.

City Hall Notes.

Registration for the city election closed Wednesday night with a total of 63 new names on the list, and 6283 voters, 107 more than in 1905. 3 women registered, making a total of 714 or 24 less than last year.

A curious feature of the recent primaries is the nomination by democrats of the republican candidates for alder-

Police Paragraphs

Selling cigarettes to a minor was the charge upon which Bonifazio Dini, a Newtonville clerk, was convicted Wednesday morning. He was fined $10.

Testimony brought out the assertion that he sold the cigarettes to Andrew McIntyre, a 10-year old boy, who had been in the habit of buying cigarettes for his father and uncle and had in each previous case presented a written statement from his father or uncle. It was alleged that upon this particular time the boy bought the cigarettes for another lad and did not present any note.

IT DOES NOT PAY

MADAM: Just sit down and figure out what it cost you to make that last "batch" of bread. Your flour, fuel, yeast, etc., taking into consideration, also, your time, labor and discomfiture—then compare it with the cost of same amount of

Can You Count a Billion?

The following remarkable calculation on the length of time which it would take a person to count 1,000,000,000 appeared in the English Mathematicalian. What is a billion? The reply is simple. In England a billion is a million times a million. This is quickly written and quicker still pronounced, but no man is able to count it. You will count 100 or 170 a minute, but let us suppose that you go up as high as 200 a minute, hour after hour. At that rate you would count 12,000 an hour, 288,000 a day or 105,120,000 in a year. Let us suppose now that Adam, at the beginning of his existence, had begun to count, had continued to do so and was counting still. Had such a thing been possible he would not yet have finished the task of counting a billion. To count a billion would require a person to count 200 a minute for a period of 9,512 years 542 days 5 hours 20 minutes, provided that he should count continuously. But suppose we allow the counter twelve hours daily for rest, eating and sleeping. Then he would need 18,025 years 310 days 10 hours 45 minutes in which to complete the task.

Derivation of Phrases.

Next to Shakespeare we draw most profusely from the Bible for terse expressions, Proverbs and Ecclesiastes furnishing the larger proportion from the Old Testament and St. Paul's epistles from the New. Milton, though far behind these two great sources of English speech, gives us more familiar expressions than any other writer after them. From him we have learned to speak of "a dim religious light," of "grim death," "a heaven on earth" and "sanctity of reason," of "adding fuel to the flames," of "tempering justice with mercy," of the "busy hum of men," "the light fantastic toe" (that boon to provincial reporters) and the "neat-handed Phyllis." Chaucer, though rich in material for quotation, has given us no pithy phrases, but from Spenser, who sang of him as the "well of English undefiled," we get "nor rhyme nor reason," "by hook or crook," "sweet attractive grace" and "through thick and thin."—Chambers' Journal.

Color Schemes in Building.

Strange how little we Americans do with color. We have a red brick house or a yellow brick house with a red tile roof or a green roof, and that's about the gamut we run. Most beautiful effects can be gained by the use of enamelled colors even on flat surfaces; dainty patterns can be worked out and brilliant yet harmonious effects gained. Our coloring schemes are tame. We certainly have much to learn in that respect from the Persians of old. They were masters in enamel, and their work was gorgeous, beautiful. With us it is lack of taste; it certainly is not lack of material. There are American makers of tile that produce material equal to that of antiquity, the richest colors and the most easily adapted shapes.—Clay Worker.

The Stinging Tree.

The stinging tree of Australia somewhat resembles a gigantic nettle. It has an unpleasant odor, and the natives and native animals are careful to avoid it. When a man is stung by the tree—or, to put it more prosaically, pricked by the tree's thorn—the little wound gives him at first no pain whatever. But in a few minutes a maddening pain is set up; the victim shrieks and rolls upon the ground. For months afterward when water touches the stung part great agony ensues. Dogs when stung rush about with piteous whines, biting pieces of flesh from the place that has been stung.

"Gent."

An early use of this slang expression is to be found in some verses—probably by Elkanah Settle—quoted by Walter Thornbury in his "Old and New London," from a poem on the "Lord Mayor's Banquet of Sir Samuel Fludyer," 1701, and apparently published at the time:

Where are your eyes and ears?
See there what honorable gent appears!
—London Notes and Queries.

Dispelling a Hallucination.

The Widow—Now, gettin' right down teh cold, hahd facts, Mose, what am yo' prospect? The Sultor—Mah dear, I's got a good job as managah on a laundry in sight. The Widow—Well, yo' want teh git dat out ob sight an' fo'git it! Mah last husband had dat same hahd-luckashun, but de lady who promised teh lub, honeh an' obey him postively refused teh be de laundry—Puck.

Obstinacy.

There is something in obstinacy which differs from every other passion. Whenever it fails it never recovers, but either breaks like iron or crumbles sulkily away like a fractured arch. Most other passions have their period of fatigue and rest, their sufferings and their cure, but obstinacy has no resource, and the first wound is mortal.—Johnson.

Moving.

He read the letter twice and then said, "This is one of the most moving pieces of literature I ever saw."
"Is it an appeal for aid?" asked his wife.
"No. It's a note from the landlord saying he has raised the rent."

Defied.

Tommy—Papa, what is a diplomat? Papa—A diplomat, my son, is a man who gives everybody the impression that he is thankful for their advice and then does just as he pleases.

Disorder in a drawing room is vulgar; in an antiquary's study, not. The black battle stain on a soldier's face is not vulgar, but the dirty face of a housemaid is.—Ruskin.

Woman's World

Conducted by MISS GRACE M. HURT.

There will be no meeting of the Social Science Club next Wednesday.

The wealth, jewels and gems of India were discussed informally at the meeting of the Monday Club of Newton Highlands last Monday afternoon. The club will meet with Mrs. G. W. Bail of Walnut street next week.

At the meeting of the Newtonville Woman's Guild on November 20 Miss Annie Ellis gave a most interesting account of the work done at the Day Nursery and the Girl's Club at Nonantum. Reports were given from the Massachusetts Civic League and of the Biennial Convention of the General Federation. Vocal solos were rendered by Mr. Charles Atwood. Tea was served by the Charitable Committee.

The Waban Woman's Club held its second meeting at the home of Mr. Pietro Isola, Beacon street on Monday. In the business session it was decided to revise the constitution and by-laws, and a committee of three was chosen of which Mrs. Josephine K. Crain is chairman.

Mr. Leon H. Vincent of Boston addressed the club, his subject being "Charles Dickens, the Novelist." He said among other things that Dickens had a powerful imagination and was gifted to move people to either laughter or tears. That he was interested in child life and was a charming father. His novels contained the pictorial element which was at that time a new feature. All those present were made to feel Dickens' personality, buoyancy, and the spontaneity of his nature.

The next meeting will be at the house of Mrs. Clinton M. Hill, Windsor road, December 3rd. There will be a lecture on Italy illustrated with stereopticon by Mr. Pietro Isola.

The Club Department, or club column, is now a regularly established feature of so many great dailies, suburban and county papers, as to cause no comment whatever. Club women everywhere depend upon it for news of each other, for State and official news, for information concerning movements in which all were interested. But when the first club column, which, by the way, was but half a column, was started away back in 1892 by Mrs. E. M. H. Merrill in the Boston Globe, it was considered a doubtful experiment, and rather a silly idea on the part of its originator. The Boston Herald took it up the following year and enlarged it, making it rather a popular feature; but, when I opened the Club Department of the old conservative Boston Transcript the same year, the management consented only on condition that I would sign my name to it and be responsible for all statements made therein. Most club women of to-day know how quickly other metropolitan papers adopted the plan, and how necessary the club-column is considered to-day to every flourishing club centre. And the public worker, the philanthropist, the preacher of civic righteousness, the consumers' league, the pure food committee, the child-labor crusaders,—how they can testify to the usefulness, the necessity, for the newspaper club column, whenever a great reform is to be brought about!

I will not say the average Club Department might not be vastly improved. Many of them are trivial, dealing with insignificant local affairs instead of giving broad, comprehensive views of the great things being done by the club women of today. But this is not always the fault of the paper. It is seldom the fault of the club editor. If the clientele who read the club column will tolerate nothing larger than the pink teas and musicales of their local clubs, the newspapers are not wholly to blame for not educating them to something higher. If in these days, when women's clubs are doing so much for the communities wherein they are established, the club correspondents send no word to the editor of the real accomplishments of their clubs, but give instead elaborate descriptions of table decorations and best gowns whose fault is it that the column is not so helpful and stimulating as it might be? There are two essentials to the value of a club department: first, a reporter who can see beyond petty details and grasp a broad sweep of plan and accomplishment; and, second, a club editor who insists that all her reports shall be of this kind.

The press is the means by which the club movement reaches up to the sky of high purpose and noble endeavor. Nothing is to high for us to try to reach. Nothing that cries out for help is too hedged about with difficulties for us to lend our hearts and hands to deliver; and it is the press which is our very present help in time of trouble. But we must be wise and make the best use of it. We must not only demand that the club movement shall be properly represented in print; we must see to it that the club movement is properly reported. It is our own fault if it is not.

In closing, I feel that I may be spokesman for every good newspaper in this great country, and promise you the cooperation of the American press in every movement which makes for the development and uplifting of humanity. American journalism leads the world. American club women lead all others. Let them go hand in hand, and what shall they not achieve?"

The Club Women and the Press is the title of an address given by Miss Helen M. Winslow at the Biennial Convention of the General Federation at St. Paul. A few quotations from it may be of interest to the club women of Newton.

"Take it in our club work, for instance. Where would the General Federation be to-day if it had not been for the cooperation of the press? From the very first the newspapers have been friendly to the club movement. The paragraph, who is compelled to scan the whole horizon of life for material, the joke-smith, who must seize upon every new fad, every passing fancy, for his never-satisfied hopper, have each had fun with us, and still indulge in a crack at our weaknesses occasionally, but on the whole the papers have been friendly, and have recognized from the start the beginnings and the possibilities that have lain within our reach. If they have sometimes failed to have dignified reports of our actual accomplishment, let us ask ourselves whose fault it is.

THEATRES

Tremont Theatre.—The third big week in Boston of Henry W. Savage's splendid production of George Ade's most brilliant comedy, "The College Widow," will begin next Monday at the Tremont Theatre. This delightful comedy, with its interesting story of college life, numerous quaint characters, rapid action and pretty scenes, culminated in the great football scene, which is presented with so much realism that it whirls both players and spectators into a vortex of excitement when the victorious Billy Bolton is rushed to the footlights on the shoulders of his admiring comrades amidst the din of shouts and cheers and torrents of applause. It is a scene that must be seen to be appreciated, and seen more than once to get its full value and realize the tremendous amount of carefully worked out detail in the art of stagecraft. The cast has been carefully selected from Mr. Savage's last two years' companies with a view to having every part presented by artists who, by past experience in the roles, have proven themselves best fitted to give Ade's characters their most perfect representation. Nearly all the members of the present company have had from one to two years experience in their roles, and each one has achieved a distinct personal hit. The result must be obvious. Miss Gertrude Quinlan who was the original Flora Wiggins, and by her success in this quaint character has placed herself in the very front rank of comedienne, is repeating her matchless performance. Mr. Thomas Meighan, who scored last year as the handsome athletic Billy Bolton, is making new friends in that role, while pretty and vivacious Louise Ford appears as the much-kissed chaperone, Frederick Burton, the original Bub Hicks from Squantumville who so quickly becomes "Sport" Hicks, is another old favorite. Evelyn Vaughan is winning much praise as the fascinating widow, and Adeline Dunlap is probably giving the best representation of the stage athletic girl that we have had. Other members of the cast are: Albert Tavernier, Walter Walker, Edgar Halstead, Dan Celler, Hale Norcross, Charles Blanchard, Laurence Wheat, Cyril Raymond, E. Y. Backus, Melville Alexander, Dale Loomis and others. The town girls are represented by Mildred St. Pierre, Minnie Monroe, Virginia Milton, Alice Donovan, and the production as a whole is in keeping with the superior excellence always maintained in Henry W. Savage's productions.

Keith's Theatre.—Holiday weeks demand shows of a somewhat different type from other weeks—such is the conclusion arrived at by the Keith management as a result of their years of experience. The programs must be of a lighter character, with comedy and "Sight acts" predominating, for these are the acts the children like, and every week with a holiday in it is "Children's Week" at Keith's. The comedy acts on next week's bill will include Sherman, De Forrest and company's new travesty act, "A Jay Circus," a very funny affair with a bucking mule as one of the characters; Willard Simms and company in "Flinders' Furnished Flat," the drollest skit in vaudeville; Lew Sully, the quaint monologist with his jollisms; Burke and Dempsey, a pair of the brightest parodists of the day, and Will La Belle, a clever comedy juggler. Among the "sight acts" may be mentioned John and Louis Boller, in sensational feats in cycling, the Kremka Brothers, European equilibrist; Spessard's Bears, in many novel tricks; and Claude Frederick and his very clever little trained pony, "Don."

The Royal Musical Five, versatile instrumentalists; Hamilton Hill, the baritone balladist; Fitzgerald and Trainor in a bright singing and dancing specialty; Walter Daniels, character impersonator; Sisti Stevens, in various styles of dancing, and new pictures by the Kinograph will complete the bill. Arnold

Daly and company in the Bernard Shaw playlet, "How He Lied to Her Husband," will be the headline feature for the week of December 3rd. Mrs. Langtry's engagement is for the weeks of December 10th and 17th.

Orpheum.—The appearance for the first time in Boston of the Princess Estelle de Broglie will be the sensational feature of the bill at the Orpheum next week. The Princess is a California girl who was married to Prince Robert de Broglie abroad some years ago and after travelling over the world with her husband she came to this country last spring. Her husband, the Prince, having exhausted his resources, the couple were forced to rely upon the abilities of the Princess as a vocalist and she has recently accepted an engagement with Manager Williams for an extended term. The Prince will conduct the orchestra when the Princess sings. Another notable engagement is that of Lafayette who will make a production of "The Medicine Man" and give imitations of all the great conductors. Another strong attraction will be found in the first appearance here of Thomas J. Ryan and Mary Lichfield and their company in "Mag Haggerty's Reception." The other engagements include the first appearance here of the Rappo sisters, the Russian dancers; Ed. Latelle, the musical comedian; Charles Kenna, the Fakir; Walters and Prouty, the Yiddish comedians; Sadi Alferli, a European equilibrist, and the vitagraph will show some new pictures.

The show rooms of McKenney & Waterbury Co., 181 Franklin, corner Congress St., are worthy of a visit to all interested in the art of lighting fixtures for the home. There are over one thousand and lights, showing effects to meet all decorations and a display of Electric and Gas Table Lamps, with fine Art shades which make most acceptable Wedding and Anniversary Gifts.

HOSPITAL

Newton's Most Promising Charity

Statement of Needs and Appeal For Funds

The work of the Newton Hospital in the past and its plans for the future are set forth in the accompanying statement of the Executive Committee and of the Hospital Aid Association. To meet the legitimate demands for care of the needy sick, there must be generous support from the citizens of Newton, according to their means. To meet the running expenses, the Hospital depends upon the interest from its small endowment fund, payments by or in behalf of patients, and this annual offering. In 1905 all these sources of income were less than the actual running expenses; and, as the number of patients is increasing, there is reason to fear that the deficit this year will be even greater.

Private patients are expected to pay something more than the cost of their care, and non-residents of Newton making use of the Hospital, pay cost. But, of residents of Newton who were treated in the general wards of the Hospital, in 1905 but 5 per cent. paid their full cost, remaining 95 per cent. being cared for wholly or in large part by charity. It is on behalf of this 95 per cent. that this appeal is made. They must suffer if it is not generally answered.

Contributions for the Hospital will be taken at all the churches in the city on Sunday, November 25, but, if you prefer to subscribe individually, kindly send direct to the Treasurer, Mr. G. R. Pulsifer, 20 Birch Hill Road, Newtonville.

During the past year the new kitchen and changes in the Administration Building have been completed; and these increased facilities will make possible better administration of the Hospital work, and add to the comfort and welfare of patients. By the completion and occupancy of Ellison Hall an increase in the number of nurses in the Training School has been made possible. This enables the Hospital more freely to supply pupil nurses for services in private homes, and, under the auspices of the District Nursing Association, to carry further and enlarge that useful branch of charitable work. The general wards of the Hospital are more and more used by patients paying nothing, or a small amount per week, for their care and treatment. Consequently the demands upon the resources of the Hospital are greater, and the expense of its maintenance constantly increasing.

The Executive Committee invite the citizens of Newton to visit the Hospital and see for themselves, that they may appreciate the work carried on in their midst in relieving the ills of suffering humanity. The Committee appreciates the serious character of the work it has undertaken in behalf of all the citizens.

It endeavors to perform this as well as it is able, and it is always ready to make clear what has been done and to receive suggestions for improvements.

The Newton Hospital Aid Association, in fulfilling its mission of furnishing and assisting in the maintenance of the Hospital, has kept in close touch with its work along all lines. No one who has not done so can possibly appreciate the amount of self-sacrificing labor freely given, not only by our devoted physicians, but also by those in whose hands lies the responsibility of managing the funds and controlling the affairs of the Hospital. No private enterprise could have been carried on with greater care or closer attention to detail than were the building operations of the last two years.

The Harriet Gould Paine Domestic Building and the additional rooms connected with it have added immeasurably to the comfort of the patients by insuring better cookery for the sick and more convenient and rapid serving, while to the capable corps of workers within the Hospital the benefit of greater space and better facilities is incalculable. Within and without the affairs of our Hospital are in competent and efficient hands.

The report of the Finance Committee shows that the percentage of charitable work done by the Hospital during the past year is much larger than ever before. It has been the pride of our city that our worthy poor, when overtaken by sickness or accident, should receive not only what was barely necessary for their recovery, but should be made as comfortable as their condition permitted. It is most earnestly hoped that by increasing their subscriptions our citizens will enable the Newton Hospital to maintain the high standard which has characterized its work in the past.

Police Paragraphs.

Carl A. Reichert, 23 years old, a painter living at 409 Langley road, Newton Centre, was convicted in the police court Monday morning of assault upon Miss Mary Thornton, a pretty dressmaker living at 63 Cemetery avenue, Newton Centre, and was sentenced to 11 months in the house of correction.

Because of a mistake in the date named in the complaint upon which Reichert was arrested Judge Kennedy was obliged to quash the complaint after Reichert had pleaded not guilty and a new one, naming Nov. 6 as the date of the alleged assault, was issued.

Miss Thornton appeared in a comely walking suit and a bright red hat. She was the first witness. She testified she was on Walnut street near Dedham on the way to a house when Reichert came out of the woods and grabbed her and made a proposal, using her roughly for a few moments.

"I pulled out a hatpin to defend myself and he then went ahead of me," she said. "In a few minutes he came back to me, took hold of me and repeated the proposal. I got away from him and hurried to a house."

Miss Thornton testified that the assault occurred in a lonely part of the street and that no other persons were near at the time.

A painter living in Newton Centre testified that he saw Reichert alight from a Boston & Worcester car at 7:07 and cross to the left hand side of the street.

Reichert denied all knowledge of the assault and said he had not seen Miss Thornton since he worked painting her home a year or so ago. He asserted that he rode to Wellesley on the 7:30 car that day, and did not alight from the 7:07 electric near Walnut street.

When questioned as to his previous record, Reichert admitted that he had been arrested in Boston for the larceny of a watch and was fined $30, and in October was arrested in Boston for larceny and fined $20. A few years ago he was arrested in this city for disturbing the peace.

In summing up Judge Kennedy said in part: "There is no doubt but that the defendant is guilty. The assault occurred in a lonely part of the city, Reichert took hold of the young woman and tried to force her into the woods, and she resisted with all the weapons she had at her command."

"The young woman is entitled to a great deal of credit for coming into court and prosecuting the case. If others had as much courage to prosecute in similar cases there would be fewer such offenses."

A sentence of 11 months was then imposed. Reichert appealed and after being ordered held in $2000 bonds for the December term of the superior court he decided to withdraw the appeal and take the police court sentence.

Convicted of having committed a serious offense and of having chased an Auburndale woman until she was forced to seek refuge in the Woodland Park hotel, Patrick Ahearn of Natick was sentenced to 30 days in the house of correction when arraigned in the police court last Saturday.

Associate Justice Copeland heard the evidence in a private session held in the judge's room. The Auburndale woman testified that she was near Commonwealth avenue and Washington streets when Ahearn, who was under the influence of liquor at the time, made himself objectionable and gave chase to her.

An employee of the hotel kept Ahearn outside the hostelry and another summoned the police. He was arrested on a statutory charge and for drunkenness. In court Saturday morning the drunkenness charge was placed on file, and for the other offense he was given 30 days in the house of correction.

Associate Justice Copeland thanked the woman for coming to court to testify. "It is my duty to other people to testify in this case," was her reply.

James W. Dodd, 25 years old, living at Main and Washington street, Gloucester, was convicted in court Monday of larceny of $18 from William Fuller, a pupil in the Waban preparatory school at Waban, and was sentenced to the Concord reformatory.

A man said to be associated with Dodd's father in business in Gloucester appeared in behalf of the young man, and stated that Dodd was not obliged to steal the money but attributed it to illness the young man had undergone.

Dodd admitted going into Fuller's room during a football game Saturday and taking the money. He had been a pupil in the school last year. Inspector Fletcher, who made the arrest, testified that Dodd tried to throw suspicion upon another student.

Claffin Estate Purchase

Within $18,000 of the required $58,000 for the purchase of the second section of the Ex-Gov. Claffin estate in Newtonville, which is being raised by popular subscription, has been raised, according to a report made by Charles S. Dennison, in the mass meeting held in Temple hall Newtonville last Saturday evening.

Congressman John W. Weeks, Ex-Congressman Samuel L. Powers, Gen. Charles W. Bartlett, Robert S. Gorham, Charles E. Kelsey and Frank A. Day, spoke in favor of the movement. The meeting was under the auspices of the Newtonville improvement association and there was a large and representative audience.

Marcus Morton was the presiding officer, and the speeches bristled with good humor which kept the many listeners in good nature. Chairman Morton welcomed the gathering in the name of the Improvement association. Incidentally he said the annual dues for men in the association are $1, with women admitted for half price, although why this distinction was made he said he could not explain.

Henry Whitmore explained a map of the Ex-Gov Claffin estate, which it is hoped to soon make the civic centre of the city, and recalled that the first section had already been bought for athletic purposes for the high school students.

He said the section which will next be bought and presented to the city consists of about 390,000 feet, and that the entire three sections make an area practically the size of the Boston public garden.

Alderman Frank A. Day was introduced as the first speaker. He painted a word picture of the Claffin estate closely built upon and contrasted such a possibility with the beauty spot which a large number of citizens are trying to make of the place. He said it was gratifying his own pride to work for the movement.

"Gen. Bartlett, despite his troubles with plumbers and other household annoyances of that kind, has found time to devote to the movement," said he. "The general is one of our newest residents but if he wants any office in Newton, even to an aldermanship, I will now vote for him even if he runs against Moran," he declared and 300 people looked at Gen. Bartlett and laughed good naturedly.

Charles E. Kelsey of Newton Centre said the estate was needed as a site for a new library, swimming school, gymnasium and a manual training high school. He reported that Newton Centre had raised $6000 of the $10,000 pledged by that village.

Robert S. Gorham of West Newton said the people of that section wanted to see something coming their way in return for their effort. He believed they would be well repaid, and he reported that his ward had raised, also, $6000 of a total of $10,000 it will eventually secure.

Congressman Weeks branded himself as a fairly live politician and Ex-Congressman Powers and Gen. Bartlett as two "dead ones." When the laughter died down he explained that he, however, had great respect for the dead.

"This proposition seems to be to buy up all the vacant land in Newtonville," he said. Then, seriously, he added: "Newton has done more than any other city in the state for its citizens, and I have confidence in the people of Newton that they will rally to the movement to buy the entire Claffin estate." He said he believed that if Newton is not the best city in the state it makes the other cities work nights to keep up with it.

Ex-Congressman Powers was received with applause which lasted fully five minutes when he was introduced. He suggested that Congressman Weeks might well afford to buy the whole of the property with his "magnificent" salary as congressman and present the estate to the city, thereby saving a lot of trouble in raising the required money by subscription.

"In these days we believe in athletics," said he, "and we have got to provide a satisfactory place for them." Mr. Powers cited the establishment of the Newton club in Newtonville as the beginning of the real movement to make that centrally located section the civic center of the city. Referring to certain remarks made previously by Mr. Day Ex-Congressman Powers said that Newton Corner, where he lives, needs no village improvement society. "My neighbors had enough influence with me to make me paint my house when I did not think it needed it," he declared, "and only last year no less than three neighbors wrote to me to have my place cleared of brown tail moths. There is no room for a village improvement society in Newton Corner."

Gen. Bartlett, the last speaker, warmly advocated the purchase of the historical estate as a site for an athletic field and future public buildings. He made a witty reply to the good natured thrusts of his republican political opponents, and was warmly applauded.

Charles S. Dennison reported that amounts raised by villages not previously heard from were as follows: Newton Corner, $12,000; Auburndale, $21,000; Newton Highlands, $620, making a total of $40,000 now secured.

Mrs. Allen

Mrs. Alice H. Allen, widow of the late Lyman Allen passed away Friday after a short illness at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Vine D. Baldwin, on Lexington street, Auburndale. She was born in Barre 81 years ago and when a young woman removed to Agawam where she married Lyman Allen, at that time a prominent figure in political circles in Hampden county and for several years a representative in the state legislature. She is survived by three children Mrs. V. D. Baldwin and F. R. Allen of Auburndale and C. A. Parker of Worcester. The funeral was held from the Church of the Messiah Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, the full Episcopal service being used by the rector Rev. John Matteson. The choir sang "Peace Perfect Peace," "Lead Kindly Light" and "Abide With Me." The remains were taken to Agawam on Monday for burial.

November 1.

Editor of Newton Graphic:

Dear Sir:

I was interested in your recent effort to have the tax on water meters abolished, and I notice with regret that you seem to have abandoned the subject. You must remember that sometimes it takes a long time to arouse public interest and demand, but when once awakened it is irresistible. If the tax on water meters is unnecessary, it is unjust and must be done away with. By the way what has become of the agitation looking to the joining of our local Post Office to the Boston postal system? After being annoyed by inquiries as to "Where is Newton Station, Newton Centre, Mass?" "What is it, sort of a cross roads?" and "We thought you were located in Boston" I adopted the plan of mailing the business letters I write in the evening at my home, next morning in Boston. I find on inquiry that very many of my friends are doing the same, though in some instances it is a decided disadvantage, the late collections in Newton being quite a convenience. All those who do business in Boston will soon come to this as the Government has asked for bids for one and two cents stamps in which the name of the post office at which they were sold is to be "overprinted" on them. What think you is the Government trying to do make the suburban postal system even more unsatisfactory to the business man? Join our post office to Boston. Why not invite a public discussion of this matter?

Business Man.

Tablet Unveiled

At Eliot church last Sunday morning a bronze tablet was unveiled which contains the following inscription: "Ministers Honored and Beloved who died in the Service of this Church, Lyman Cutler, Installed October 25, 1854, Died April 28, 1855. William Henry Davis, D. D. Installed April 14, 1896, Died June 7, 1905. The act of unveiling was performed by Hon. Henry E. Cobb for the church and Mr. Arthur W. Porter for the William H. Davis Club. Rev. F. S. Hatch preached a sermon appropriate for the occasion and the William H. Davis Club was present in a body.

One of the recent Sunday issues of the Boston Post contained a very interesting article about the splendid opportunities which competent stenographers have in the business world. In commenting upon this article, the secretary of Burdett College, Boston's leading business school, says that the demand for trained stenographers grows greater each year. He further states that any ambitious young man or woman who will equip himself or herself for a stenographer's position can be sure of obtaining one with excellent prospects of advancement. Burdett College is centrally located at 18 Boylston Street, corner of Washington Street. This school has reason to feel proud of the grand work which it accomplishes year after year in placing young people in line for business success.

High School Notes

In a closely contested game in which the result was in doubt up to the last few minutes of play Newton high defeated Brookline high, 12 to 6, on the Newton A. A. grounds last Friday, practically clinching the championship of the Preparatory school league.

The contest was sensational and was witnessed by one of the largest crowds of spectators which has gathered on the grounds in a twelve-month. A wet field put both teams to a disadvantage, but each aggregation put up an excellent contest.

The star play was made by Safford, Newton high's right tackle, who made a run of 105 yards for a touchdown in the second half. Brookline had the ball within five yards of Newton's goal when the visitors dropped it. Safford got the pigskin and made the sensational run, which was one of the prettiest plays seen here this season.

Both teams showed excellent all round team work, Newton high showing up particularly well as a result of hard practice the past week under "Dan" Hurley of Harvard, captain of last year's Varsity team. Of the individual men Ely, Porter, Burrage and Safford played the best game. For Brookline Capt. Aetcher and Howe were the star players.

When Safford made his long run with the ball the big crowd of Newton spectators went fairly wild with enthusiasm. After the game they seized Safford and carried him off the field, cheering lustily.

A crowd of about 200 high school students then formed in line and marched to Newtonville, counting the winning score and cheering the various players until they were hoarse.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

The regular meeting of the aldermen last Monday night was marked by the passage of two important pieces of legislation, the revision of the city ordinances, and the budget for 1907 carrying a total appropriation of over $1,100,000. These two matters were passed expeditiously, and the board adjourned shortly after nine o'clock.

President Carter was in the chair and all were present save Aldermen Bowen, Hunt and Palmer.

Mr. John Whalen appeared at the hearing on his own petition for removal of tree on Derby street and there was no opposition.

No one appeared at the hearings on petition of the Telephone Co for one pole at Cypress and Parker streets and of the Gas Light Co for 4 poles on Aberdeen st.

Mayor Warren's appointment of Alfred M. Russell, the new Agent of the Board of Health, as a constable was confirmed.

Hearings were ordered for Dec. 3 on petitions of the Telephone Co to enlarge its conduit on Washington st. near Centre place, for attachments on Hawthorn ave. and on Langley road, of the Gas Light Co for poles on North Gate Park and on Newtonville ave., of C. B. Fillebrown for removal of tree on Bellevue st., and on Dec. 17 on petition of Fred M. Lowe to keep gasoline. Petitions of estate of Wm. Claffin to move building across Lowell ave., of Elliot Kempton for minor's license and of Barney Bimundo for street musician license were referred to the License Committee.

After a recess for committee meetings, on favorable report of the Committee on Public Works, orders were adopted authorizing removal of one tree on Richardson street, authorizing Mayor to allow use of the old Wade School house by the Upper Falls Improvement Society, taking land for sewer in Ossipee road and Shawmut park.

On favorable report of the Finance Committee a grant of $14,038 was made for city expenses to Dec. 15, and the estimated receipts for 1907 were formally adopted.

On report of the Committee on Rules the ordinances of 1906 in printed form were passed to be ordained.

The report of the Finance Committee on the estimated expenditures of 1907 was then received and considered in conjunction with the form of order recommended by the Committee. This report followed the form recommended by Mr. Harvey S. Chase, the public accountant, and is known as the Uniform Municipal Method. The only discussion on the entire appropriation of $1,102,009.05 was upon the item of $2000 for Conveyance of pupils in the School Dept. Alderman White in behalf of Alderman Bowen who was detained at home by sickness, offered an amendment appropriating that sum into three parts, $500 for Oak Hill, $750 for Chestnut Hill and $750 for the Homer st. district. The amendment was debated by Aldermen Weston, Bishop, Doherty, Day, Bosson, Stone and Hall, the argument being that the School Committee was granting 35 children in the Chestnut hill district four car rides each school day at an expense of $1000 while 60 children at Cork city were given but two car rides a day at an expense of $500. The amendment was opposed on the ground that the school committee had better knowledge of conditions and should appropriate the amount as they deemed wise. The amendment was defeated and the order was then adopted as recommended by the Finance Committee.

A resolution was then adopted requesting the School Committee to expend the amount for Conveyance of Pupils without regard for precedents and as they should deem equitable.

On motion of Alderman Day a vote of thanks was given Mr. Harvey S. Chase for assistance rendered in connection with the report of the Finance Committee.

The important items in the new budget are as follows: Board of aldermen, printing, $2100; City Clerk department, $3650; City Messenger department, $400; Mayor's office, $9000; Auditing department, $3450; Treasury department, $4128; Assessing department, $14,750; Law department, $4600; City hall, $3895; Elections and registration of voters, $8075; Public Buildings department, $22-

410; Police department, $76,881.75; Armory, $875; Fire department, $57,102.50; Inspection of Wires, $7,407.50; Health department, $30,655.50; Sewer work, $11,500; Engineering department, $11,800; Street department, $101,400; sidewalks, $13,000; Snow and Ice, $7000; Street Light, $52,500; Street watering, $17,000; Moth work, $5000; trimming trees, $2500; Charity department, $23,360; School department, $261,055; Library department, $20,050; Water works, $113,270; interest, $285,257.90; serial bonds, $13,000; sinking funds, $101,500.

The total of $1,102,009.05 is $4,404.50 more than the mayor recommended, the finance committee adding two new police officers, and $2500 more to the street account than the mayor.

When going in on a shopping trip to Boston, do not neglect a visit to Charles E. Lauriat Co's handsome new Bookstore opposite the head of Franklin St. They are now much nearer the shopping district than when in their old store opposite the "Old South" and besides that the new store in itself is one of the sights of the city. It is as convenient as it is handsome and is already beginning to put on its holiday appearance.

Higher Wages

The Boston Elevated Railway Company announces another increase of wages beginning January 1st, next. This increase affects nearly 5300 men, and will amount to $160,000 a year. This is in addition to the system of reward for good conduct, amounting to about $600,000 per year, and the pension system, both of which will be continued. The new rates established are as follows:

SURFACE LINES.

Conductors and Motormen.
1st and 2nd year $2.30 per day.
3rd, 4th and 5th years, $2.35 per day.
6th to 10th years, $2.40 per day.
11th to 15th years, $2.45 per day.
15th and later, $2.50 per day.

ELEVATED LINES.

Brakemen.
1st and 2nd year, 19c per hour.
3rd, 4th and 5th years, 19½c per hour.
6th to 10th years, 20c per hour.
11th to 15th years, 20½c per hour.
15th and later years, 21c per hour.

Guards.
1st and 2nd year, 21½c per hour.
3rd to 5th years, 22c per hour.
6th to 10th years, 22½c per hour.
11th to 15th years, 23c per hour.
15th and later, 23½c per hour.

Motormen.
1st year, 23½c per hour.
2nd year, 24½c per hour.
3rd, 4th and 5th years, 26c per hour.
6th to 10th years, 26½c per hour.
11th to 15th years, 27c per hour.
15th and later years, 27½c per hour.

All other blue uniformed men, as well as Elevated Station Masters, get, according to their length of service, a corresponding increase.

In addition to the above increases, all extra men, both surface and elevated, receive an increase of twenty-five cents a day in their guaranteed minimum pay. For example, an extra surface conductor or motorman who is now guaranteed $10.50 a week, whether he works or not, provided he reports for duty as required, will be guaranteed by the new arrangement, $12.25 per week. If he actually works, he is, of course, paid according to the rate established.

Not long ago, the Company established a new class called Instructors, who receive ten cents a day additional pay, so that a surface conductor or motorman, who is an Instructor and also receives the reward, may get as high as $2.65 per day, and an Elevated motorman, $2.90 per day. For snow work and extra hours, as high as 40 cents per hour is paid.

The Company continues to pay the expenses of the two Mutual Aid Associations, so that everything contributed by the men is net to themselves. Since the pension system was established three years ago, some fifty aged or infirm employees have been placed on the roll.

when coming in to Boston should not go home without taking a look at our new store, opposite the head of Franklin Street. You will find it much more convenient to the shopping district than our old stand opposite the "Old South." Also you will find it a store simply delightful to visit — so many choice things to see and all so arranged that you can get at them just as easily as we can. There is no "Behind the Counter." Incidentally, Christmas is coming soon and it is not a bit too early to look around and see what is available. Our counters are already putting on their holiday appearance.

An illustrated holiday catalogue will be ready in a few days — put in your application now and have one mailed to you, free, when it comes out.

Literary Notes

Fiction appropriately flavored with the Christmas spirit, is the predominant feature of the Woman's Home Companion for December. Mary E. Wilkins contributes in "The Gift of Love" a typically Wilkins picture of New England as we have learned to see it through her delightfully entertaining stories. Temple Bailey also writes with a holiday flavor in "The Christmas Storm." Other fiction in this number is contributed by Juliet Willor Tompkins, Jean Webster, Alice Brown, Julia Truitt Bishop and Grace S. Richmond. An important feature of the magazine is a hitherto unpublished poem by the late Eugene Field entitled "The Old Blue Bear and the Rabbit." Its writing is described by Frederick S. Field, a son of "Gene" Field, who was the "rabbit" of his distinguished father's poem.

Among the special articles are "Christmas Thoughts" by Dr. Edward Everett Hale, "Woman's Share in the New Child Labor Program" by Samuel May Jr. and "Easy-to-Make Christmas Presents" by Grace Margaret Gould. There are several clever poems by Wallace Irwin, Edmund Vance Cooke, Clinton Scollard, and Samuel Minturn Peck, and a Christmas play in verse by Katharine Pyle, Howard Pyle's sister. The departments form an unusually strong and attractive feature in this number.

The Christmas McClure's contains some of the most varied, picturesque, and striking material which the magazine has ever gathered together in a single number. Perhaps the most interesting single feature is an editorial article in which a life of Mary Baker G. Eddy and a history of Christian Science are announced, to begin in January. Christian Science is a movement on which all eyes are turned today, and the announcement that a true history of this great romantic movement and its leader is forthcoming, marks an excellent stroke of magazine policy. Another chapter of the Carl Schurz Reminiscences recalls his first journey to the new crude West, a visit in London, and his first hearing of Jenny Lind and of Wagner—a remarkable musical experience described with great poetry of feeling. Lincoln Steffens relates the story of Judge Lindsey's splendid triumph in Denver, and C. P. Connolly tells how the Clark men failed in their attempt to handle the Supreme Court of Montana, and of the memorable scenes at the investigation of Clark's election at Washington.

Whereas a petition has been presented to said Court to grant a letter of administration on the estate of said deceased to James Mullen of Waltham in said County or to some other suitable person.

Clure fiction this month with "Little Bo-Peep," the tragic story of a little Russian child. "Clancy of the Jack-Pot," by C. F. Holder, is a remarkable human document, relating the adventures of a sloop-runner. "On the Ridge," is one of Mrs. Cutting's most clever and delightful studies of married life. W. B. MacHarg contributes a touching story of the Chicago slums. Another "Zenith" tale, by Mrs. Wilson Woodrow, a delicate piece of impressionism by George Allan England, and "Lily-Ann," by Florence Tinsley Cox, the understanding study of a child, complete the list of fiction. Eden Phillips contributes some characteristic verse, "Winter Sunrise," and Florence Wilkinson appears with a remarkable "Salutation to Russia," which will probably be the most quoted poem of the year.

BELGRADE RUG COMPANY.
Worn-out and cast-off carpets are not useless, after all. The Belgrade Rug Company, at 32 Hollis street, Boston, Mass., have a way of re-making them in such a way that they not only make a beautiful appearance but that they prove durable in the use of them. Don't throw away your old carpets when they seem hopeless. See what the Belgrade Rug Company can do with them, no matter how torn and unattractive. They issue a circular which states briefly what goods make the handsome rugs, etc., as well as price list and shipping directions.

THUMB SUCKING EVILS

Are not generally understood. It is truly surprising how quickly the soft gums unsustained by teeth will yield under the steady pressure of the thumb or finger and thus cause crooked teeth and misshapen mouth.

This habit very frequently deforms babies tender mouth, and may even prevent him from speaking plainly by depressing the nasal cavities.

With the possibility of a child reaching the age of ten or twelve years before relinquishing this habit it behooves parents to use the means now at hand and effect an early cure

Better Service

The new switchboard of the Newton West telephone exchange was put into service at 11.45 o'clock last Saturday night. The occasion brought out a large number of officials connected with the company and the young men in charge of the work were warmly congratulated on the success of the affair. Of the 550 lines which enter the new switchboard, but four showed "trouble" when the cutting over occurred and the four were promptly corrected. It is said that this is the lowest proportion of "trouble" of any switchboard recently put in operation. The new switchboard is operated on the light system which has been in use in the South and North exchanges for sometime. The lifting of the receiver from its hook causes a light to glow at the operator's desk and thus calls attention to the subscriber's needs. It was interesting on Saturday evening when the word had been given to "cut over" to see the flashing of lights all along the switchboard as the electric current entered its new channel. For many weeks the telephone employees have been working on the switchboard as well as on the subscribers' telephones and it is needless to say they are proud of the success of their labors.

A lunch was served shortly after midnight and it was in the wee, small hours that the party sought their homes. Mr. Percy Fuller will be the manager of all the Newton exchanges in the future, instead of having a manager in charge of each exchange.

In view of the improvement which can now be introduced into the service and the marked success of the canvassing campaign just closed it is predicted that by January 1, 1908, there will be connected with Newton West not fewer than 1,250 subscribers. The present number is 1015.

The statistics of traffic are indicative of the importance of the telephone in the daily life of West Newton. The average number of calls per day is 5,189 originating at the Newton West exchange; from other offices to Newton West, 3,266. The busy hours is between 9.00 A. M. and 10.00 A. M. when 381 calls are handled, representing 11.2 per cent of the total day's traffic. The number of operators who handle this lively business is 10. Each Newton West subscriber of whom there are 1.9 to a line, sends in an average of 5.2 calls a day.

No suburban exchange has better connections than Newton West. The total number of direct circuits or "trunk lines" as they are called, joining this with other exchanges is 104, of which 44 run to metropolitan Boston offices and 60 to suburban offices. The heaviest traffic is with Newton North which is connected with Newton West by 17 trunk lines over which in one day recently there passed a total of 2,243 calls.

Keen political observers agree with the prediction made in the GRAPHIC last week that the republican nominees for ward aldermen in Wards 3 and 4 will need every vote that the party can drag
to the polls. The democratic nominees are both popular men who can not only hold every democratic vote, but will draw every member of that party to the ballot box. The republicans can win if they can get out the full vote, but the natural disinclination of that party to vote except under compulsion, causes considerable anxiety over the result.

With an off year election the liquor question is apt to receive scant attention.
Urge your neighbor to go to the polls
and vote NO.

Correspondence

To the Newton Graphic, Newton, Mass.
Gentlemen:-

May I ask a limited space in your columns this Thanksgiving week to return
thanks to the many friends of the Pom-roy Home who have so generously remembered and responded to its needs with liberal money contributions recently.

Should this method be inconvenient to many who still desire to assist us in some way, we beg to remind such friends that clothes and shoes which our own children
have outgrown, or fruit and vegetables
from our gardens will all serve the same purpose as cash in the general expense of supporting the 17 girls from 7 to 16 years of age now being cared for in our Home.

They would also appreciate magazines and useful books adapted to their age.

Those of your readers who will call at the Home and see the good work being done there will be its most loyal supporters.

Sincerely yours,
O. M. Fisher, Treas.

A very enjoyable evening was spent
by the guests who were fortunate enough to be present at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar H. Hurd, Auburndale, last Saturday evening, at the celebration of their twenty-five years of happy wedded life. The evening was very pleasantly passed with music and singing, and many beautiful and costly presents were received, for their circle of friends is a large one. Light refreshments were served, and the men were treated to some good cigars.

Guests were present from Lynn, Salem,
Beverly, Prides Crossing, Newton, Roxbury, Brookton, and other places. The guests departed at a late hour, after offering their congratulations, all vowing
that they had passed a most delightful evening. It was remarked, by many,
that if appearances counted for anything,
the couple would surely live to celebrate their Golden Wedding.

Their union has been blessed with two children, the older, Mr. Leroy B.
Hurd, twenty years of age, and the younger, Chesleigh D. Hurd, fourteen years, both fine appearing young men.

25 Years Wedded.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Hyatt, formerly of Newton, but now of Wollaston, observed their silver wedding last Saturday afternoon and evening. Their intention to limit the celebration to their immediate relatives was cleverly frustrated by their many friends, and a genuine surprise party took place in the early evening when a number of friends from Newton and Leominster took possession of the house and incidentally expressed their regards with numerous gifts of silver. Mr. and Mrs. Hyatt were married in Fitchburg, Nov. 24, 1881 and since then have resided in Watertown, Brookline and Newton. For the past ten years
Mr. Hyatt has been the popular and efficient foreman of the Graphic office and has a wide circle of friends in this city.
Mr. and Mrs. Hyatt have three children,
Alfred W. Hyatt of Newton and Miss Florence E. and Ralph W. Hyatt who reside with their parents.

Concert

A representative audience filled the assembly hall of the Hunnewell Club Tuesday evening when a grand concert was given by the following talent: Miss Marie E. Howe, soprano; George H.
Drew, baritone; Miss Emma L. Sladen, contralto; Lohair L. Van Buskirk, boy
soprano; Miss A. Laura Tolman, cellist;
Miss Nellie W. Swan, pianist; Dudley
W. Fitch, accompanist and Herbert W.
Pierce, character artist. The program was an excellent one, each artist performing his or her part with great care, showing careful training, and there was generous applause. The program was under the direction of Mr. Dudley Fitch and Mr. William F. Banks was the business manager. The proceeds will be given to the various societies connected with Grace Church.

Field Day.

Prof. George H. Barton who is delivering the Read Fund course of lectures,
this year, took out a party of ladies and gentlemen for a geological tramp, last Friday afternoon, through Cabot's woods and beyond in Newton Centre. The object in view was to examine the Glacial Moraines and the results of Glacial action, in that vicinity. Newton furnishes abundant evidence of Glacial action. Middle is a typical ground moraine or Drumlin, and was formed beneath the ice
sheet; and is composed of boulder clay holding water like a sponge. Cabot street cuts through another variety and is composed of sand, gravel and boulders. He led the party through Cabot's woods,
along an irregular, tortuous ridge, a fine
specimen of a Moraine, and explained
how Moraines are formed in the glaciers
—in the cracks and crevices—V shaped and where the ice melted they were changed to an inverted V shape by the falling down of the sides. These Moraines are not fertile and are mostly valuable for growing wood and timber.

There were rivers in the ice sheet or Glaciers and beneath, and many of the river beds of today carried off the water
when the Glacier melted away.

The Remington Typewriter Company have recently placed a large number of its latest model machines in the Typewriting Department of Burdett College of Business and Shorthand, 18 Boylston
St., Boston. This is the one large institution in Boston which makes a specialty of training stenographers by the genuine touch method of typewriting. Burdett College not only qualifies its students
for good positions, but also places them
in such through the medium of its own Employment Bureau. Students go for many miles to obtain the advantages which this school offers for technical training along business lines. Although no superior teaching can be had at any price, yet President Burdett believes in popular rates, and so charges but $37.50 per term for the regular $45 course.
This College is located at the corner of Boylston and Washington Streets, and being right in the heart of the city, is very accessible.

Miss Hastings Dead

—Miss Eliza Watson Hastings, daughter of the late James Hastings, and for the past ten years a member of the family of Mr. Joseph B. Rogers of Walker street, died Thursday of last week after a short illness. She was a native of Boston, where she was born 73 years ago.
Funeral services were held from the house Saturday afternoon at one o'clock, conducted by Rev. R. T. Loring, and were attended by many friends. There were numerous floral tributes. The burial was in Mt. Hope cemetery.

Before an audience which well filled
Bray hall the young people of the Church of the Sacred Heart, Newton Centre, gave a musical entertainment Wednesday evening which was replete with novel features.

One of the most interesting was a "watermelon" sketch given by the Misses Priscilla Vachon, Margaret King,
Margaret Comick, Margaret McInerney,
Katherine Foley, Mary White, Margaret
Asbell, Claire DeRusha, Nellie Ducey, Delia Connors and Master Charles Ducey and Master Edward Ducey.

Another feature was a Colonial minuet under the direction of Miss Elizabeth
F. Levi, given by Misses Annie McMahan, Julia King, May O'Kane, Margaret Waters, Annie Mullen, Mary Barry, Ella McGrath and Edith Moore, and Messrs. Lawrence Barry, Dennis Foley, Francis Higgins, Alphonse Desmond,
James McInerney, John King, James
Mullen and John W. McGrath.

In a song cycle entitled "Flora's Holiday" nine old English melodies were rendered, there being four solo voices.
The solo parts were rendered by Miss Adalyn M. Riley, soprano; Miss Bertha Barnes, contralto; George H. Boynton, tenor; and Earl Cartwright, baritone.
Other specialties consisted of a sketch
from the Rogers Bros. by the "famous novelty four"; soprano solo, "Haymaking," Miss Theresa A. Mahoney; song,
"I'm the Only Star that Twinkles on Broadway," Miss Mamie O'Donnell;
violin solo, "Adoration," Miss Anna J.
Simpson; song, Miss Mary V. Donovan,
and piano selections by Miss Mary W.
Simpson, Miss Mildred Levi and Mrs.
Myrtle Morse.

The various numbers were well executed and received warm applause. In the minuet old Irish dances were introduced. The entertainment was one of the most successful given in Newton Centre in several months.

About Town

Among the prominent Newtonians
who are interested in the project of "over the counter" insurance are Mr. Thomas
B. Fitzpatrick, now of Brookline, Mr.
Henry H. Carter of Newtonville, Rev.
E. T. Sullivan of Newton Centre, Mr.
Charles P. Hall and Mr. J. Richard Carer of West Newton.

West Newton telephone service is vastly improved this week. Improvement has long been needed.

Ward 5 democrats have elected Timothy J. Galvin as a member of their ward committee. As there are two men of that name in the ward the puzzle is to know which one the democratic voters
meant to elect.

The Newton train to the football game
last Saturday made such poor time that the party did not reach the field until the first half was nearly finished. Wrong directions where to find the train on the return caused about twenty to miss it altogether. There is much indignation expressed over the poor service rendered a special train for which an extra fare had been paid.

The managers of the Newton District
Nursing Association hold a bridge whist

noon. Mrs. S. L. Powers is in charge.

Injured at Shoddy Mill

Michael Delancy, 51 years old, living
on Washington street, Newton North Falls, was seriously injured this morning
by being caught in a shafting in the Sullivan shoddy mill at that place, where he was employed as a foreman. He sustained internal injuries and badly bruised
his hip. He was attended by Dr. O. S.
Schofield and removed to the Newton hospital, where he is in a serious condition.

Frost--Moulton

Miss Alice M. Moulton, daughter of
J. Frank Moulton, and G. Howard Frost Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Howard Frost of West Newton, were married in Wellesley last evening.

In the presence of a few intimate friends and relatives the ceremony was performed by Rev. W. W. Sleeper, pastor of the Wellesley Congregational church, at 7:45 o'clock at the home of the bride, 22 Cottage street. Miss Inez
F. Moulton, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Frederic A. Frost, brother of the groom, was best man. The groom is a well known landscape gardener. He has been organist of the Wellesley Congregational church for sometime.

Football

Newton high won from Brookline high, 8 to 0, for the second time this season in a practice game played on the Newton A. A. grounds, Newton Centre, yesterday morning, before 1500 spectators.

The contest was hard fought by both teams. Some of the Brookline men had claimed that when Newton high won from Brookline high 12 to 6 a few weeks ago it was not by the merits of the game. This served to arouse the Newton high players to play with more enthusiasm and the contest was highly satisfactory to the many local supporters of the team.

Forward passes were worked with considerable success by both teams, although Brookline high failed at least once to score by a narrow margin. For Brookline high Daniels and Aechter played a superior game, while for Newton high Porter, Paul and Ely were the star players.

In an annual football game between the Lincoln A. A. and Newton Independent teams of this city played on the Cabot park grounds yesterday afternoon the Lincoln A. A. aggregation was declared victor, 5 to 4, after an argument which threatened to bring the players to blows.

The score stood at the end of the first period 4 to 0 in favor of the Newton Independents. W. Sullivan having scored a goal from the field. The second half had been under way but a few minutes when Cavanaugh, Lincoln A. A.'s right half back, made a 40-yard run for a touchdown. Cavanaugh ran through a crowd of Lincoln A. A. "rooters" who closed in after him, allowing him to make about half the distance protected by the crowd. Before starting the game it had been agreed that the running track at the edge of the gridiron should be the boundary of the field, but the field was not roped off.

The game came to a close when Cavanaugh scored the touchdown and referee Donahue decided that it should count. A warm argument ensued between the two teams, in which many of the spectators joined.

Although policemen could not state in the police court Wednesday morning what speed Mr. F. E. Stanley made in an automobile on Watertown street Friday afternoon he was convicted of running the machine at excessive speed and fined $15.

In many ways the case was one of the most interesting automobile cases which has been before the local court in several months. A squad of police under Sergt. Thomas C. Clay were operating a "trap" on Watertown street about 3:45 Friday afternoon, when Mr. Stanley came through the course in an opposite direction from that in which the time of rapidly moving machines was being taken. It is said that the machine he was in was a new one which was being tested.

The several policemen who saw the machine were unable to tell how fast it was going but they all agreed it was proceeding at a very rapid speed. Sergt. Clay testified that he never saw anything go so fast before. He said he had much experience in timing automobiles the past few months and considered himself a pretty good judge of speed, and to the best of his judgment the car made 60 miles an hour. He said there was one child and three vehicles on the street at the time.

"I was behind my barn when I heard the exhaust of the automobile. I ran out to see what it was and all I could see was a red streak going up the street," said William W. Wells, who lives at 835 Watertown street.

Mr. Stanley pleaded not guilty. After the foregoing testimony had been heard he said he had so pleaded because he was not endangering anyone and had the car under control.

Auburndale.

—Mr. Almon Adams of Oxford, cousin of the late John Adams, has been appointed administrator of his estate.

—At the church of the Messiah last Sunday afternoon Bishop Lawrence preached the sermon and administered the rite of confirmation on nine candidates. Next Sunday evening at 7.30 o'clock a choral service will be held.

The "Stabat Mater"

Eliot church was crowded to the doors last Sunday, the occasion being the annual presentation of Rossini's cantata "Stabat Mater" by the church choir.

The high standard of music maintained at the Eliot church has become proverbial and the vespers services, particularly on the last Sunday of the month during the winter season, always attract large audiences. It is doubtful if ever there were present so many choir sinners and musicians as at last Sunday's performance, many of whom probably came to hear Miss Josephine Knight, the new soprano, in the initial test of this difficult and taxing work. Nor were any disappointed. Miss Knight's singing was a revelation of her ability and capability. Both in the duet and the thrilling "Inflamatus", she displayed vocal qualities of high character, technique of fine finish, and an intellectual interpretation. Miss Griggs' rendition of the "Fac ut Portem" was a splendid contribution. The demands of the solo were admirably met and it is rarely one hears a more pleasing and resonant voice. Mr. Hunt displayed a little nervousness in the "Propeccatis" but gave a masterful reading of the succeeding bass solo with chorus. The "Cuius Animum" was effectively sung by Mr. Daniels. The work of the chorus was thoroughly commendable and reflected credit upon the choirmaster and organist, Everett E. Truette, whose playing was pronouncedly a feature of a remarkable performance.

Claffin Guard Notes

About 200 couples attended the annual Thanksgiving dance held in the armory yesterday afternoon and evening by Co. C, 5th regiment, M. V. M., guests being present from Watertown, Waltham and Boston. Private Sennott was floor marshal. Copt. Wenmouth was floor director, assisted by private Keylor. The aids were privates Wallace, Chivers, Burke and Roughtan.

At the shoot held at the Lexington range yesterday morning, Private G. W. Young was high man making 40 of a possible 50 bulls eyes at a distance of 200 yards. Private T. C. McPhee was second with 37 and Private Bryden Chivers third with 36. High wind made the shooting extremely difficult.

Jennings--Morgan

Miss Abbie S. Morgan the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Morgan of Newton became the bride of Mr. Charles D. Jennings of Weston, last Tuesday evening. The ceremony was performed at 7.30 o'clock by Rev. A. S. Twombly of Newton. The bride wore a travelling gown of cinnamon brown and carried brides roses. She was accompanied by Miss Elta G. Harrington of Newton, as maid of honor, wearing pink muslin and carrying a bouquet of chrysanthemums. Mr. Clifford Jennings of Weston was the best man and the ushers were Mr. Chester D. Morgan and Miss Hazel Hills. A reception followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Jennings will reside on Glen road, Weston, where they will be at home after January 1st.

NEWTON. $25.

Steam heated apartments in modern apartment house, 4 rooms, kitchen, dining room, parlor, and chamber, central hot water, open plumbing, janitor service, etc., rent reduced from $35 to $25. We also have 6 room suites with all modern conveniences, rent $30.00.

Have You A Cold Room?

In most houses there is a room without proper heating facilities—to say nothing of chilly hallways. Even though the heat of your stoves or furnace should be inadequate to warm the whole house there need not be one cold spot if you have a

PERFECTION Oil Heater

(Equipped with Smokeless Device)

It will heat a room in no time and will keep it warm and cozy. Operated as easily as a lamp and perfectly safe. Wick cannot be turned too high or too low. Gives no smoke or smell because fitted with unique smokeless device. Can be carried about, which cannot be done with an ordinary stove. The Perfection Oil Heater is superior to all other oil heaters and is an ornament to any home. Made in two finishes—nickel and brass. Brass oil fount beautifully embossed. Holds four quarts of oil and burns nine hours. Every heater warranted. An ornament to any room whether library, dining-room, parlor or bedroom. Write to nearest agency for descriptive circular.

THE Rayo Lamp is the safest and best all-round household lamp. Made of brass throughout and nickel-plated. Equipped with latest improved burner. Every lamp warranted. An ornament to any room whether library, dining-room, parlor or bedroom. Write to nearest agency if not at your dealer's.

Biscoe -- Slocum

Miss Agnes E. Slocum, the daughter of City Solicitor Winfield S. Slocum and Mr. Maurice B. Biscoe of Denver, Colorado, were quietly married at the home of the bride, 424 Walnut street, Newtonville, last Saturday afternoon. The ceremony took place at 4 o'clock in the presence of the immediate families, the nuptial knot being tied by the uncle of the bride, Dr. William S. Slocum of Denver, Colorado, assisted by Rev. Jay T. Stocking, pastor of the Central Congregational church. The bride, who is a graduate of Smith College was accompanied by Miss Mary Hollings of Newtonville and Miss Frances Jones of Swarthmore, Pa., as bridesmaids. Mr. Howard Biscoe of Newton Highlands, brother of the groom, was the best man. A reception to about two hundred intimate friends followed until six o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Biscoe being assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Slocum, Mrs. Biscoe and Mrs. Howard Biscoe. Mr. and Mrs. Biscoe will reside in Denver, Colorado, where the groom is in business as an architect.

Boy Hurt

The left side of the scalp of Thomas Mullaney, 9 years old, son of Patrick Mullaney, a coachman living on Cedar street, Newton Centre, was torn off by being struck by an automobile on the Commonwealth avenue boulevard at Newton Centre about noon Saturday.

The boy sustained other serious cuts and bruises, and he is in the dangerous list at the Newton hospital. With four small boys the Mullaney boy was playing on a banking about 10 feet above the thoroughfare on the south side of Commonwealth avenue, near Cedar street. Suddenly they started to race down the incline, when an automobile going at a fair rate of speed came along that side of the roadway. The incline was so steep that the boys were unable to turn back, although they saw the machine coming towards them. Four of the boys crossed the street as far as the car tracks in safety, although they barely missed being hit.

According to the story told by the lads companions the Mullaney boy was out of breath when he reached the middle of the south side of the boulevard and came to a stop. He turned back and then started on again towards his companions a few feet ahead.

The automobile struck the boy fairly, throwing him with such force that the scalp was torn from the left side of his head.

E. M. Hallett of Centre street, was running the machine at the time and no blame attaches to him. He hurried to the injured boy and took him in his automobile to the office of a Newton Center doctor.

The physician found that the lad was in a critical condition and after doing everything possible to relieve his pain he had him hurried to the Newton hospital in an ambulance.

Clubs and Lodges

Tennison Rebekah Lodge will work the initiatory degree on candidates in Odd Fellow's hall, West Newton, Tuesday evening, Dec. 4th. On Dec. 18th the same degree will be worked before the Grand Officers and Assembly officers.

At the meeting of Newton Lodge A. O. U. W. to be held Tuesday, Dec. 11th in Society hall, Newton, officers will be nominated for the coming year.

Mrs. Delaney

Mrs. Annie Elizabeth Delaney, wife of Francis P. Delaney, passed away on Monday aged 36 years. Funeral services were held from her late residence on Emerald street Thursday morning at 8.15 high mass following at the Church of Our Lady at 9 o'clock. The burial was in Calvary cemetery, Waltham.

Entertainment Club

The first performance of the Entertainment Club, for the season, will take place in Channing church parlors, Newton, Wednesday evening, December 5th. The three act comedy "Bachelor Hall," will be presented and the excellent progress made at the rehearsals promises a finished performance. The scene of the play is laid at Bachelor Hall, the Washington home of Mr. Myrtleton, a member of Congress and a man with political aspirations. Amateur theatricals are being given and much of the fun of the piece is Mr. Myrtleton's efforts to keep two country deacons, from his district, in ignorance of what is going on, during their call, fearing to shock them and through their loss influence with his constituents at home. The excellent cast is made up of Mrs. Charles J. Brown, the Misses Mary F. Cox, Madeline B. Dyar and Amy C. Dyar and Messrs. Ernest W. Wright, Leverett Bentley, Frank H. Hart, Horace C. Harrington, William Plant, Philip H. Ball, Herbert H. Howe and Dr. Leslie H. Naylor.

The clientele of the New England National Bank is of the highest grade and the officials of the bank are energetically seeking to increase its efficiency and extend its business, believing there is a wide field of usefulness for an institution of this character. Personal attention to the needs of its customers and the especial care and accuracy given all details of banking, are features which are employed in this institution. The Bank is located at the corner of Milk and Devonshire streets, Boston, and has a capital, surplus and undivided profits of nearly two millions of dollars.

Woman's World

Conducted by MISS GRACE M. BURT.

The next meeting of the Social Science Club will be the monthly business session. Important business to be acted upon.

The Conference of Presidents of Federated clubs will take place at Hotel Vendome, Boston, on December 8, at two o'clock. Plans for the next Biennial will be discussed.

At the meeting of the Newtonville Woman's Guild on December 4, Dr. Clapp will speak upon "Modern Methods of Treating Pulmonary Tuberculosis." The program is in charge of the Hospital Committee.

The meeting of the West Newton Women's Educational Club on Friday, November 23, was largely attended. Mrs. E. N. L. Walton gave a brief talk upon "Voice Culture." These talks will be continued during the winter at alternate meetings, while Mrs. Anna L. Bailey will give a short parliamentary drill at the intervening meetings.

The afternoon's program was in charge of the Art and Literature Committee, Mrs. I. T. Farnham, chairman, and consisted of a dramatic recital of Bernard Shaw's "Candida." Miss Chamberlain has been heard with pleasure several times in Newton, but this was her first appearance before the Education Club. Before opening the reading of the play she spoke briefly of the work of Shaw and his place in literature. She considers Shaw a satirist and that he has expressed great truths beneath the satire. He shocks that he may awaken. The character of Candida, she considers, as the type of the best sort of modern woman. It is necessary to look beneath the lines for the interpretation. The play has been much misunderstood. Miss Chamberlain's rendering, however, brings out the meaning beyond doubt, and her impersonations of the different characters was most excellent. Tea was served during the social hour at the close.

The next meeting will be held on December 14 when Miss Helena S. Dudley of Dennison House, Boston, will speak upon "Social Settlement Work." This meeting will be open to the public without charge. In connection with the program there will be a sale of fancy and useful articles, cake and candy, the proceeds for the benefit of the club. The members are asked to contribute one or more articles, cake or candy, which may be sent to the church on the morning of the meeting.

The Newton Ladies' Home Circle will hold its next meeting Wednesday, Dec. 5, at the Pomroy Home, Hovey street, Newton. Each member who attends is requested to donate a package, containing groceries of some kind, to the Home.

The Pierian Club held its last meeting at the home of Mrs. Edith Cooper, Newton Highlands. Although the day was stormy, a large number were in attendance. After the business was transacted the program was left in the hands of a social committee, who had prepared games for all to take part in. Mrs. S. A. Thompson and Mrs. J. K. Hemphill were the lucky ones in the guessing contests, the former receiving a picture, and the latter a book, as first prizes. Music was furnished by Mrs. Locke and Mrs. Cooper. Refreshments were served and after a social chat, all voted it a most pleasing afternoon. The committee of arrangements were Mrs. Dresser, Mrs. Halliday and Mrs. Nutter.

The Monday Club of Newton Highlands met at the home of Mrs. G. W. Bail of Walnut street, on Monday afternoon, Nov. 26. A large number gathered to hear Mrs. Anna T. Bush, one of the vice-presidents of the State Federation, upon "Sarah Orne Jewett." Violin solos were rendered by Miss Spaulding with Mrs. Simpson as accompanist. Light refreshments were served and a social time was enjoyed. The club will meet next week with Mrs. Robbins of Dickerman road.

A meeting of the Newton Mothers' Club was held Monday, Nov. 26, at the home of Mrs. C. A. Duvall, on Lenox street, West Newton. Mrs. A. P. Maynard read a very interesting paper on literature for children, and Mrs. A. S. Woods gave a fine review of children's books, both old and new. A number of the newest books were kindly loaned for the afternoon by the publishers, which added very much to the enjoyment of the afternoon.

The Athurndale Review Club met on Nov. 27 with Mrs. Theodora and spent an enjoyable morning under the direction of the day's committee, Miss Hunt, Mrs. Wilkey, Mrs. Walker, Mrs. Spaulding, and Miss Williams who illustrated with beautiful photographs from the Newton Library Art Collection, their papers on Leonard's Genius and Drawings, Raphael's Life and Receptive Nature, Raphael's Vatican Decorations, and Religious Pictures, Portraits, and Cartoons.

Next Monday evening at First Baptist church, Newton Centre, Mr. John Hermandt will present a very excellent program for his twelfth recital in the above church. He will be assisted by the splendid baritone, Mr. A. F. Deighausen of Mr. Loud's quartette choir. This recital will be one of the best so far given, including as it does works from Handel, Mendelssohn, Gounod and others. The complete program follows:

1. Fourth Organ Concerto Handel (First Movement)
2. Contemplation in G flat Capocci
3. Aria for baritone, "It is enough" (from "Elisjah") Mendelssohn
4. Fourth Organ Sonata Mendelssohn a. Allegro con brio b. Allegretto c. Allegro Religioso d. Allegro misterioso e. Adagio f. Allegro f. Dvorak (Nos. 3, 4 and 7.)
5. Solos, "Bibliche Lieder" Dvorak
6. Caprice in B flat Gounod
7. Improvisation Lennent
8. Hosannah!

Organ Recital.

A meeting in behalf of the work for the Negro and Indian at the Hampton Normal and Industrial Institute will be held at Eliot church this evening at 7:45 P. M. The Assistant Chaplain of the school, Rev. E. L. Chichester, will explain its purpose. Thomas C. Walker, born a slave, trained at Hampton as a teacher and farmer, will give some interesting facts from his own experience. Charles Daxson, the other graduate speaker, is an Ojibwa Indian, and was the first of that race to work his way through the school. The Hampton Quartet will sing plantation songs.

Col. Bliss Dead.

Col. Edgar J. Bliss, for the past eight years a resident of West Newton died quite suddenly last Saturday noon at the Newton Hospital, to which he had been removed but a few hours before from his rooms at the Brae Burn Country club. Death was attributed to an acute attack of nephritis. Col. Bliss was born in Brandon, Vt., in 1842 and enlisted from that town in Co. G of the 12th Vermont Infantry, under Capt. E. J. Ormsbee, who afterwards became Governor of the state. While Col. Bliss served but nine months, that period of service took him thru the battle of Gettysburg where his company was a part of the famous Standard brigade. He was mustered out July 14, 1863, and after aiding his father in business in Brandon for a short time, removed to Boston, where he became interested in the Howe Scale Co. His newspaper and literary work began about this time and for some years he was editor of the Berkshire Courier of Great Barrington. In 1898 he again came to the eastern part of the state and became perhaps the best known of the state house correspondents. His bright and interesting letters to the Graphic under the caption of "Under the Gilded Dome" have been widely read in this city and endeared him to many who did not have his personal acquaintance. His honorary title of colonel came to him as a member of the staff of Commander in Chief Veazie of the Grand Army. He was a member of the Vermont Association, a member and past president of the Vermont Veterans Association, a member of Gettysburg post, No. 191, G. A. R. and an honorary member of the Western Republican Association.

He was twice married, a daughter, Mrs. Joseph Winchell of Northampton and his second wife, who was Miss Kittie Luke and one son, Tyler Howe Bliss, surviving him.

Col. Bliss was a man of high character and rare personal charm. His snow white hair and ruddy countenance combined with a gentle and loving disposition attracted many friends in all circles of life.

Funeral services were held in the West Newton Unitarian church on Monday afternoon at two o'clock and were attended by many who truly mourned the loss of a dear friend. Rev. Julian C. Jaynes conducted the services and the pall bearers were his brothers, Messrs. Charles and Fred Bliss, of New York, and Messrs. Arthur F. and Otis H. Luke, brothers of Mrs. Bliss. The burial was at Mt. Auburn.

THEATRES

Keith's Theatre.—Arnold Daly will be the head-liner at Keith's the week of December 3rd, presenting the Bernard Shaw playlet, "How He Lied to Her Husband," one of the brightest things ever written by the master of modern wit and satire. The character played by Mr. Daly is one of the best things he has done since he became recognized as the leading comedian of the current stage. Mr. Daly will be capably supported by Miss Isabelle Urquhart. A more delightful turn than Harry Gilfoil's portrayal of "Baron Sands," with his wonderfully clever imitations, can hardly be imagined. He is always a welcome visitor. J. K. Murray and Clara Lane, who are great favorites with Bostonians who care for light opera, have a new sketch they are to present, called "A Knight at Home." Other acts booked include Fred Ray and company in a very mirthful travesty skit; Lester and Acker, whose new character act, "The Little Immigrant" is one of the hits of the season; Mareena, Navarro and Maecena, acrobatic comedians; Van Cleve and Wentworth, knockabout humorists, with their unridable mule, "Petie"; Mlle. Nadji, a daring trapezist, with a most pleasing stage presence; the Sharp Brothers, who excel as dancers; McGren and Poole, who give a marvellous exhibition of rifle-shooting; Tom Moore, a great singer of coon songs; Pearl Danforth, a pretty soubrette; Cogan and Bancroft, who do a comedy turn on roller skates; Pearl and Diamond, two swell comedienne, and the Kinetograph. On Monday, December 10th, Mrs. Langtry will make her debut in Boston vaudeville.

Orpheum.—The final appearance in Boston of Albert Chevalier, the great character artist, will make a leading feature of the bill at the Orpheum next week. The great popularity this clever artist enjoys in this vicinity ensures a series of record audiences at the Orpheum next week. The engagement of Lafayette, the great entertainer, will be continued for a second and last week, with changes in his program which will without doubt add to the amusement of those familiar with his famous illusions. Among the other names on the bill next week are those of Maude Lambert, the Piccolo Midgits, Billy Clifford, the Barber-Richie trio and the Kronemann Brothers, all good people.

Fair.

A fair was held last week Thursday at the Methodist church at Upper Falls under the direction of the women of the parish. There was a large attendance. A pleasing program of nine numbers was given by Misses Randall and Mrs. E. M. Slade of Chelsea, pianists; Frank Tucker of Chelsea, bass soloist; Miss Florence Whipple of Brookline, violinist; Mrs. Edith C. Cooper, soloist, and Mrs. Ruth Anderson of Boston, reader. The program concluded with the "Angels' Serenade," rendered by Mrs. Cooper and Miss Whipple. There were a number of prettily decorated tables, which were well patronized. The children's table was in charge of Mrs. Thomas E. Lees and Miss Grace Pettit. Misses Elsie Dyson and Helen Randall had charge of the candy table. The fancy and household tables were in charge of Mrs. William Glover, Mrs. Charles Mills and Mrs. Sampson Shaker.

A meeting in behalf of the work for the Negro and Indian at the Hampton Normal and Industrial Institute will be held at Eliot church this evening at 7:45 P. M. The Assistant Chaplain of the school, Rev. E. L. Chichester, will explain its purpose. Thomas C. Walker, born a slave, trained at Hampton as a teacher and farmer, will give some interesting facts from his own experience. Charles Daxson, the other graduate speaker, is an Ojibwa Indian, and was the first of that race to work his way through the school. The Hampton Quartet will sing plantation songs.

Burglars

One of the biggest robberies which has occurred in this city in many months became known Monday morning, when it was discovered that about $1000 worth of jewelry was stolen from the house of Frank B. Hopewell, 9 Billings park. Entrance was gained by means of false keys during the early part of the evening while the family was absent. The house was thoroughly ransacked, it is believed, but so far as the occupants are able to determine jewelry alone was taken. Most of the property belonged to Mrs. Hopewell, and included several gold rings, several diamond rings, two gold bracelets, a gold watch, stick pins and a number of less valuable articles. A conservative estimate of the value of the stolen property is $1000.
It is thought here that the house may have been entered by the same gang which recently went through the house of Mrs. Arthur Hunnewell at Wellesley while Mrs. Hunnewell and two visitors were at dinner on the lower floor. The robbery at the Hopewell house was conducted in somewhat the same manner as that at Wellesley. In both places the thieves took nothing but jewelry.
A man captured in Arlington on Wednesday giving the name of George Williams is believed to have been connected with the Hopewell break.
